POGONIP AND CHINOOK.

Remarkable Climatic Phenomena of the Great Basin Region.

The "pogonip" is a Nevada phenomenon, while the "chinook" belongs to Montana. The whites first made the acquaintance of the pogonip about twenty years ago, when they went to White Pine County, at the time of the striking of the almost pure silver on Treasure Hill. Treasure City, on the peak of Treasure Hill, thousands of feet above the level of the sea, is the true home and stamping ground of the pogonip. The pogonip, so feared, is a sort of frozen fog that fills the air at times in winter. It often appears on the clearest and brightest of days, coming suddenly from no one knows whence. In an instant the air is filled with floating needles of ice. To breathe the pogonip is death to the lungs. When it comes people rush to cover. The Indians dread it as much as the whites. They discovered the pogonip long ago. Pogonip is an Indian word, the very sound of which describes the phenomenon to which it is applied. It is the same with the Piute word for cold. The word is "oo-zoot-zoo," and is full of shake and shiver. The pogonip appears to be caused by the sudden freezing in the air of the moisture which collects about the summit of high peaks.

To stand in a valley a mile or two below and look up at the top of a mountain on which pogonip has appeared is a sight beautiful and peculiar. In all directions the cloudless heavens are a deep, calm blue—if a color can be said to be calm. The top of the peak is hidden in the pogonip, which is as brilliant under the light of the sun as those parhelia seen about the sun in Artic regions, but it is a moving, shapeless mass of luminosity. From this glittering cloud bright streamers are often seen stretching away from the mountain peak, that look like the wavering and flashing wires that are shot upward by the aurora borealis. These ribbons of fiery light stretch away in a direction opposite to that from which the wind is blowing. They are evidently shreds and strips of the pogonip that are torn off and wafted away by the gale.

On the top of the mountain the poponip is so dense that one can see through it to the distance of only a few yards. The air is filled with minute and slender crystals of ice. These striking together produce a slight, continuous rustling sound. Breathed into the lungs they prick like needles. The phenomenon of the pogonip is to be seen in winter in very many places in Nevada about the tops of high mountains, also about most of the tall peaks all through the Great Basin region.

While the coming of the "pogonip" is dreaded, the advent of the "chinook" is heartily welcomed. The chinook means warm weather. It is a phenomenally warm south or southwesterly wind that strikes down into Montana, Idaho, and other northern and snowy regions lying east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and even into the regions far to the eastward of the Rocky mountains.

It is in a mild way a sort of sirocco; but is without the noxious qualities of the sirocco that blows from the Libyan deserts into Italy and Sicily. It appears to be a mixture of the dry, heated air of the deserts of Arizona and New Mexico, rising and mingling with the warm but moister breezes moving eastward off the Pacific Ocean. Somewhere in the upper regions—high above the tops of all the mountains—these currents of air meet, mingle, and finally descend upon the snowclad regions of the north, just where they are wanted and prayed for.

Before the chinook the snowdrifts melt as before a blast of hot air blown through a tube and directed against them. As if by magic, the snowy covering of the hills and valleys disappears. The atmosphere is everywhere warm and balmy. So much moisture has been taken up by the air during the process of melting away the snow that the breezes are soft and sweet as those of spring.

When old winter howls and prowls through the territories of our northern neighbors, and the whole face of the country lies buried in snow, no wonder that we see in their newspapers so many appeals to the "clerk of the weather" to send then the "blessed chinook."—Dave de Quille, in Virginia Enterprise.

Good Fences on the Farm.

Many an animal becomes breachy because of the carelessness of the farmer in looking after his fences. A board gets loose or broken, and this not having been attended to at once, the animal gets out of the inclosure. Having once done this the beast is more apt to try again, and finally even a good strong fence will not restrain it. The cheapest and best way is to build a good fence in the beginning, and then see that it is kept in good repair, so none of the stock will be tempted to get over it or break it down. Animals kept in lots surrounded by good fences are not likely to become unruly, and if one should be obtained that has acquired this habit, it will be found better to dispose of it, lest it not only prove a source of constant annoyance, but also be the means of making others in his herd troublesome.—National Live-Stock Journal.

