The papers are still occupied in discussing the prospects of a conciliation between the emperor and Bismark. The report has been circulated that Bismark will be made president of the state council, but there is little likelihood that the ex chancelor would accept such an unimportant position. An extriordinary story was recently in circulation to the effect that the emperor, while passing through Fredrichsruhe, stopped a train and sent a message to Bismark requesting him to come to the train. Prince Bismark decided to go, but was dissuaded by his wife and Count Herbert. Finally a message was sent the emperor inform ing him Bismark was unable to comply with the request.
