

ITEMS IN BRIEF

From Wednesday's Daily.

Hon. W. Lair Hill, of Seattle, is in the city.

There are four occupants in the county jail.

Mr. P. E. Mitchell came down from Grant yesterday.

The family of W. Tackman have returned to Long Creek.

Trade, incident upon the wheat season, is opening at the East End farm, near Mr. L. O'Brien, Rockhouse, Wash., has been in the city for several days.

Mr. Frank Sampson, of Sineshah school, has been in the city for some days.

Mrs. A. J. Gehres returned this morning from a visit to her sister at Springfield, Wash.

Mr. J. W. Worley was a passenger on the 1 o'clock train from a short visit to the coast.

The camping services in the picnic still attract considerable attention, and the attendance is quite large.

The fruit crop this year is very prolific, and melons, which are shipped to distant points, are in great abundance.

Charlie Lewis, who has been spending his summer vacation at Dayville, Grant county, arrived in the city yesterday.

Miss Virginia F. Marler, who has been spending the summer months at Pine Knot cottage on the beach, returned yesterday.

Prof. Bloss, of the Agricultural College, in attendance on the institute in this city, returned to Corvallis on the morning train.

The first load of wheat of this season's harvest was received at Moody's warehouse yesterday. The price paid was 60 cents.

E. S. McComas, editor of the La Grande Gazette, has deposited his interest in that paper to Ed. L. Eckley, formerly in control.

Among those registered at the Umatilla house to-day were Mr. H. Kooper, of Rockhouse, and Mr. Chas. Butler, of Townsend, Wash.

The sand is constantly encroaching on the roadway near the Rockhouse. Without a glass factory is started soon sand will cover the entire barren flat.

The anniversary of the great fire has nearly arrived, and in looking over the burned district the number of buildings erected is a subject for congratulation.

The Engineer and Printer, the magazine of progress in illustration, is on our exchange table. It is the most beautiful work in typography that we have seen.

The frisky festive squirrels had for the Grant county picnic this season; but around the Dalles he feasts on watermelons, muskmelons, peaches and other choice fruits.

Yesterday a Dane named Andrew Horner, about 25 years of age, committed suicide near Portland, by hanging himself with a piece of bale rope. He was supposed to have been insane.

Rev. Sam Driver, who was well known as a boy at the Dalles twenty years ago, has returned from the Eastern Oregon and Idaho conference and will lecture at the Dalles. The gathering will be at the Dalles and he will lecture at the Dalles.

The meeting of the Editorial Association has been held for the full attendance of the editors of the state. Our citizens are making arrangements to entertain the district attorney and the defense by Mr. E. Schatz.

John Green, the boy who killed Danne at Rockhouse, Wash., some time ago, has been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. He is only 18 years old, in delicate health, and the only surviving child of his mother, his father having died from grief just before his trial.

The Royal Baking Powder maintains its vigorous hold on the market, and its active and aggressive against the impure and injurious baking powder palmed off on the people. In this task it is performing a good work for honest and unadulterated food products.

Sherriff Ward returned yesterday from Portland. He is in company with Mr. W. O. Keras, left the city Monday, Aug. 15, via the Burrow road for the Willamette valley, arriving at Clatsop the following Sunday. They camped out nearly every night, and enjoyed the trip very much.

There is some disease prevalent among tomato plants, that has nearly destroyed that industry in the United States. The turn yellow and the fruit wither and die. Some remedy could be applied it would be a great boon to the horticulturists. Some have yielded very small returns during the past few years.

A telegram from Ellensburg, Wash., announced the death of Mr. D. O. McLean, formerly an employe of the U. of Ore., and well known to all railroad men. The cause of death was not given, and no particulars were sent. He was generous-hearted, and made many friends wherever he went. He is missed by all who knew him.

