NEW HAVEN, Conn. Jan. 2, 1890. Since coming to New England last fall I have been impressed with the vast difference which one will find both in the people and in the country. While we have the Chicaman and tramp in the west, there is the Italian here that is equal to any nuisance which the west can possibly afford. The Italian family work the entire force: the father and husband will have a twowheeled cart going about the street yelling the unintelligible words, "Kah par a rak," which, being interperted, means 'Cash paid for rags. One can find these rag venders in all streets of the city. The rag vender's wife will be sitting on some street corner trying to sell a two cent paper and the children will have some toy or tox of candy urging the passer-by to invest. It contains eleven studies of great subjects every month. It is impartial, giving hearings alike to each side. It is financially independent, and it belongs to no sect or party or "interest." It is never sensational, but it aims always to be instructive.

The Forum is of great value to that part of my college work which deals with practical politics and trent questions. Two sets are hardly enough for daily use by students.—Prof. ALFRED BUSHNELL

I consider THE Forem as furnishing the most intelligent and sympathetic audience that a thoughtful riter can find to address in any land.—Prof. ALEXANDER WINCHELL, of the University of Michigan. THE FORCE continues to hold its place as the foremost of our magazines, for the variety, the alue, and the weight of its contributions —THE NEW YORK TIMES.

There has come forward no problem of grave importance since THE FORUM was established that has not been discussed in its pages by masters of the subject. Announcements of forthcoming articles can seldom be made long in advance, for THE FORUM'S discussions are always of problems of present concern. Every such problem that the year 1890 will bring forward will be discussed, whether in politics, or religion, or social science, or practical affairs. The January number will contain a reply by ex-Speaker J. G. Carlisle to Senator Cullom's recent article on "How the Tariff
