Time came when we concluded that The bank that we had bought Should surely full of pennies be, And open it we ought. The opening of the affair Was made a great event.

But we were rather startled when We found there not a cent! And little Billy then confessed, With some degree of pride. He'd tapped the bank and caimly spent

Who Will Find It.

In the year 1820, it is reported that

Spanish vessel came into Nehalem bay with a large amount of treasure on board consisting of six boxes of Spanish money, each box requiring six men to move it, and the total value was $1,500,000. The captain being a pirate and closely pursued, put into Nehalem bay, and finding it a lonely place agreed with his crew to bury the money and valuables on a certain side of the river near where a small creek put in and between two certain trees. They each agreed with their captain by a binding obligation that they would never reveal the place where the treasures were buried, with a penalty of their lives, unless all were agreed, and to share the treasures equally. In the year 1852, one of the survivors. whose life was saved by a man at that time living near Portland, afterwards on a deathbed made the above confession. Some 70 years has passed away and still this large sum of money lies buried in the shady nook of the Nehalem. Last week the old man came to town that this confession was made to, and quietly wended his way toward the majestic Nehalen in pursuit of the long hidden treasure. This is not the only man that is in search of these buried treasures, but for several years past, men have come to Tillamook county. and in the vicinity of the Nehalem have dug large holes and tunnels for the same purpose. Time no doubt will reveal many hidden misteries. But who will find the bidden treasure on the Nehalem river?

When Tenderfeet Are Dangerous. Kansas City Times.

"The man to be feared for the trouble that he can make in the west is not the 'dead shot' who has killed a dozen men," said an old timer from Anzona at the Midland last night, "but the young blood, a combination of the cowboy and the tenderfoot. The former is usually quick, cool and level headed, and when be shoots he shoots to kill. The latter is in a hurry to get into a fight and will never listen to reason or common sense The moment he gets into trouble he thinks that his duty is to draw a revolver and commence shooting. He may probably hit the man he is trying to kill. He is like the fool-friend that we are constantly praying to be delivered from. His caoncity for mischief is unbounded, but his plans for getting out of a scrape are never matured and are sure to fall through. I don't object to taking a hand in a fight when a lot of experienced men are on the ground, but when a lot of greenhorns commence shooting I don't object to hinting up a new location."

the result is a collision, whether "coming thro' the rye," or not. Life is full of collisions, We are constantly colliding with some-body or something. If it isn't with our neighbors it is with some dread diseases that "knocks us off the track" and perhaps disables us for life. Women especially it seems, have to bear the brunt of more collisions and afflictions than mankind. In all cases of nervousness, bearing-down sensations, tenderness, periodical pains, siek headache, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration and all "female irrorularities" and "weaknesses," Dr. Pierco's Favorine Prescription comes to the rescue of women as no other medicine does. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded.
