fact that an entire family was consumed, occurred here early this morning in a row of tenement houses on North High street. The exact origin of the fire remains a cles, and many persons who have friends mystery, but on the first alarm flames or relatives on board the vessel, were were seen shooting from the roof, licking [ up everything within reach. The fire men endeavored to enter the rooms, but the dense smoke made this impossible One of the captains did get partially inside of the buildings, but was pulled out again, nearly suffocated. Two hours were consumed in gaining control of the flames, and long ere that every person was supposed to have escaped: however, was not the case. It was nearly 4 o'clock this afternoon when a little girl, living in the neighborhood, with childish curiosity rummaged through the ruins and found a naked arm, which led to a search and the ultimate discovery of five bodies burned to a crisp and beyond recognition. The entire family of Chas Retheard was destroyed white sleeping in a room 8x14 feet in the second story They were Chas. Retheard, aged 30 years Elizabeth, his wife, aged 28; Carrie, aged

No one was able to give her the desired informaion. Meeting little Jimmle Kirwin, who was playing among the ruins, she learned that a body was in the ashes. The fire men were summoned and took up the second search. What they discovered was horrifying. In that small room were three beds, a cradle, a stove and bureau. Near the door lay the father with the in lant clasped in his arms. It was evident that he had awakened to the true realization of the danger and had started out with the child when overcome with the heat. The mother, kneeling near the head of the bed, was half buried beneath the falling roof. The two girls slept as they had retired in their little cot. All of the bodies, with the flesh dropping from the bones, were removed to the coroner's. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin, as two suspicious characters were seen after the damage was done. A full investigation will follow, Fighting in Brazil. NEW YORK, Nov. 13. The Herald has "News is received here to the efect that the revolt against Fonseca in the state of Rio Grande de Sul has been so far completely successful. In the fighting, in which 5000 men were engaged, it is rumored the government troops, under General Isadora Gonzales, were defeated, and the insurgent cavalry started on a move toward the north. It is also reported that Governor Castilbo, of Rio, has decided to join the insurrec-tionist movement. The revolutionists claim the dictator is so sick he finds it impossible to continue the campaign with any degree of activity. These statements are evidently made by the enemies of Fonseca, however, for news comes from energy in his efforts to crush the revolt. He is massing troops and preparing warships for an early attack on the revolu tionists. He has applied to the government of Urugusy for permission to allow the passage of troops through that coun-try in order to reach the state of Rio Grande de Sul. Cut-Throat Chilians Washington, Nov. 10 .- A disposition as recently been exhibited by the United States to sneer at Chili, but the time may come when Uncle Sam will be obliged to contend with that republic for the supremacy of the new world. It is a present the most aggressive and powerful of the American nations next to this country, and it is steadily pushing its schemes for political aggrandizement Within the last few years it has extended its territory almost the length of the nother continent. It has gobbled the sea coast of Bolivia, and the nitrate fields of 7; Myrtle, aged 6, and James, aged 3 Peru on the north, and by diplomatic suasion it has obtained possession of a strin stretching southward to Cape Horn. Incidentally to the partition of Patagonia, it has secured control of the Straits of Magellan and of steam navigation in the Southern Pacific.

The Johnson house, a five story brick building, fronting on Superior street, was next in the path of the fire, and the flames played over and around its roof. The guests made a hasty exit, and it seemed almost certain the hotel would be destroyed, together with the Weddel house, which adjoins it on the east.