Perry King, apparently a hero, on being arrested last Friday at Baker City for vagrancy through removal of conscience, confessed to having committed murder on the 12th of July, 1885, in Wallcut, Kas., by killing the father of a child who had escaped, after being arrested and placed in jail. While making the confession, the defendant wept and tears, and his whole demeanor was that of a man who had undergone great torment of mind.

A Pasmzandy, a Hungarian, will send for exhibition at the World's Fair, a collection of exceedingly good paintings, which will doubtless attract much attention. There are twenty-five of the pictures and all are miniatures almost to the microscopic degree. They represent the landing of Columbus, with seventeen human figures in a boat about the size of the hull of the little frigate. Another is a portrait of Emperor Francis Joseph and is of the size of the head of a match. The work on these pictures is said to be exquisite.

According to an act passed last May all Chinamen within the United States must register themselves within one year or leave the country. Three photographs of each Chinaman, a recent biography and a critical description of each will be required. According to the latest information there is about 100,000 Chinamen in this country, of this number more than 75,000 are in the Pacific states. Consequently the register will be a considerable one, and it will be necessary for the photographer whom they may elect to patronize, in large cities, will have his hands full.

From Thursday's Daily.

Delightful mornings.

The public school will open on Monday Sept. 5th.

The Columbia has nearly reached low water mark.

Mr. Nello Johnson was a passenger on the 1 o'clock train.

Very many of our citizens expect to be present at the barbecue to-morrow at Grant.

Mr. Geo. Herbert, mine boss of the Mt. Hood hotel at Hood River, was in the city yesterday.

License to marry was granted to Allen Fulton and Elsie B. Backus by the county clerk to-day.

The city recorder did not have any person to interview this morning, and the city jail is vacant.

Asiatic cholera is marching westward, and sanitary measures should not be neglected. Clean the streets, and wash the hands.

Mr. J. W. Condon has received the appointment from Gov. Penner, of county attorney of Wasco, of the state board of School Land Commissioners.

The verdict of the jury in the case of State vs. Geo. Mann, John Mann and James Johnson, tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Clark, was guilty as charged, and they were fined.

Every visitor from the east admires our fruit, and our horticulturists can congratulate themselves that the products of the orchards in the vicinity of The Dalles cannot be excelled anywhere on the coast.

The Texas giant, Col. Powell, 7 feet 8 inches high, who is traveling with a circus, is said, while the circus exhibited at Boivar, Missouri, slipped out with Henrietta Morley, the midget, 22 inches high, and the two were married. The mother of the midget bride was very indignant, but her new son-in-law was more than she cared to "trouble."

The Queen of the Island Empire, the little boat lately built by Mr. Kennedy, got up steam and made a trial trip to-day. She plowed the place between the river and the determined manner, and demonstrated her powers of velocity.

A few members of the Salvation Army are attending a meeting at night, but the cause was in the piece shop of this city, and the give rise to a rumor last evening that the Salvation Army had visited The Dalles. On examination this report proved unfounded.

A cat and dog fight occurred, considerable excitement on the street last night, but the cause was of the bull-dog species, and the separation of the combatants nearly caused a riot between the on-lookers. The Dalles. An examination of this report proved unfounded.

East Oregonians: Many of the Indians are leaving the reservation and are on their way to the coast. Some go to Walla Walla to fish and hunt, but the majority travel to the coast to visit the coast. An agreement to meet the Bannock Indians half way, trade horses and goods, and smoke the pipe of peace. The two tribes were enemies in the war of 1878 but enemies have been lately seen by the Bannocks. Many of the Indians are on their way to the coast.

Salmon Statement: Ashley White has a relic that is a rare curiosity. It consists of an old Hudson Bay Company knife around which a piece of salmon skin was wrapped and in being chopped up the wood man's axe came in contact with the knife. The knife was used to cut a piece of salmon skin, which was hidden from sight until it was discovered by the blade of the axe. The knife, which is badly rusted, was a very long one. Its blades are closed and one end of the handle is seen from either side of the handle. It is said to have been brought to Oregon and laid in the links of an oak tree in Folk county as early as 1842.

