

Caesarism in politics is as despicable as arbitrary control in other matters. In a free government, where sovereignty is presumed to rest with the individual elector, any dictatorial policy will meet with determined opposition.

This master has appealed to us in a very emphatic manner by one of two of the ruling Republican factions at The Dalles. He has been only one of their own dictation, and all others who would not "pass under the yoke" would be relegated to the rear and receive no consideration.

The lessons taught here by the Republican party, which was organized as an active opposition to the machine methods of Bourbon control of the old Democracy. Whenever it is attempted it begets a spirit of opposition which results disastrously to the party.

Next Saturday the Republican primaries will be held in Wasco county, and voters will exercise the elective franchise in a purely democratic capacity. This is the only instance in the system of government under which we live in which the people are given an opportunity to voice their sentiments, and this should be exercised with the greatest freedom.

There is not much danger from the "great combination" that is said to have been formed for the purpose of controlling the copper mines of the United States, says an exchange. It is but a few years ago that a much greater combination was organized for a like purpose.

There are natural laws the strength of which can never be overcome by artifice. One of them is that whenever a natural product is very widely diffused no combination of private or corporate capital can control its production for any great length of time, unless it be by keeping prices at a very low margin of profit, and this seldom is the policy of a "great combination."

Democracy frequently accuses the Republican party of being friendly to corporations because it has been the champion of protection; but this cannot be substantiated by argument. In every tariff measure drafted by the Democracy in congress the manufacturers or corporations of New England were favored to the detriment of the farmer or grower of raw material in the west. The motto has been, "Protect the factory owner, and let the sheep-grower compete with the product from South America and Australia." This was the doctrine of Mr. Morrison, Mr. Mills and Mr. McKinley, in his tariff bill, threw the greater protection around the farmer and producer. That there are rich corporations in this country no one will deny; but wealth is more nearly equally divided in the United States than in free trade England, and combined capital is not nearly as oppressive. Any prosperous country will have corporations, and these are simply the result of prosperity and the business qualifications of certain citizens.

A Democratic cotemporary, in its periculis efforts to write an editorial that will suit its Bourbon readers, talks about it becoming necessary, "in order that the aristocratic and money classes on both sides of the pond, may retain their grasp on the reins of government that the minds of the common people be diverted from questions of right, and of government, even though the alternative be the storming up of dormant passions, the awakening of the fighting instinct."

The history of the tariff is a fair representation of the party's position on the currency question. Anything to procure votes seems to be the ruling idea, and to accomplish this resort has been had to all kinds of subterfuges to delude the people. Repudiation, free silver and a gold basis have all been advocated at different times, and action on this subject, the same as on the tariff, has been completely influenced by the public pulse.

The Dalles TIMES MOUNTAINEER remarks that "there is no doubt that the doctrine of protection is growing in the west." This is important information, if true. We had an idea, judging from the last election, in 1890, that there was a very strong and dangerous "free trade" sentiment, even in the west. Of course the protectionists still hold their own in Oregon and Washington, in Salem and Stringtown, but the probabilities are that this year will find them badly defeated even in these places.

Mr. O. W. Dunbar, of the Astoria Daily Talk, has been sentenced by a circuit judge to one year in the county jail because he expressed his opinion in his paper of a man whom he considered a fraud. A lawyer, before a jury, could have been more severe in his criticism on the character of an innocent witness and enjoyed perfect immunity; but a newspaper editor, where he has a substantial foundation, cannot let sunlight shine on the rogues and swindlers for the benefit of the community without incurring the penalty of the law.

Senator David B. Hill, the prospective candidate for president on the Democratic ticket, has been enthusiastically received in the south. This is as it should be, for Hill proclaims himself a Democrat of Democrats, and then of such political predilections always stand high with the people south of Mason and Dixon's line.

Democracy frequently accuses the Republican party of being friendly to corporations because it has been the champion of protection; but this cannot be substantiated by argument. In every tariff measure drafted by the Democracy in congress the manufacturers or corporations of New England were favored to the detriment of the farmer or grower of raw material

OBSTRUCTIONISTS. The campaign on the part of the Democracy will be simply anti-Republican, and that will be all. The evils that have existed since the Declaration of Independence were signed will be traced to the misrule of the Republican party, with the exception that, regarding the four years from 1861 to 1865, Democrats will be silent as the grave. Trusts, corporations, hard times, blizzards, cyclones, droughts, floods and famines will be charged to Republican administrations, and the remedy for all these ills will be said to reside in the pure and "time-honored principles" of Democracy. If a delicate matter is touched upon by the opposition the "pure and patriotic Democracy" will be reminded of a joke from Mark Twain, Artemus Ward or Mrs. Partington, and the "dear people" will be cajoled by pleasant instead of arguments.