—House servants in Germany are poorly paid, and work hard. Their duties begin frequently before daybreak and continue sometimes till past midnight. The floors must be scrubbed every other day, and the windows every week; for this a broom is not known, but a brush is the article used. For her services a servant gets only about sixty cents a week.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATIONS.

STATE OF OREGON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SALEM, Sept. 1, 1887.

By the authority vested in me by the legislative assembly of the State of Oregon, I, Sylvester Pennoyer, governor, do hereby submit to the legal voters of the State, at a special elect on hereby called to be held on Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November, 1887, the following proposed amendments to the State constitution.

FIRST—PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

SECTION 1. The manufacture, sale, or the giving away, or the offering to sell or give away, or the keeping for sale, of any spirituous, vinous, malt, distilled, fermented, or any intoxicating liquors whatever in this State, medicinal, scientific, mechanical purposes.

SEC. 2. The legislative assembly shall provide by law in what manner such liquors, or any of them, shall be manufactured or sold, or kept for sale for medicinal, scientific, or mechanical purposes.

SEC. 3. This amendment shall take effect and be in full force in six months from the date of its rectification by the electors.

SEC. 4. The Legislative assembly shall without delay pass all necessary laws with sufficient penalities necessary to enforce this amendment.

SECOND—AMENDMENT TO SALARIES OF STATE OFFICERS.

Article XIII.

SECTION 1. The governor, secretary of State, treasurer of State, judges of the supreme court, and all State officers of this State shall receive an annual salary of such a sum as the legislative assembly shall hereafter by law for each of such officers provide; provided, that when the legislative assembly shall have by law fixed the salary of any such officer, such salary shall neither be increased or diminished during the term for which the incumbent of such office shall have been elected or appointed.

THIRD—AMENDMENT TO TIME OF HOLDING GENERAL ELECTION.

Article II.

SEC. 14. General election shall be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, biennially.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Oregon to be affixed, this 1st day of September.

SYLVESTER PENNOYER, Governor

By the Governor:
GEO. W. MCBRIDE, Secretary of State.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit court of the state of Oregon for Douglas county.

E. F. Whistler, Plaintiff vs Andrew J. Burnett, Defendant. } Motion for leave to issue execution.

To Andrew J. Burnett, above named defendant.

In the name of the state of Oregon you are hereby summoned and required to appear and answer the motion of plaintiff for leave to issue an execution in the above named cause, now on file with the Clerk of said court on or before the 10th day of October 1887, it being Monday the first day of the next regular term of said court to be held at the Court house in Roseburg in said Douglas county, Oregon. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said motion as herein required the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded therein to-wit: That plaintiff be permitted by said court to have execution issued in this cause, on plaintiff's judgment against defendant heretofore recovered for the sum of seventeen hundred and sixty-two dollars and fifty cents and for the costs of this motion.

This summons is published by the order of Hon. R. S. Bean, Judge of the above named court which order is dated August 15th, 1887.

J. W. HAMILTON, Plaintiff Attorney.

Administratrix Notice.

Perfect Hair

Indicates a natural and healthy condition of the scalp, and of the glands through which nourishment is obtained. When, in consequence of age and disease, the hair becomes weak, thin, and gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will strengthen it, restore its original color, promote its rapid and vigorous growth, and impart to it the lustre and freshness of youth.

I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a long time, and am convinced of its value. When I was 17 years of age my hair began to turn gray. I commenced using the Vigor, and was surprised at the good effects it produced. It not only restored the color to my hair, but so stimulated its growth, that I have now more hair than ever before.—J. W. Edwards, Coldwater, Miss.

Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers.

IF YOU ARE SUFFERING from debility and loss of appetite; if your stomach is out of order, or your mind confused; take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine will restore physical force and elasticity to the system, more surely and speedily than any tonic yet discovered.

For six months I suffered from liver and stomach troubles. My food did not nourish me, and I became weak and very much emaciated. I took six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was cured. —J. M. Palmer, Springfield, Mass.
