ITEMS IN BRIEF. From Wednesday's Daily. Mr. Geo. P. Sink, of Wasco, is in the city...

Mr. Geo. P. Sink, of Wasco, is in the city. Politics are commencing to show signs of abatement.

Our county clerk has received copies of the new election laws. Mr. C. J. Stalling, of No. 85, Second street, keeps constantly on the alert...

Friendship Lodge, No. 9, K. of C., is increasing its membership. Monday day candidates were included into the ranks of the lodge.

Mr. C. M. Brown, one of the leading merchants of Astoria, has been arrested and jailed at Walla Walla, for a fishery outrage committed upon the person of Sarah...

Selem Stationer. A warrant of arrest was issued Tuesday by Governor Pennington on a requisition from the governor of Washington...

Elmer Porter, founder in 1841 of the Westfield (Mass.) colony, died recently in Cambridgeport, at the residence of his son, Linn Boyd Porter...

In a sketch of the life of Rev. H. K. Hines, D. D., of the Methodist Episcopal church, well and favorably known to the Dalles people, we find the following: "Dr. Hines estimates his travels in the service of the church on his own to have been about 5000 miles, and by his own private conveyance not less than 10,000 miles, as he has proceeded about 9000 sermons, held 300 quarterly meetings, delivered 15,000 sermons, called to deliver many memorial addresses of piety, both preachers and people."

Two Indian boys were arrested by the watchman last night, supposed to have been from the Chemawa school, near Salem. They came to the city with their baggage, and were recognized by an Indian attendant at the school. They will be kept until some information is received regarding their identity, when they will be given their freedom.

Water, mixed with a little glycerine, was prepared and twenty minute injections were given at intervals of ten or twenty minutes with good results. Mr. Ed. Wick, of Mill creek, has been confined to his home for several days...

Heavy frost covered the ground this morning. The snow has disappeared from the neighborhood, and everything has the appearance of spring. The readers enjoy a quiet day today.

Major O'neal, of Baker City, has asked the privilege from the government of raising a regiment of cavalry for the use of the United States cavalry. He has offered to be accepted. This will be very beneficial in the conduct; but the government is in securing a footing on Chilian soil.

W. W. Union-Journal. G. W. Hughes, the contractor who is down town Spokane, reports that he has completed all the work in his grading contract on the great Northern, and has about 100 and a large number of teams at work on the heavy rock work, comprising a distance of about 150 feet, and a tunnel, Mr. Hughes' contract is the farthest west of all and the western end is at Chestnut street, where it is being completed as quickly as possible.

A London dispatch of the 9th says of Mattie Mitchell: "The relatives of the Due de Rochefort are renewing their efforts to break off the marriage of Mattie Mitchell, daughter of the Oregon senator, who is not wealthy enough to meet their views. Both the contracting parties, however, are proof against all opposition, and there is no doubt the marriage will occur as already announced. The bridegroom is being made ready for the celebration, which will be the profession of rare old love used as adornment."

At a meeting of the Union Pacific railroad company held at its headquarters on the 18th of the office of the state railroad commission, after the board had requested the governor to issue a writ against the company for failure to file the annual report of the workings of its lines as required by law. As the reports are not approved by the company they are no use to the commission and will have to be returned for the signature of the company. Attorney-General Chastain and Robert Cook, on the part of the commission, and Referees Holms and Stenographer Wilcox, together with the Union Pacific attorneys, have gone to Omaha.

The Farmington newspaper truly says: "The advertisements in a paper are the means of a large class of men's capabilities of life. The men who contemplate doing business in a distant town take up the local paper, and in its advertising columns find the names of the men who are to deal with—a complete record of the town, its commerce, its home trade, the facilities for the various industries, and in almost every respect a complete record of the town." The advertising man is a man who can estimate the character of the men who are soliciting the public patronage.