Some of the ring organs in the state appear to be pledged to the renomination and re-election of Hon. Binger Hermann as the representative of the first district in congress. We have nothing against Mr. Hermann, for he has been an indefatigable worker for the interests of the different portions of the entire state; but the people have sufficiently honored him by sending him to Washington City as often as they have. If this is a free government, with a basis principle of rotation in office, and there is any person in the Willamette counties as capable and honest as Mr. Hermann, there should be a change in the member of the lower house. Of course it is really none of our business in the second district; but to say as little as possible about the matter, it is very strange that for the past ten or twelve years, in the old settled counties of the Willamette valley, there has not appeared on the surface of politics any man capable of representing that portion of the state in congress except this man from Roseburg.

Hon. J. N. Dolph, one of our senators, has received more vilification than any representative in Washington City, and yet we believe he has done more for Oregon than any congressman or representative we have ever had. Mindful only of the best interests of the state he advocated measures for the betterment of the state, and on several occasions have increased the appropriations for the locks at the Cascades. The people of Oregon are perfectly satisfied with Mr. Dolph, and only wish all representatives were as earnest and indefatigable as he is regarding improvements of the Columbia river.

The northwest is more interested in an open river than in any other project. With free transportation to seaboard the inland Empire could produce grain as cheaply as any portion of the continent. Railroad monopolies have been a great hardship on producers for many years, and as soon as these are given a subordinate position the people will assert their rights. This is as it should be, and combined capital should always be subservient to the wishes of the individual elector.

SECTIONS FIRE AT CHEHALIS. CHEHALIS, Wash., March 18.—A big fire is now raging in the business portion of the town. It started at 1:30 this morning in Pruner's jewelry store and burned east and west the length of the block. The jewelry store and stock is a total loss.

THE COLLECTION DISTRICT CONTROVERSY. WASHINGTON, March 15.—The statement is made that one reason why the Washington senators opposed the bill cutting off a portion of the Puget Sound collection district was that they expected a town to built opposite Astoria, at the mouth of the river in Washington, and the Washington senators claim the Oregon senators are afraid the town will ruin Astoria and become the real town at the mouth of the river. The Washington senators claim to be as much interested in the improvement of the Columbia river as the Oregon senators, but they did not take kindly to the attempt made by the people of Astoria to shut off a portion of the river from the channel of the Columbia, making it a great water highway, and if they can do anything that will aid in building a town at the mouth of the river they will very gladly avail themselves of the opportunity. These are the rumors that have been floating about the capitol today, when the news comes from Chehalis, Ore., and Washington senators was discussed.

SENATIONAL SUICIDE. SPOKANE, Wash., March 17.—A most sensational suicide occurred here tonight. William Armstrong, a well-known young Jeweler, was sitting in a music store next door to his home, when he was shot and wounded in the chest by a revolver. He was taken to the hospital, but died in a few minutes without regaining consciousness. He was 25 years of age and was a native of Oregon. He was a member of the local lodge of the Grand Army of the Republic.

PEOPLES PARTY CONVENTION. OREGON CITY, March 17.—The peoples party state convention today made the following nominations: For congressmen—First district, N. Y. Rook; Second district, J. C. Luce. For supreme judges, D. W. Wright. District judges—First district, Ira Wakefield of Jackson; Second district, G. F. Edwards; Third district, J. P. Hendrix; Fourth district, C. A. Archibald. This completes the work done up to the hour for noon adjournment.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—The belief is held among business men here that the American Sugar Refining Company, commonly known as the "sugar trust," is making extraordinary efforts to secure possession of the three independent sugar refineries in this city, with good chances of success. A well-informed gentleman says positively that, in at least one instance, the trust has been practically completed. The three great Philadelphia sugar refineries—Sprackles, Knight's and the Franklin—have been in a long time the side of the American Sugar Refining Company for years. This corporation, whose capital prior to January of this year was $50,000,000, increased its capitalization to $75,000,000, and with this addition to its money power has redoubled its efforts to bring within its control all outstanding refineries. There were, it is understood,

TELEGRAPHIC. Hermann's Big Task. WASHINGTON, March 16.—Governor Penoyer has succeeded in making Representative Hermann work in the river and harbor committee exceedingly hard. His letters to Chairman Blanchard, which have been read before the committee, have been used with considerable effect, and will probably succeed in cutting down the appropriations for the Columbia River. Tomorrow Chairman Blanchard will move to cut out the appropriation for the locks at the Cascades locks on the Columbia river, and to use the money that would be appropriated for this purpose for a port on the bay near the Dalles. This is done in accordance with a letter recently received by Blanchard from Penoyer, in which he states that the people of Oregon would prefer to have the Cascades temporarily abandoned, if this could secure the portage railway. The whole matter is very confusing as to the Democratic policy. The Cascades locks may be abandoned, and if the work is abandoned it will be liable to be cut out of the budget and run. But even if Chairman Blanchard succeeds in having the portage road substituted in the budget, it will be raised against that it would be committing the government to the building of the road. By this means it would be easy for the Democrats to succeed in passing any appropriation for the Columbia River. Perhaps Mr. Hermann will be able to defeat the chairman of a powerful committee as that on river and harbor, if he can get the Cascades, but at every turn Penoyer's letters are flashed upon him, with the statement: "Here is what your governor says and here is what you are doing back with the statement that he is the representative of the people of Oregon before congress and the governor is not."

