THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1889.
PRESIDENT HARRISON.

Today Benjamin Harrison is President of the United States. He is a man of integrity, and if let alone, will do his duty. It is our business to uphold the government by whomsoever administered. Let peace and good will prevail. The inaugural address was a good one, but that it was as vigorous, or in fact as scholarly, as Mr. Cleveland's, is doubtful. That we are to expect more at the hands of Mr. Harrison, than we have had in the last four years, in good government, will not in our opinion be realized. We believe Mr. Harrison will be hampered, Mr. Cleveland was not. Mr. Cleveland's one-ideaedness cost him his election, and Mr. Harrison's diffusiveness will weaken his administration politically. We are entirely safe however in the hands of either, and rejoice that we have so good a man for President of the greatest country on the globe as we have in Benjamin Harrison. The following are some of the comments upon the President's address.

President Harrison's inaugural address is a document of no very remarkable power, but is noticeable for the sharp contrast of its ideas throughout with those set forth in the public utterances of Mr. Harrison's predecessor. This address announces at once, by its tone, style and contents, that the government has been transferred from the hands of those who are devoted to Southern ideas and confederate politics; to the keeping of those who proclaim and uphold the great national ideas that are the outgrowth of Republican policy and Republican achievement, during thirty years past.—Oregonian.

Mr. Cleveland retires from the White House bearing the good-will and esteem of the people.—S. F. Examiner.

For the next year President Harrison will have more to fear from his friends than from his opponents.

The country is safe, no matter who sits in the White House.—Examiner.

President Harrison's inaugural is just such an address as might have been expected from such a man. Though dignified in tone, it is thoroughly partisan, and exhibits a tendency to cant in many places.—Alta.

New York, March 4.—The Tribune this morning says: "The strong and patriotic appeal of the President will go to the hearts and convictions of the American people and will produce results hereafter."

The Times finds nothing impressive in the remarks of Harrison, and thinks the tone and manner commonplace.

The Herald regards it as the deliverance of a sincere and extremely clear-minded man, and says there will be no shilly shally foreign policy.

CHICAGO PRESS COMMENT.

The Times says: "The President's address will entirely please his party and will not disappoint the opposition. Its form is admirable."

The News says: "The address shows that the President has carefully weighed the leading questions of the day, and while standing with his party on all of them he is yet an American who has the good of the nation at heart and realizes that he is President of all the people, both North and South. The policy outlined is wise and patriotic."

FOREIGN PRESS COMMENT.

WHAT THE LONDON PAPERS SAY OF PRESIDENT HARRISON'S ADDRESS.

LONDON, March 5.—The Morning Post says, concerning President Harrison's inaugural: "President Harrison's address is marked by commendable absence of bombast, and in fact marks the future tone of his national policy another element in the concord of the world will have been secured."

The Daily News says: "Gold had a more decisive influence on the late election than on any that has gone before. The rich on both sides virtually buy places in the administration by liberal donations to campaign funds. It is a form of the purchase system which bodes no good to the senate, and shows that civil service reform must begin at the very apex of the pyramid."

WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Harrison to-day sent to the senate the following nominations:
Secretary of State—James G. Blaine of Maine.
Secretary of the Treasury—William Windom, of Minnesota.
Secretary of War—Redfield Proctor, of Vermont.
Secretary of the Navy—Benjamin F. Tracy, of New York.
Secretary of the Interior—John W. Noble, of Missouri.
Postmaster-General—John W. Wannamaker, of Pennsylvania.
Attorney-General—W. H. Miller, of Indiana.
Secretary of Agriculture—Jeremiah Rusk, of Wisconsin.

We are willing to give bonds to do the entire clerical work of the next legislature, if we live so long, for $9,000, instead of the $15,000 that was paid by the last assembly, and for the same work done.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The kindheartedness of the patent was shown last Monday by pretending to its readers to clip a notice from the West Shore about the "improvements" of Roseburg, and yet "unpressed" the following items as always:

Recently the Baptist society completed the largest and finest church edifice in Southern Oregon. One of the evidences of growth is the fact that The Review has changed from a weekly to a semi-weekly paper, with promise of becoming a daily as soon as the conditions become more favorable. An upward tendency in all classes of real estate is observable, and is the necessary consequence of the growth and prosperity of the town.

Of course that is an honorable journal, and does things just right.

The Salem Statesman says that the Governor "is not pleased at our action because we turned over the keys to the legislative commission." Now we simply did our duty as we understood it, and under the same circumstances we would do the same again. The same paper says "that Bro. Bell will not likely be appointed clerk of the new commission," referring to the commission to be appointed by the Governor. Well, we neither would expect such an appointment, nor would we accept such an one, for many good reasons not necessary at present to state.

We might give a list of names that would be of interest to the people of those who have paid their subscription to THE REVIEW, and ordered it discontinued, but are still receiving the paper contrary to their wishes—Umpqua Herald.

We challenge the above statement as being false in every particular, and demand that the list be forthcoming, or go to the wall as usual.

The Oregonian thinks that Whitney, Secretary of the Navy under Cleveland, will be the Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1892. Mr. Scott thinks he will be stronger than Hill of New York. Either one will be elected, is the prophecy we make.