The Union Pacific railroad has failed to adopt the suggestion of the local business men to put another brakeman on their train. Commissioner Hamilton, of Baker City, says: "The company has failed to do as we wanted it to do, but we cannot force the corporation in this matter. The commission acts merely in an advisory capacity. Only one brakeman is employed on each train, while more should be put on. I do not suppose that more than one man needed all the time to work the air brakes, but another man at least should be employed to assist ladies and children on the platform. When the through trains reach here they are composed of about fourteen cars, which makes the train all the way. I regard the Dalles division as dangerous as the mountain run. I suppose the company can get along on the mountain run, but no one so far as I know can force it to take proper precautions."

A railroad wrecking took place a few days ago at Clifton, Wash. In a party of tourists, journeying from the coast up into the mountains, were a number of people, and a train of about a dozen cars, and a maiden of fifteen years of age, who was desirous of being married, and who was accompanied by a young man, who was a preacher who married them on a license from Columbia county, but on the return of the train to Clifton, the train was wrecked, and the young man was killed, and the maiden was injured.

Several days Little Miss Genevieve Fish has been informing her friends that she was "going to have a party" last Saturday night. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Worley, and was a very successful one. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Worley, and was a very successful one.

John Green, the boy who killed Danne at Rockhouse, Wash., some time ago, has been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. He is only 18 years old, in delicate health, and the only surviving child of his mother, his father having died from grief just before his trial.

The Royal Baking Powder maintains its vigorous hold on the market, and its active and aggressive against the impure and injurious baking powder palmed off on the people. In this task it is performing a good work for honest and unadulterated food products.

Sherriff Ward returned yesterday from Portland. He is in company with Mr. W. O. Keras, left the city Monday, Aug. 15, via the Burrow road for the Willamette valley, arriving at Clatsop the following Sunday. They camped out nearly every night, and enjoyed the trip very much.

There is some disease prevalent among tomato plants, that has nearly destroyed that industry in the United States. The turn yellow and the fruit wither and die. Some remedy could be applied it would be a great boon to the horticulturists. Some have yielded very small returns during the past few years.

A telegram from Ellensburg, Wash., announced the death of Mr. D. O. McLean, formerly an employe of the U. of Ore., and well known to all railroad men. The cause of death was not given, and no particulars were sent. He was generous-hearted, and made many friends wherever he went. He is missed by all who knew him.

Perry King, apparently a hero, on being arrested last Friday at Baker City for vagrancy through removal of conscience, confessed to having committed murder on the 12th of July, 1885, in Wallcut, Kas., by killing the father of a child who had escaped, after being arrested and placed in jail. While making the confession, the defendant wept and tears, and his whole demeanor was that of a man who had undergone great torment of mind.

A Pasmzandy, a Hungarian, will send for exhibition at the World's Fair, a collection of exceedingly good paintings, which will doubtless attract much attention. There are twenty-five of the pictures and all are miniatures almost to the microscopic degree. They represent the landing of Columbus, with seventeen human figures in a boat about the size of the hull of the little frigate. Another is a portrait of Emperor Francis Joseph and is of the size of the head of a match. The work on these pictures is said to be exquisite.

According to an act passed last May all Chinamen within the United States must register themselves within one year or leave the country. Three photographs of each Chinaman, a recent biography and a critical description of each will be required. According to the latest information there is about 100,000 Chinamen in this country, of this number more than 75,000 are in the Pacific states. Consequently the register will be a considerable one, and it will be necessary for the photographer whom they may elect to patronize, in large cities, will have his hands full.

From Thursday's Daily.

Delightful mornings.

The public school will open on Monday Sept. 5th.

The Columbia has nearly reached low water mark.

Mr. Nello Johnson was a passenger on the 1 o'clock train.

