For the removal of foreign bodies from the stomach, the highest authorities are now recommending the eating of potatoes only, in large quantities, cooked in different ways to stimulate the appetite. Cases are cited in which articles of jewelry, brass weights, nails, pins, etc., were suc-cessfully ejected, after a few days of the p stato diet. Nothing should be eaten but potatoes during the time required, which varies from two to nine days.

Enterprise and Humanity The San Francisco newspapers are nothing if not enterprising, but it has been left to the Examiner to combine humanity with its spirit of enterprise. Last Friday night a fishing boat containing five men capsized on the bar. Only one, Anthony Nicholas, escaped. He succeeded in reaching a rock off Point Bonita and clung to it. The night was inky black, and bitterly cold. He was in a fair way to perish, when his cries were heard and word dispatched to the city. The life saving station at the Cliff House reported that their only boat was disabled, and nothing could be done before morning. When this news reached the Examiner two reporters were detailed as a rescuing and the journal tug boat was placed at their disposal. The story of the success of the mission is told in the following press dispatch:

The Examiner's tug started out to sea late last night, and after searching along the coast they came upon the wreck of the fishing boat, and, proceeding on their course, scanning the shore, they finally heard the cries of Nicholas, which by this time had become hoarse and faint. The tug approached as near as possible, and one of the reporters took a boat and effected a landing at the lighthouse, hoping to gain some information from the keeper. When the location of the castaway had been determined, another boat was haunched, and a second reporter and several other men of the tug attempted to reach the rock. It was a dangerous undertaking, as the sea was running furiously and breaking high upon the shore. The moon had come out from behind a black cloud, and Nicholas could be plainly seen. He was still trying to call for help, but his voice had almost failed. The men called to him to jump overboard, but he still clung to the rock. The danger to the boat was so great that she put lack to the tug and Nicholas was danger to the boat was so great that she put back to the tug, and Nicholas was a rain left to despair. At other attempt was made, and this time a line was thrown to the rock, and again the man was told to jump. Summoning all his remaining strength and courage, he gathered himself for a spring. He was high above the water and the plunge was not an inviting one, but he made a clean dive and shot down into the water. When he came up he was near the boat, and was quickly pulled in. He was more dead than alive, but the rescuing party was well supplied with blankets and restoratives, and Nicholas was soon made warm and comfort-able. On the way back to the city he was nearly restored. He had been six hours upon the rock, exposed to the cold winds.

STANLEY HAS COME! The Here of Africa-A New Book of His Wonderful Adventures.

Henry M. Stanley stands now as the greatest explorer and adventurer the world has known. He is the hero of the most remarkable discoveries in all the records of daring and explorations. Emin Pasha was wandering somewhere n the tropical wilderness, and struggling to hold the country of which he was ruler. Stanley hastens to the rescue. He anishes from the sight of the civilized world; months and seasons pass, and still no news from Stanley.

After untold privations and amazing triumphs, he emerges from the wilds of the Dark Continent accompanied by Emin Pasha. In his last great triumph he has put the climax upon all his pre-vious explorations and victories. His adventures and discoveries have been grand, wonderful and marvelous. The full and authentic accounts will be related in the new genuine Stanley book, rom his first entrance into Africa, and rom his first entrance into Africa, and richly illustrated with over 400 of the grandest and most wonderful new engravings and colored plates ever seen in a book of travels. The History Company, 723 Market Street, San Francisco, Cal., are the publishers. The book will be sold by subscription only. Agents are wanted to sell the book, to whom most these independents will be offered on liberal inducements will be offered on application. We call attention to the adertisement in another column.

A Plucky Stage Driver.

As a stage driver, Ed Grubb shows a whole lot of grit. He is driving the stage between Bly and Linkville now, and proposes to drive it in spite of cyclones and highway robbers. Thursday evening, in the midst of a blockading snowstorm, Ed started from Bly, determined to reach Bo-nanza if possible, but he didn't. He could see no road, no fence; nothing but au ex-panse of snowy field contracted to a narrow compass by the inky darkness around. After wandering around until they were nearly exhausted, the horses brought up, about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, at the ranch of a Duichman dwelling in Askali valley. He put up the aligued horses and remained until about dayoreak, when he started out again coming through the same blinding snow-storm, and reached Linkvide Wednesday evening with horses completely worn ou and a great snowbank on the top of th coach, which, with the snow-covered driver, made the vehicle look like the hrone of grim winter moving with it king through the valley. Ed took fresh horses at Linkville and started back for

THE NEW PRIZE STORY is eagerly sought for, read with pleasure or disappointment, is then tossed aside and forgotten. THE FORUM has won the highest place reached by any periodical; for it publishes articles by more authoritative writers and by more workers along instructive lines of activity than any other publication. It contains eleven studies of great subjects every month. It is impartial, giving hearings alike to each side. It is financially independent, and it belongs to no sect or party or "interest." It is never sensational, but it aims always to be instructive.

I consider THE FORUM as furnishing the most intelligent and sympathetic audience that a thoughtfu writer can find to address in any land.—Prof. ALEXANDER WINCHELL, of the University of Michigan.