The Oregonian suggests that since West Virginia has now three Governors, Goff, Carr and Wilson, that Oregon trade one of her three R. R. commissions for one of West Virginia's Governors, then a better equilibrium of things would be established.

The bon ton girls of Salem received rather a flattering notice at the hands of the Mercury last Sunday, and from what we learn it was well and timely. The lady clerk business of the last legislature was a burning disgrace to the civilization of the present day.

Dr. Hawkins occupied his new office this week.
K. S. P. Dear of Roseburg spent Sabbath in our city.
We are obliged to mention the weather, it is delightful.
Affection is a greater enemy to the face than smallpox.
Elmer Palmer of Drain was visiting J. R. Dodge this week.
Miss Emma Smith, of Salem, was in Oakland Wednesday.
Rev. Father Clark spent several days in Oakland last week.
Mr. G. Burchard of Gardiner was in our city on last Wednesday.
T. A. Norton and Jack Wilson were in your city on last Tuesday.
A. G. Langdon of Elkton was in our city on last Saturday on business.
Rev. Mr. Sweny has changed his residence to the Manning house on Locust street.
E. N. Bradford and Mrs. Sam Long of Shoestring were in Oakland on Tuesday.
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Martin were transacting business in Oakland on Wednesday.
Mason Long the converted gambler lectured in the Baptist church on Wednesday night.
S. B. Carr of Scotts valley was in Oakland on Wednesday looking after his business interests.
Mrs. Julia Abraham and Albert Abraham were guests of Mrs. Richard Thomas on last Wednesday.
B. S. Cook has returned from his trip to Portland where he has been attending a meeting of the Grand Army.
A force of men are now at work fencing and otherwise improving the lot whereon the Christian church is to be built.
Mrs. Myrtle Bayless and her little son Clifford of Ellensburg, W. T. are visiting her mother Mrs. J. C. Hutchinson in this city.
Jack Nye, the line man of the Western Union, and judging from his "yarns" a cousin to "Bill Nye," was in our city on last Sunday.
Mr. A. G. Brown was in the city of New Orleans on the 4th day of this month, basking in the genial rays of a "bright Southern sun."
Messrs. Hogan and Guetty arrived here on Monday morning with their families from Kentucky. They will permanently locate near Oakland.
Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Gov. Chadwick and Mrs. Pitzer Smith, have returned from Elkton where they were attending their relative, the late J. L. Smith.
Wm. Woodson from near Drain station informed us yesterday that there are several cases of smallpox near that place. We hope the reports are exaggerated.
The party given on Monday evening by Mrs. Hall in honor of her husband (C. M. Hall's) 38th birthday was attended by a large number of invited guests, all of whom seemed to enjoy themselves very much. None can excel Mrs. Hall in making an evening pleasant for her guests.
A letter from Rev. Mr. Leonard states that his family has suffered severely from sickness since their return to Missouri. Their friends here will be pained to hear of this. From the tone of Bro. Leonard's letter, we know he would be glad to be in Oregon again. Arise ye Baptists and call him back.
Mr. Joseph S. Wilson of Arlington Dakota died very suddenly near Oakland on last Friday night. He was buried in the Masonic cemetery on Sabbath afternoon, with Masonic honors, in the presence of a very large crowd of sympathetic relatives and friends. Rev. Mr. Marcellus preached the funeral sermon in the Baptist church.
At our annual school meeting on last Monday P. B. Beckley and Geo. J. Stearns were elected directors, and Hon. John H. Shupe clerk. G. J. Stearns was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of D. W. Stearns. We feel strongly inclined to publish verbatim et literatim the speeches made on this occasion by Judge J. T. Bloomfield and Hon. D. W. Stearns but we forbear this time.

Bro. "Leon" of the Herald seems to "catch on" even without a detective. We did not know our style was peculiar, only for our awkward blundering way. We have no objections to being known. We simply use our nom de plume in obedience to a law of custom. We are well acquainted with "Leon" but will not mention his profession in order to assist the "curious" in finding out who he is. Call in and see us "Leon" you will always find us at our desk, or elsewhere as duty calls us. Shake 'em.

No weekly paper published in the United States contains as much or as great a variety of good reading matter as the WEEKLY EXAMINER.
The coming year promises to be crowded with stirring events.
In the political arena has been followed by a change of Administration. But the great economic question on which the campaign turned is still unsettled, and its solution is now committed to a Congress almost equally divided between the two great parties.
Europe is a vast camp. Army corps patrol the frontiers, and millions of men await the signal for the most gigantic war ever seen.
The EXAMINER'S news-gathering machinery is unequalled. Its correspondents dot the habitable globe. Nothing can escape their vigilance, and no expense is spared in spreading the results of their efforts before the EXAMINER'S readers.
The most noted writers of fiction in the world contribute to the WEEKLY EXAMINER.
Jules Verne, Robert Louis Stevenson, Rider Haggard and Anna Katharine Green, have all written stories for the WEEKLY EXAMINER, and will do so in the future.
The WEEKLY EXAMINER has established an Agricultural Department, in charge of a practical agriculturalist, who is the best writer in the United States on agricultural subjects. This department will contain sensible discussions of leading topics of interest to vineyardists, orchardists and farmers generally.
