THE DALLES, Or., March 31. The utter defeat and hopeless rout of th Mays-Farley combination at the recent Republican primaries, and in the county conrention, seems to have struck the Chronicle man a vital blow, judging from the poisonand fellow-citizens generally while covering the rear of the combination's retreat. The apporters of the citizens' ticket having no eader, save their conscience, he denominates "Moody strikers," "carrion crows,"

Now it appears to us that the citizens are the people that to their sacred trust is handed the living principles of Washington, Jefferson and Adams.

Making no doubt that the above quota ions echo the sentiments of the entire com mation, we make bold to assert that any man or class of men who will so berate his fellow citizens in the conscientions discharge of their duties, is unworthy the name of American, and would disappoint no fairninded free man if they took a back seat along with the Chinamen, so far as American citizenship is concerned.

As to the accusation of being "Mood strikers' they were not "moody" about it at all, but they did "strike" a telling blow withal. The Indian Case.

East Oregonian. Two Indians, Umapine and Mes-tin-e, are confined in the "skookum house" at the agency on the suspicion that they murdered Lacket-il-pilp,the young Indian found dead with a broken neck at the foot of the levee Sunday morning. It has been gathered that the three were together on the levee, drunk, and engaged m the pleasant pastime of consulting a bottle of liquor. The two arrested say that they came away and went home, leaving the other man there. Beyond this rather unsatisfactory statement they have said nothing. Indian police, who are more skillful in the detective business than many people imagine, are "working up the case," and claim to have evidence sufficient to make things warm for the suspects. One point in favor of the latler is that there were no marks of violence on the dead man's person, but the scene at the levee indicates that a struggle took place and Lacket-il-pilp might have been thrown down the bank by his drunken companions, the fall resulting in a broken neck. Prohibitionists.

Just now the subject of baking powder is laiming public attention. We all desire pure and wholesome bread and this cannot baking powder. There can be no longer any question that all the cheaper, lower grades of baking powders contain either dum, lime or phosphatic acid. The official analysis by the United States and Canadian governments have therefore been studied with interest and they have pretty clearly established the facts upon this subject. The United States governnent report gives the names of eighteen well-know powders, some of them advertised as pure cream of tartar baking powders, that contain alum.

The report given shows that the Royal Baking Powder was found the highest in leavening strength, evolving 160.6 cubic inches of gas per single ounce of powder. There were eight other brands of cream of tartar powders tested and their average strength was 111.5 cubic inches of gas per oance of powder.

The Canadian government investigations ere of a still larger number of powders. The Royal Baking Powder was here also shown the purest and highest in strength, containing 129.32 cubic inches of leavening gas per ounce of powder. Nine other cream of tartar powders were tested, their average strength being report to be 89 cobic inches

These figures are very instructive to the practical housekeeper. They indicate that the Royal Baking Powder goes more than 33 per cent. further in use than the others, or is one-third more economical. Still more mportant than this, however, they provi this popular article has been brought to the highest degree of purity-for to its superlative purity this superiority in strength is due-and consequently that by its use we be insured the purest and most wholesome

The powders of lower strength are found leave large amounts of inert matters in the food. This fact is emphasized by the report of the Ohio State Food Commissioner, who, while finding the Royal practically pure, found no other powder to contain less than 16 per cent, of inert or foreign mat

So far they say the trip has been very enjoyable; but climb hills, and undergo great hardships. The party consists of J. F. Chetham, E. W. Caston, John Howard and Miss Lulu Howard. The men appear to be forty years of age, or thereabouts, and the lady perhaps about thirty. They are dressed in proper attire for the journey, and not n any manner to receive company in a ashionable parlor. It is claimed by the men that they are mechanics, and simply undertook the journey for the novelty and adventure associated with it. The lady appeared in men's clothing, which she claimed is better adapted to the hardships of the journey. She is a variety actress, and at towns on the route will give entertainments to pay expenses. The barrow has the wheel nearly under the central part, so that the weight is hardly appreciable, and contains a tent, provisions, and a supply of medicines. They have met many difficulties in following county roads, and when they started out this morning took the railroad track. There is not much doubt that they will make the journey in good time, and by all advisable, or that the object to be attained is at all commendable, we will not say.