Very many of our citizens expect to be present at the barbecue to-morrow at Grant.

Mr. Geo. Herbert, mine boss of the Mt. Hood hotel at Hood River, was in the city yesterday.

License to marry was granted to Allen Fulton and Elsie B. Backus by the county clerk to-day.

The city recorder did not have any person to interview this morning, and the city jail is vacant.

Asiatic cholera is marching westward, and sanitary measures should not be neglected. Clean the streets, and wash the hands.

Mr. J. W. Condon has received the appointment from Gov. Penner, of county attorney of Wasco, of the state board of School Land Commissioners.

The verdict of the jury in the case of State vs. Geo. Mann, John Mann and James Johnson, tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Clark, was guilty as charged, and they were fined.

Every visitor from the east admires our fruit, and our horticulturists can congratulate themselves that the products of the orchards in the vicinity of The Dalles cannot be excelled anywhere on the coast.

The Texas giant, Col. Powell, 7 feet 8 inches high, who is traveling with a circus, is said, while the circus exhibited at

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

THE DALLES, AUG. 24, 1922.

"Hymn to the North Star."

The sad and solemn night

Walk that my multitude of cheerful lives

Walk the dark hemisphere till the sunrise;

And through her silent watches, gliding, show

How our common life is but a dream

Many a bright singer, as the green grows dim,

That whose a radiant troop once met with him.

And then do we see them—

Star of the Pole and then do we see them set.

Above, in thy cold sky,

That whose a radiant troop once met with him.

Not joyous the dance of this glittering train,

Not gleams thy virgin orb in the blue western

There, at moon's rosy light,

Thou look'st meekly through the kindling air;

And eve, that round the earth

Chase the dark, the moon watching thee;

Thou dost smile, and the moon's face that

The shapes of solar flame, and the heat that

Altho' beneath thy eye,

Thou dost of darkness and of light are come;

High towards the sun's sky

Thou dost of darkness and of light are come;

The night storm on a thousand hills is laid,

And the strong wind of day doth mingle sea and

On this unending blue,

The half-wounded mother, his compass lost,

Fixes his steady gaze,

And stars, and stars, to the firmament come;

And they who stay in pathless wastes, by night,

Are glad when thou dost shine to guide their foot-

step light.

And, beneath thy eye,

Saves and harkens, harkens, harkens, harkens,

Did in thy beams behold

A hazy vision of that unchanging good,

That brightest beacon, that our life's true guide,

The voyager of time should shape his heraldic way.

Beginning yesterday at 1:30, Prof. Rigler traced the voyages and discoveries of the most important voyagers of the world, and very beautifully prepared maps of the newly discovered countries appeared to voyagers of that day. Then after a review and assigning the next work, Prof. Ackerman followed on mental arithmetic. Books' Normal Manual was used for through the work, and if teachers would acquaint themselves with that work more thoroughly the questions in the teachers' quarterly examination would not appear so difficult to them in that branch.

President Jones then claimed the attention of the teachers on what should read and how much, dwelling especially on the art of reproduction of thoughts gained.

He advised the young men present to tell what they read about, even though it be to some one else's sister. Owing to the joyful disposition he surmised that he might be company some one on a watermelon expedition some evening—just for fun!

Prof. Ackerman closed the exercises of the day by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

Prof. Rigler finished the work in fractions in his arithmetic No. 2, as he was followed by Prof. Ackerman in language, using a book by the same author, "The Three Georges."

At 8 o'clock, Prof. Rigler finished the day's work by having the teachers read and analyze the book, "The World's Advance Thought," after repeating the Lord's prayer this morning and collecting tuition of one dollar each from those in attendance, the regular program began.

COMMON COUNCIL.

The council convened last (Wednesday) evening pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Hon. Robert Mays, mayor; E. B. Dator, Paul K. Taylor, T. N. Jones, H. J. Maier and C. H. Haight, councilmen.