this section than any one, old or young. In 1883, when only nine years old, he kulled 1163 birds such as are used for food, in the space of about eight months. These we o all killed at odd times when he could spare time from his work to engage in a little sport. For this and other fine shooting he received a medal from Oakland, California, of which he is very proud and prizes yery highly. At the shooting match here a few days ago, he carried away more turkeys than any one there; beating all of the best shots present and there were several of them. There were three ties between him and Charley Jones, said to be one of the best shots on this prairies. These ties were shot off and Henry wor. them all.

The East Oregonian says: Deputy Sheriff Stamper came down from Athena late Friday night with a prisoner who gives his name as Victor Raymond, a desperate looking character whose face would almost convict him of rascality. Raymond spplied for work at the home of Hardee Mansfield, near Athens, and was referred to a place where he might get a job. Hardee then rode away, being ready to start to town, but kept watch of the fellow whom he saw enter the house of Frank Mansfield, which was unoccupied. He there stole some blankets, provisions and a for cap, and was making off with the plunder when Hardee rode back and arrested him at the point of a shotgun. The prisoner was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The American youth illustrates the development theory, and boys display an aptness in crime that is deplorable. A clipping from the Walla Walla Statesman illustrates this fact: "Frank Mason, the 16-year-old boy, who was convicted of grand larceny and sent to the reform school last September by Judge Upton, and of whom so much has been published lately in the newspapers, was brought back to this city last evening by Deputy Sheriff J. F. Blackwell, from Chehalis. It is claimed that Mason became so unmanageable while at the school that the trustees decided to send him back to this city, and they ordered the deputy to carry out their instructions."
