A few loads shortened the rope so that it would not reach the side-walk, and packages had to be thrown down. A little judgment in such emergencies would have saved a great deal of labor.

La Grande Journal: Another whooping storm set in at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and continued unabated throughout the day. The snow fall was very heavy and has been the means of making good sleighing. Old settlers say this winter is going to be a repetition of one six years ago when snow was three feet deep on a level. It is possible for another blockade for the snow is light and a slight wind will carry it forward. The snow was six feet deep closely packed, but the manner in which the rotary threw the snow out of the way was truly astonishing. It is the invention of the century. The famous gun called the "Swamp Angel," that from its position in the swamps during the war threw shells five miles into the city of Charleston, is now mounted upon a handsome granite foundation which also serves as a drinking fountain and watering place for animals, in the public square in Trenton, New Jersey.
