Sal-Muscatelle is Nature's own product. It supplies to the system the want of sound, ripe grapes and fruit; it is the simplest and best preventive and cure for all functional derangements of the liver and kindred ailments; prevents the absorption of mal arial diseases—fevers of all kinds; counteracts the effects of bad air, poor drainage and impure water; a powerful exydizer of the blood; a natural specific for all skin cruptions, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness, mental flepression, and will remove the effects of accidental indigestion from excessive eating and drinking. Have it in your homes and on your travels. It is a specific for the fagged, weary and worn-out.

A representative of the Herald, however, who has made inquiry respecting the statue, has learned that the figure was presented to Mr. Samuel Gilbert, of Boston, about thirty years ago by his relative and intimate. effects. Mr. Gilbert placed it upon a mound of earth in his garden at Dorchester, where he then resided, on the estate now occupied by Mr. Edwin H. Sampson. Ball Hughes, the sculptor, examined it while it wis thus located, and appropriate the made necessary by a decreased appropriation bill.

He did not, however, fancy its position on a mound, and said to Mr. Gilbert that he ought to have placed it on the lawn in front of the house and in view of the street. Upon Mr. Gilbert remarking that he would have done so had it been of marble instead of wood, the sculptor said it did not matter of what material the statue was made, as many fine figures were of wood. The statue is six feet in height, in Mr. Webster's favorite and usual position in a drawing-room, and represents of the United States one term, was recalled by his death, and half-masting the flags on public buildings in this city on the day of his funeral. Mr. Wheeler, after retiring from office, like Hayes, his principal in the theft of the Presidency in 1876, dropped from public regard, the contempt and exerciation of all truly honest men, living position in a drawing-room, and represents him as he looked a few years before his death. Its bearing is at once graceful and dignified, and were it chiseled from marble instead of carved his mind and body became the easy HOSIERY, TRIMMING &c. Boots & Shoes chiseled from marble instead of carved from wood it would long ago, doubtless, have occupied a most prominent position in some public place. It was probably carved for the figure-head of a ship. On Mr. Gilbert's removal from Dorchester, a number of years ago, he presented the figure to his removal ative, Mr. George M. Soule, of Hingham, who had always admired it. It was then taken to the town named and placed in its present position on the land of Mr. Soule. The latter gentleman died several years since. The figure is painted white, and were it not to the city are the famous Corcoran Art origin in an Italian marble quarry, in-stead of tracing its lineage back to the