ALONE AND PENALTY. SEATTLE, Wash., March 16.—Miss Lillian Stewart, a pretty 18-year-old milliner, committed suicide early this morning at a lodging house on Main street by taking "Rough on Rats." The girl's parents live in Southern Oregon on a farm, and the girl herself for some years has attended a school in Eugene. A year ago she came to Seattle to visit her mother, C. C. Cairns, with whom she fell in love at Eugene. Cairns was a waiter in a restaurant at Eugene, and the parents of the girl objected to her engagement. Cairns came to Seattle, and was employed as a waiter in a restaurant at Seattle, and the parents of the girl were opposed to her engagement. FOR RUSSIAN POOR. LIBAU, Russia, March 16.—Early this afternoon a steamer was sighted off this port, heading in from the westward, and immediately afterward it was reported that the United States could be distinguished flying from the stern of the vessel. It was then known for a certainty that the approaching vessel was the Indiana, under the command of Captain Sargent, and carrying the Russian refugees. The Indiana is a large passenger ship, and is carrying a large number of Russian refugees. The ship is expected to arrive in Seattle tomorrow.

THE PRICE OF COAL. LONDON, March 17.—There was an exciting scene at the coal exchange today. It became apparent that the principle was reached in fixing the price of coal, and everybody was waiting to see who would strike the keystone for the downward movement. At length one of the leading firms offered coal at 4 shillings under the ruling price. It was as if a thunderbolt had been cast into the crowd. There was a wild rush to follow the leader, and coal took a rapid fall. Representatives of Belgian mine owners, who had fled in dozens of the city to take advantage of the situation, were going back to Belgium disgusted. They find no sale for their coal in the city, and a gold mine for continental producers. It is now considered certain the adjourned miners' conference to be held in London this afternoon will decide in favor of a resumption of work on Monday next.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS. Amateurs in Paris. PARIS, March 15.—It is evident that the persons who stole the dynamite cartridges from the men quarries are endeavoring to inaugurate a reign of terror in this city. About 2 o'clock this morning a terrific explosion occurred at Louhan barracks, occupied by the Republican guard, adjoining the Hotel Deville. In a moment the widest excitement prevailed. Men springing for the doors and windows, thinking the walls would come toppling down upon them. The streets in the vicinity were soon filled with an excited crowd. It was found that a dynamite cartridge had been placed upon the ledge of a window of the messroom. The guards fortunately escaped without injury, and the only harm done was the barracks and buildings in the vicinity, which were great. Hundreds of windows were broken and the walls of the barracks and buildings were badly shattered. A cabinet council was called this afternoon, and President Carnot signed a bill introducing a clause in the penal code making the willful destruction of property by means of explosives punishable with death. The clause will be introduced in the chamber of deputies this afternoon. It is believed the anarchists will gain courage from their immunity from arrest, for they have not succeeded in detecting the authors of any of the explosions. An apprehension is now being felt regarding the attitude they will take on May day. The police are working in the dark, and the tracks of the authors of the outrages are so well hidden that this far it has been impossible for the best-trained detectives of the Paris police to follow them.

THE CABINET MEETING. WASHINGTON, March 15.—The cabinet meeting was attended by all the members except Blaine, Foster and Noble. The issue of proclamations of retaliation against the countries which have refused to enter into reciprocal trade relations with the United States under the terms of the McKinley act, was the principal subject of discussion. It was decided to issue proclamations of this character this afternoon against the countries of South America. These are understood to be Colombia, Honduras and Venezuela. The Bellingham question was referred to incidentally. It is generally felt that nothing further will be done in this matter until Salisbury replies to the president's note of the 8th inst., insisting on a review of the tariff schedule. If a response from Salisbury is not soon received it is understood the president will call the attention of the world to the fact that the government is awaiting Salisbury's reply, and asking that the matter be brought to a close. It is said at the state department the Franco-American treaty signed at Paris today is for limited commercial reciprocity, and that the treaty is not known at the department, it having been almost solely negotiated by Minister Reed.

IMPOSING THE DUTIES. WASHINGTON, March 15.—In accordance with the provisions of the reciprocity legislation, Blaine, on January 10, addressed notes to the representatives in this city of Austria, Hungary, Colombia, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, the Philippine Islands and Venezuela, informing them that unless some understanding was reached as to commercial arrangements with Nicaragua have already been published. It is understood a definite proposition, likewise Spain, respecting the Philippine Islands, was given promise of an early and satisfactory adjustment. This leaves Colombia, Haiti and Venezuela. As it respects the president today issued a proclamation declaring the duties set forth in section 3, in force as to sugar, molasses, coffee and hides.
