The southern states are having discouragingly hard times. While thousands upon thousands of home seekers are camping on the borders of Oklahoma, or bracing against the cold in Dakota, the millions of fertile acres of the south, with its "glorious climate" thrown in, go begging for occupants, Why is it? The men interested in southern prosperity should find out. There are millions in it.

It is most frequently the case that the people who have the most criticism to offer in regard to the conduct and course of a newspaper are the ones who contribute the least towards its maintainance and support. These lines will possibly catch the eye of some who will borrow a copy of the Many complimentary remarks were made TIMES-MOUNTAINEER this week to scan by the gentlemen on the excellence of the its columns for the purpose of catching menu, which, of course was attributed to some item that will give them an opportunity to find fault. A newspaper is liable to err, but when it does it has no apology to make to those who have never been its patrons.

The sugar trust scarcely accomplishes the feat of removing one combefore another refinery project is formed on a scale as great as that just closed up. As a well-known English economist recently remarked, a trust cannot be successfully maintained for a long period in a country where competition is free unless it keeps its prices down so that individuals will not be tempted to compete. That is proving to be the case in this country, as the experience of the sugar trust conclusively proves.

"What the woolen manufacture of the United States now needs, before all else, is a period of entire rest from tariff agitation aiming at radical departure from the conditions upon which industry is now organized, and to which it has been fully adjusted." So says the National Association of Woolen Manufacturers in their protest against the free-wool bill. These manufacturers have sense enough to know that they can not have protection for themselves alone and none for American industries must stand together and make a common defense against the assaults of the free trade Democracy.

said E. V. Woodlin, of Newport, N. Y., in a recent interview. "Under the old tariff the dividends on our invested capital did not reach a savings bank interest rate. The Mc-Kinley tariff saved many an old mill, and is creating many a new one. The profit knit goods now return is a fair dividend on the invested capital, and has enabled us not only to keep our mills open, but to increase salaries. PENDLETON AND VICINITY.

The following items we take from Pendle ton's lively newspaper, the East Oregonian: A three-year-old child of Robert Mathews was drowned at Warm Springs Sunday by falling from a foot-log into the river, the little one being swept away before rescue was possible. The remains were brought to Pendleton for burial.

A member of the tin-horn fraternity named McCormack was arrested Saturday night by the police for refusing to leave town when ordered. He was kept all night in jail and next morning willingly shook

Main street was burglarized Sunday night. The discovery was made this morning that a stout door which leads into the cellar from the rear had been pried off its hinges and broken open, though stoutly braced from within, and that the thieves had effected entrance into the saloon by lifting a trap door. It is impossible for the proprietors to tell how much was taken, and it is thought that possibly but a few bottles of liquor and boxes of cigars were stolen. The liquor room in the cellar was locked and could not be entered. The patent register in the bar room was also locked, and it is probable that the burglars, being frightened by the noise of some one passing without, did not care to pry it open. There is no clue as to the identity of the perpetrators. Sunday morning at about 4 o'clock fire broke out at Athena in a barn belonging to Dr. Sharp. The structure was all ablaze when the fire was discovered, and nothing could be done to save it. There were five horses in the barn, and they were literally roasted to death in sight of their human friends, who found it impossible to save them. Three of the horses belonged to Dr. Sharp, and his loss, barn and animals, will be in the neighborhood of $8000; no insurance. The other two were a team W. H. Beers had left in the barn, preparatory to start next morning for his ranch on Yellow-jacket, Birch creek. The means at hand to combat the fire eyidenced Athena's almost total lack of protection, and its enterpris-ing citizens will perhaps lose no time in se-
