MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1889.

SALAMAGUNDI.

The expensive session of the last legislature leads the Oregonian to remark:

The legislature was the most expensive one the state has ever had. Secretary of State McBride estimated the cost of the session at $40,000, and the legislature, to make due allowance for any discrepancy one way or the other, appropriated $42,000 for the purpose. This amount, It has been found, will not cover the cost of the session, which will be somowhere between the amount appropriated and $45,000, as compared with $40,435 in 1887, $30,000 1873, and $12,000 in 1868.

And also the same journal continues in the same strain:

Committee clerk hire for the late legislative session aggregated $15,000, thus beating the record of the previous session by about $4000. Clerks come high, but the law-givers say they must have them, and the part of the dear people, their admiring constituency, is to pay for the luxury. It is said that the clerks employed this year were handsomer than those of former sessions. This being the case no grumbling is permissible.

As a matter of fact there was a shameless expenditure of money, and if our Governor had given some attention to these extravagancies going on under his eye he would have included these clerks in his veto message of the R. R. Commission bill when he said, that the state would be relieved of a great burden, and the R. R. Commission "Board and its clerk would also be relieved of all work, except the onerous work of drawing their salaries quarterly and riding on free passes all over the state."

WE notice that Mr. Connor makes a very severe charge in his communication against Joe. Simon and the Portland Republican ring, because they defeated every bill or proposition that looked to the amelioration of the laboring man, yet on the other hand, they favored the rich man at all times.

THERE is a lack of honest independence with many Legislators. The trade theory was quite apparent this year. "You vote for my measure and I will support yours" was a maxim of the last assembly in Oregon. This is far from commendable, and in some instances leads to downright dishonesty.

BRO. J. W. Watts has been "whitewashed" by the senate. That body would not believe Mrs. McPhearson, nor would they believe the affidavit of the young lady in reference to Watts' requirement of her to give him one dollar per day of her salary provided, he secured for her a clerkship, which he did. The East Oregonian talks thusly about the matter.

Senator Watts, of Yamhill, accepted twenty dollars as payment for his influence in getting the claim of Mrs McPhearson through the legislature. At the end of the session the charge was made against the senator, and he denounced it as an infernal lie, but Mrs. McPhearson mildly stated, in a womanly way, that she did promise the (dis) honorable "Fogg Horn" twenty dollars for his services. Did anyone ever hear of such baseness in a senator before? Senator Watts' term has expired and with it his usefulness to the people of Yamhill. He pretends to be a minister, is a temperance advocate, a lover of high moral ideas, and a member of the grand old party, yet he is found selling himself for twenty dollars and accepting that from a widow in needy circumstances. This is the man who wants to be United States marshal under President Harrison's administration. Will he be, is the question.

THE REVIEW'S new departure has met with such flattering success that we now find that when we begin the publication of our daily, that we will have to continue the semi-weekly, therefore we bid adieu to the weekly issues for good and for all. Weeklies, even as country newspapers, are to the public mind as vehicles for conveying the news, as the stage coach is to the traveling public for transporting goods or passengers. Both the weekly and stage coach are too slow in their respective orbits to meet the demands of this wide awake part of our country.

THE Herald says that we "imitate." Certainly we do. "Covet the best gifts," said a wise man. "Wise men change, fools never do." We believed you, and "imitated" you. Is it not right to "imitate" a good thing? While it is true that the Herald management has done some things in the last few years that we should not like to "imitate" and for which they are "sorry," yet we do not for a moment think that no good can come from them. They should not claim a monopoly simply because they enterprised the first plow. It is a good plow and we concluded to make one like with some modern improvements. We have done just that thing, and the only advantage they have over us is, they have a patent on their paper, and we have not.

THE TRAP SPRUNG AND CAUGHT HIM.

We abided our time and beautifully caught Bro. Benjamin. See how mad he gets in his last week's issue as follows:

THE REVIEW asks us to say yes or no to his question, did you not claim to be the editor of THE REVIEW? We say most emphatically no, and what is more we do not believe any one ever told you that we did any such a foolish thing.—Plaindealer.

Now the proof and truth is, Mr. Clare B. Irvin manager of the Capital Journal told us the circumstance and thought it was funny, that's all. Mr. Benjamin, (unless it was possibly Mr. Buick) did go into the office of the Capital Journal and introduced himself as the "editor of THE REVIEW." This was about the beginning of the last legislature. He inquired for Mr. Byars, and then indulged in a brief conversation with Mr. Irvin. Now Bro. Benjamin you ought to be ashamed of yourself to say that you "did not believe any one ever told us so." However, one of the heads of the Plaindealer firm is nailed at any rate. Read the following as more proof from last Saturday's Capital Journal:

Mistook His Own Identy.