Miss Lena Morgan, of Portland, has kindly consented to favor us with her rich voice in a concert to be given at the hall on next Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Congregational choir. She will be assisted by Miss Josephine, who has returned to Portland about two months ago from Paris, where she has for the past year been under the careful instruction of Madame La Grange. Since her return she has appeared before her friends in the same satisfaction of Portland's best critics. Our lovers of music may consider themselves favored in being able to secure such talent. The Congregational choir are sufficiently known in The Dalles to need no comment at our hands.

The following is the list of letters remaining in The Dalles postoffice uncalled for, Saturday, January 23, 1922. Jackson Engine Co's Masque Ball. From Friday's Daily. To all old residents the annual masquerade ball of the pioneer fire company of this city is the crowning event of the season, and it is always extensively patronized. In former years it was held on the first day of the year; but this time it was considered better to hold it later in the month. For this reason last night was deemed the proper date.

The charges named were: Chas. Clark, Jester; J. Ulrich, O. G. returned from Chili; Mr. Lamberson, Old Limburger; Miss M. Clorest, Green Irish Girl; Mr. Walter, Big Nose; Miss Eben, Venetian Lady; C. A. Klined, Old Timer; Miss Farrow, School Girl; Miss Gouvier, Venetian Lady; John Jackson, Queen Trump; A. Keller, Shoemaker; H. Kuck, Trump; J. Arndt, 15th Century Knight; A. James, Nigger Wench; Mrs. La Connan, Peasant Lady; Julius Wiley, McGinty; J. S. Pallas, Mask; Ren Ulrich, Crippled Fireman; Mrs. E. B. Rowley, Mrs. J. W. Anderson, F. Christian, Chevaliers; Dick Nolan, Indiana; H. Pump and H. Champion, Convoys; Julius Fisher, Blue Domino; Mr. Liddler, Shylock; W. Vanbiber, W. Norman, Joe Miller, Mr. Tigler, Plain Masque; Miss Bogher, Maid of All Ages; Mrs. John Blawie, Old Lady; Mrs. J. G. LaConnan, Gode; Chas Wagner, negro.

Before the order was given for unmaking a committee was appointed to decide on the best sustained characters. Ad. Keller, shoemaker, secured the first prize, paid gold buttons and three shillings; J. D. Hines, member of O. N. G., returned from Chili, scarf pin. First prize for ladies, Mrs. E. Jacobson, San Flower, toilet set; second, Maid of Athens, Miss Buchler, an album.

A Pioneer Justice. THE DALLES, Jan. 23, 1922. Editor THE MOUNTAINEER: In order to give the citizens an idea of the manner in which "justice" was administered in early days I relate the following: About 1856 a justice of the peace was appointed at the Upper Cascades, and by the way a very worthy man, for that precinct, which comprised at that time the territory now known as the Cascade mountains. A case of larceny was brought before his honor, and upon examination and trial the man was fined $100. The culprit was not able to pay the amount, and the justice committed him to jail; but there being no jail in that territory, his honor, marched the prisoner down over a rough trail, standing guard behind him with an old flint lock, about forty miles, but the authorities would not receive him. So the justice marched him back to the Cascades, and convinced the court for a further hearing, at the suggestion of Mr. B., at that time a prominent citizen of the Cascades. After taking the matter under advisement the justice allowed the prisoner his liberty on executing his note for double the amount of the fine—$200, and the magistrate, who still lives at the Cascades, has the note liquidated to-day.

A Wicked Engine. Union-Journal. Whether rightly or wrongly, railroad men are credited with a great amount of superstitions. One of these is told by a gentleman from the Sound seems to bear out the theory that the men who handle trains on transportation lines have a belief in signs and tokens. A few weeks since a west-bound Northern Pacific train, when near Palmer, on the Cascade division, ran over and crushed the engine striking and crashing the life out of them. The remains of the men were picked up and laid on blankets by the side of the track and left with a watchman until an east-bound train came and took them to Ellensburg, where an inquest was held. The doctor's report was that the engine striking and crushing the life out of them. The remains of the men were picked up and laid on blankets by the side of the track and left with a watchman until an east-bound train came and took them to Ellensburg, where an inquest was held.
