The admirably compiled statistics of prisoners from the year 1890, collected by the Wardens' association of the United States and Canada, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean, reveal some conditions not only wholly unexpected by the general public, but diametrically opposed to the belief of the general

The belief of the general public is that the pursuit of agriculture tends to innocence, but the statistics of prisons show that the percentage of criminals is greater among the agricultural class than among people employed in trade and transportation or in mining, manufacturing and mechanical pursuits. The percentage of persons engaged in agriculture was, by the census of 1880, 44.10 of the whole population; the percentage of persons engaged in agriculture who were convicted of crime sufficiently heinous to merit imprisonment in 38 of the penitentiaries of the States and territories was 15.27. But, while the percentage, in relation to population, of persons engaged in mining, manufacturing and mechanical pursuits was 22 06, the percentage of such persons convicted of crime was but 6.55. Which is to say that, while the agricultural population is hardly double that engaged in mines, manufactures and mechanics the criminal population from agricultural sources is nearly two and a half times as great. The agricultural population is not quite four times as great as that engaged in trade and transportation, but the number of agricultural convicts is nearly five times as great. These are astonishing fig-

But it is from that class of population known in all census records as "personal and professional,"the waiters, barbers, body servants, lawyers, doctors and preachers, that the larges percentage of criminals is recruited. These people form less than one-fourth of the population of the country and evolve nearly three-fourths of the crime. The exact percentages are 23.42 in relation to total population and 72.09 in relation to total number of prisoners for crime. This class is, on the whole, well educated. Another surprise awaits us in the discovery that the illiterate form comparatively small part of the criminal population, being but about 10 per cent among white prisoners and not a bad showing for the race; 1,851 were of foreign birth. During the year under notice the Rusk penitentiary, of Texas, contained 381 white and 14 colored prisoners, while the Gatesville prison, in the same State, pi, South Carolina, Louisiana, statistics of their prison population, nor do either of the Virginias.

Of 9,632 male prisoners 6,691 were persons who never had been married, would seem to indicate that marriage

North Fork fossil beds, besides re pains of three-toed horses, is found an extinct species of cat—the gomphodus—which amed over Oregon, and which amused itself and fed itself by chewing up the mighty reptales of millions of years sgo. It was as big as the biggest panther, and had two teeth in its upper jaw, resembling daggers, each five inches in length. As eapons for penetrating flesh, they are univaled among carnivorous animals, recent or extinct. They are rather like the teeth of some huge flesh eating dinosaurs, the "terrible reptiles" of the mesozoic epoch, which had cutting teeth that nothing could resist. Frank Laurance on Fall creek was consumed by fire while the family-except his little danghter Mery-was absent. She had built a fire in the cook stove in order to prepare supper for the family by the time they returned, and the fire caught from the stovepipe. The little girl was unable to save anything from the house, and there being no neighbors within reach everything the family possessed was consumed. Mr aurance was a poor man before this misortune befel him, and the loss of his house and food and clothing rendered him doubly poor in this world's goods. A RUNAWAY CAR. Terrible Arcident Near the Power House in Portland.

A terrible accident occurred on the cable road last night, which, from advices received at a late hour, is likely to result in the death of one or more persons. A band concert was held on Portland Heights yesterday afternoon, and the entire country about there was crowded with pleasure-seekers. They began to disperse and return home late in the evening, and every car that came down the hill was loaded. Car No. 13, with Gripman Erickson at the lever, left the top of the hill about 9 o'clock. It was an open car and every inch of room on it was taken men even hanging on to the was taken, men even hanging on to the right guard rails. It came down the steep trestle all right, and when nearing the power-house the gripman let loose of the cable as usual, but when he tried to the cable as usual, but when he tried to take it again he was unable to do so. The car had gained considerable momentum and the brakes would not hold. The hill at this place is quite steep, and down the car dashed at a fearful speed. Several men jumped and were badly hurt, but the car was so crowded that it was impossible for those inside to get off, and many hanging on the outside were too frightened to act. Reaching the corner of Jefferson street, where the turn is made to come up town, the car was made to come up town, the car was traveling at the rate of about 25 miles an TURNED OVER WITH A CRASH. Striking the curve the car turned over with a crash. Then a terrible scene of excitement ensued. The shrieks and groans of the injured could be heard blocks, and the cries for help from those pinned underneath the car soon brought hundreds of people to their assistance. Nearly 100 men, women and children were struggling to free themselves, and to make matters worse a fire broke out, caused by one of the lamps exploding, but this was soon extinguished. Those but this was soon extinguished. Those who found themselves to be uninjured set to work immediately to relieve those who were not so fortunate.

A SECOND RUNAWAY CAR. But before any work could be done down rushed car No. 18 and dashed into the wreck. This car had also broken only 19.56 among all prisoners.

Of 9,859 committed to the 38 penitentiaries where statistics were available by the Warden's association, but 1,932 were colored, which certainly is not a had showing for the race: 1.851 indescribable. Soon the uninjured were brought to their senses by the appeals from the imperiled ones, and the work of rescue was begun. Bleeding, senseless, crushed beyond recognition, with broken bones, women and men were dragged from beneath the wreck and taken to neighboring houses and stores. describable. Soon the un every one bewildered and they hardly knew how the accident did occur. One man, hatless and dirty, with his Prince Albert coat badly torn, had recovered sufficiently from the shock to talk. He told substantially what is given above as to how the car broke away, and he was afterward corroborated by several others He said he was holding on outside, and as soon as he reached the curve jumped, fell and rolled over, just escaping the falling car. He said it was the most thrilling ride he had ever taken, and his sensations as the car rushed down the hill could not be explained. He was paralyzed with fear, realizing the pos-He was paralyzed with fear, realizing the pos-sibility of a terrible death, and it required a supreme effort on his part to make the jump.