One day, not long ago, a tall, slim gentleman, whose whiskers hung in modest drapery o'er his shirt front and waxed themselves to a point, called on this fount of knowledge and introduced himself as Mr.——— editor of the ROSEBURG REVIEW. As we knew it could not be Bro. Bell, grown so slim, and in such a very short time, too, we laughed, and he laughed, and corrected himself. He couldn't see why he should have said REVIEW when he meant Plaindealer. The joke was on him and it is over this that brother Bell and Benjamin are at war. So mote it be.

THE muddle into which the state has been thrown concerning this railroad commission business will be laid at the door of Governor Pennoyer. This could and should have been avoided by him. Even the Democratic papers of the state believe that the Governor erred in trying to handle this matter. The Benton Leader has the following:

The railroad commission is in a snarl. It is probable that Mr. Slater will contest the legality of his removal. The two commissioners appointed by the Governor will also probably sue for their places and salary attached thereto. Then if the Governor should appoint three more at the end of ninety days, they will sue. It will take the supreme court forty days and forty nights to untangle the mesh that has been woven by His Excellency.

The only point that we cared to press in our discussion with the Plaindealer and "Taxpayer" about one year ago was that Democratic administrations were not any more, and we believed less, expensive in running public affairs than the Republican administrations. We made our points good then, and this last legislature only confirms all of our statements, and hence the Plaindealer saw, and tacitly acknowledged that he was whipped. If we could only break that journal of the habit of wriggling and squirming and dodging the issues, we would do the people a great good.

THE ITALIAN CRISIS.

The resignation of the Italian Prime Minister Crispi is a more serious matter than an ordinary ministerial crisis. It means that the strain of war preparations on the resources of Europe is reaching the breaking point.

Signor Crispi has been an able and successful Minister. His countrymen have had confidence in him. But they simply cannot endure the increasing weight of taxation any longer. The Government last year spent $40,000,000 above its income, and it is unable to promise any lightening of burdens this year.

The worst of the situation is that nobody else can do any better than Signor Crispi. It may be possible to to withdraw from the Red Sea expedition, but the European expenses are bound to increase instead of diminish. New ships, new forts and new guns are imperatively demanded to meet those planned by Italy's rivals.

What is to be done? Is one Ministry after another to be overturned for no fault of its own, but simply because it is the unwilling instrument of a policy which the nation feels to be essential to its safety? Is Italy to abandon the attemp to hold its money by disarming?

Or will it decide to risk everything on one bold stroke and make use of its armaments while it can still find means to pay for them?—Examiner.

It is estimated that the public debt statement will show an increase in the debt for the current month of $7,000,000, caused by the excess of expenditures over receipts. And yet our contemporaries contend that Congress can go on indefinitely making all sorts of new appropriations without nearing the bottom of the surplus.—Ex.

$1.50 WEEKLY EXAMINER $1.50
No weekly paper published in the United States contains as much or as great a variety of good reading matter as the
WEEKLY EXAMINER.
The coming year promises to be crowded with stirring events.
In the United States the entrance of new issues into the political arena has been followed by a change of Administration. But the great economic question on which the campaign turned is still unsettled, and its solution is now committed to a Congress almost equally divided between the two great parties.
Europe is a vast camp. Army corps patrol the frontiers, and millions of men await the signal for the most titanic war ever seen.
THE EXAMINER'S news-gathering machinery is unequalled. Its correspondents dot the habitable globe. Nothing can escape their vigilance, and no expense is spared in spreading the results of their efforts before the EXAMINER'S readers.
The most noted writers of fiction in the world contribute to the WEEKLY EXAMINER. Jules Verne, Robert Louis Stevenson, Rider Haggard and Anna Katharine Green, have all written stories for the WEEKLY EXAMINER, and will do so in the future.
THE WEEKLY EXAMINER has established an Agricultural Department, in charge of a practical agriculturalist, who is the best writer in the United States on agricultural subjects. This department will contain sensible discussions of leading topics of interest to vineyardists, orchardists and farmers generally.
THE EXAMINER'S Commercial News is compiled by experienced men who carefully guard the producer's interests.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND
To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons, which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole rising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best Baking Powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean.
OUR TRADE MARK

ON EVERY PACKAGE.
CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ½ pound packages full 12 ounces net, Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.
