AFTERMATH.

Gov. When, at the last election, Mr. Sylvester Pennoyer, a Democratic popularity was largely due to the fact that electors considered him in harmony with the best interests of all portions of the state; but in this instance, changing a scriptural text, the people

It would be something strange if a month passed without some indication of a revolution among the Spanish-Americans on this continent. The western hemisphere-with the exception of Canada and two or three little countries in South America and the West Indies-pays no allegiance to a crowned monarch. Republics are the leading governments, and, with all the freedom these enjoy, it seems impossible for them to maintain equal rights without a periodical attempt every month or to two change the form of the existing governing policy. These wild vagaries of our southern neighbors almost make us lose confidence in the Latin races for self-government. With the Anglo-Saxon individual infringement on these perogatives. Wherever they settle the home is held constitutional rights protected, is Such elements have made the United States what it is to-day, and nerved ful nation in the world in the latter active. part of the last century. The Latin races have no such traditions to spur them to action, and, while the Anglo-Saxons, from king or queen, president or governor, parliament or congress, down to the town meeting or secret society, demand a proper observance of the constitutional rights of a minority-if this consists only of a single individual, the southern races have no such precedents to follow. They are either the willing slaves of the ruling sovereign, or, in their turn, attempt to inaugurate the worst of despotismsanarchy, and overthrow by the relentless fury of mobs any established form of government or social organizations.

That the Republican party still leads in national affairs is fully proved by its forward movement in favor of reciprocity with some countries, Where no advantange could be gained by placing a duty on goods, it is emply an advisable business policy to trade on equal terms, and this the Republican party has done. Of course this would be suicidal with some nations, as, for instance, with England in manufactured articles. She could produce them so much cheaper than America, that in a little while she wauld throttle and kill our home industries. Discrimination should be used in this matter as in all subjects which require a decision as to which is most beneficial of different policies. Editors are not given to much noralizing, for they have too much to ccupy their time in practical, everyday life to theorize. Occasionally, one of these hard brain-workers steps over the line, and the editor of the West, published at Florence, thus truthfully comments in the following language on existing inconsistencies: "When we go about our big cities and see the great hospitals, infirmaries, homes for the sick and needy, we congratulate ourselves that the world not so bad after all; pity is not dead; she is alive and she is munificent. But the same afternoon perhaps we are in a drawing room where characters are dissected with pitiless severity, and reputations torn to shreds without the slightest symtoms of remorse or misgiving. Then we say pity is dead, or at least she has spread her white wings and flown back to heaven. Yet ported as liberally as before, and kindly men and women will take deep and real interest in their management, and will put themselves to real trouble to carry brightness and comfort into the wards where pain and anxiety are gathered. Advices from various parts of Crisua, a province in Bengal, state the cyclone id great damage. The cyclone cleared a path through the forests, uprooting gigantic trees and burling them aside as lough they were reeds. No house could stand the terrible energy of the gale, and every dwelling or other structure within he path of the cyclone was either swep rom its foundation or turned over. The wind also did much damage below Calcutta. The city is situated on the east bank of the Hoogly river, the westernmost branch of the Ganges. The Hoogly river empties into the Bay of Bengal through a number of mouths. A large number of vessels were at anchor off the month of the Hoogly river in such a position that when the gale suddenly burst the was impossible to save many of them. Numbers dragged their anchors and were carried ashore, and others were damaged by the pounding received from the enor mous seas which accompanied the storm.

Another vessel is reported | the past few days the preliminaries have been arranged and it has been agreed, in view of the importance of the question at issue, to give this claim precedence, so that it is now expected the case will be called up shortly. While the claim ag gregates nearly $1,000,000 it is thought. lowever, that the courts, under the provisions of the act conferring jurisdiction will not be able to give a judgment for more than $400,000, and this sum at a believed, will ultimately be divided among the heirs. Robert Howard, lately assistant attorney general, represents the claimants. The present favorable condilabors of General Rufus Ingalis, who, as

Killed by a Judge. Paso Robles, Cal, Nov. 12-Yester day afternoon A. M. Sherwood met Judge John Kelshaw upon the streets and inquired about the charge that had been examined before Kelshaw and a jury, in which Sherwood was defendent, the jury having disagreed. Judge Kelshaw told him he did not know that it all lay with the prosecuting witnesses, but that he Sherwood said he hoped not, as he wanted fairs says: "It is only within the last to be tried and acquitted. He then com two days that a settled programme has menced to call the judge names and said that he had endeavored to rake un cases been determined upon. It is substantiagainst him. Kelshaw denied the charge, and one word prought on another unti-Sherwood struck Kelshaw with a screw driver, which he had in his hand, and Kelshaw backed off and attempted to get away but Sherwood caught hold of hi Kelshaw then drew a revolver and shot Sherwood three times, one ball entering the body cear the heart. The combatants struggled for a few minutes before Sherwood loosened his grasp and fell. Popular opinion is that Kelshaw acted has ordered the strengthening of the military forces in Tripoli, the only important African province still acknowledging the Chilian waters. It is believed the Tripolitans have been considerably shaken in their allegiance by the reports of the prosperity of Tunis under English rule, and the symptoms of discontent bave of late become alarming to the tyrannical pasha. This officer has endeavered to put down discontent by the affection of barbarous punishments, and it is no uncommon sight in the capital to it is no uncommon sight in the capital to see half a dezen poor wretches impuled in the market place. These horrors have only served to excite the popular feeling in a still higher degree. Turkish rule is in real danger, and the appearances of a French fleet would doubtless be followed oy an overwhelming insurrection against the sultan's authority.

The editor of a Democratic newspaper wisely lifts his brows and remarks, "Will President Harrison in his message, in view of the recent elections, stake all on Ohio and the McKinley idea, or will he hedge on the tariff for the rest of the country? There is small reason for hedging. Everywhere that national issues were boldly made the elections show Rebetween the United issues and the full pocket-book
