

MANUFACTURES.

There is no denying the fact that The Dalles must inaugurate factors of development if she desire to grow and prosper in the future.

This vicinity is not alone adapted to sheep-raising, but has equal facilities for fruit-growing, and this would furnish the basis for another remunerative industry.

Of course it will require the expenditure of capital to put any industry in operation; but capital so invested increases the wealth of the community, and by so doing benefits the capitalist in many different ways.

TRUTH AND FALSEHOOD.

As we frequently have said, we like the British free-trader because he tells the truth, though it hurts him, says an eastern exchange, and we despise the American free-trader because he will not tell the truth when it would serve him just as well as falsehood.

This is what the London Times said on the 29th day of July last: All the operatives employed at the fly-in-plate works in the Swansea district have struck work in consequence of a wage dispute with the masters.

The revolt of the miners at Coal Creek, in Tennessee, has been quelled, and peace reigns in the community.

Mr. Eshelman, temporary chairman of the Democratic convention at Olympia, Wash., in his speech of acceptance, expressed regret that "American tin mines had been exhausted in making galleys for chairmen of Republican conventions."

take his position in the world of workers and not to be a drone in society.

The necessity of a public building in this city is apparent to every one. There is no commodious place for the common council or the different fire companies to meet, to house the engine or hose car, or as an armory for the militia.

The Teachers' Institute, now in session in this city, should be liberally patronized by all those interested in the proper dissemination of educational influences.

The Democrats have taken courage from an editorial article in the Oregonian regarding the political aspect in the state for Republicans this fall, and it has been published very extensively in Democratic papers.

Iniquitous Democratic gerrymanders, designed to secure control of state legislatures, have been declared unconstitutional in Wisconsin and Michigan.

Mr. Eshelman, temporary chairman of the Democratic convention at Olympia, Wash., in his speech of acceptance, expressed regret that "American tin mines had been exhausted in making galleys for chairmen of Republican conventions."

Peace reigns in all the cities lately disturbed by strikes, and in a little while railroads will be running and factories in operation the same as if nothing had happened.

THE PREVALENCE OF CRIME.

The subject of the prevalence of crime in this country is attracting the attention of the press, and when it is known that there are annually more homicides in the United States than in any other civilized nation, it is true that the alarm is sounded.

Very many leading journals ascribe the reason for this state of affairs to a lax administration of law by the courts, and the facility by which criminals are acquitted by the quibbles of attorneys.

The political campaign in Oregon has not fairly opened yet; but it will be warm when it opens.

The growth of the tin-plate industry in this country worries the Democratic free-trader in the United States as much as it does the British manufacturer.

This is a dull year in business matters throughout the country. Every attempt of the Democrats to change the economic policy of the nation will remain here until the law is obeyed and respected.

There has been another springing, this time in New Orleans, on the extension of H. M. Flager's east side railroad line, and news of it has just reached here.
