A large number of editors went to Spokane last night on the train. They will be received at the metropolis of the Inland Empire by the Washington editors, and make the trip to Portland via the sound. Tuesday was one of those delightful lays which are usual in Eastern Oregon at this season of the year. The air was fifteen years old, in playing football last evening collided with another boy, result-ing in a fracture of the collar-bone. Dr. Logan was called and attended to his infree from smoke, and the rays of the sun were reflected in a clear atmosphere. For miles, in every direction, the outline of the horizon could be distinctly marked, and a more beautiful landscape could not be seen even under Italian skies.

Soon after 6 o'clock crowds of ladies and gentlemen, constituting the different committees of citizens, could be seen wending their way to the Regulator whart, and at 7 o'clock the whistle blew and the boat left the wharf for the Cascades. The trip down the river was a yery pleasant one, and while some admired the grandeur of the scenery, the ladies of the city kept themselves busy in preparing the luncheo low the art of photography. He is an artist of good reputation and will un doubtedly give satisfaction to those desiring several tables, and each was well supplied with dishes of our most luscious fruits.

At 11 o'clock the boat made the landing at the Locks, and the ladies and gentleof terror among the fine bulls on Willow creek, in fact bull shooting seems to have men proceeded to the depot and met the members of the association as they come a favorite pastime with some individuals of that rural community. A few weeks ago Joe Hinkle found a fine Hereford stepped from the east-bound train. They then proceeded in a body to the governbull which had cost him $350, dead in his pasture with a rifle bullet in his head; and a few days ago Perry Read discovered a thoroughbred shorthorn belonging to his nerd that had been shot and will probably die.

The editors expressed themselves as heartly in sympathy with an open river, and the importance of completing the locks and canal at the earliest possible date. Returning to the boat the editors were seated at the tables, and par-

Camp-bell shot a bear, and believing that bruin was done for, proceeded to cut its throat took of the repast with a relish. The morning ride up the Columbia, with the invigorating breezes peculiar to the gorge of the Cascades, gave these knights of the pencil a relish of the good things set before them, and they demonstrated their appreciation of the efforts of our ladies in this important branch of an entertainment to an Anglo-Saxon by partaking bountifully of the repast. Too much praise cannot be given to the ladies who worked arduously for several days previously to prepare the lunch, and made themselves indispensable in waiting on the tables. The officers of the boat displayed every mark of courtesy and gave freely of dishes, knives and forks and > other necessaries to the spread. The trip up the river was truly enjoyable, and, through the kindness of Capt, McNulty, a stop was made at Memaluse island, and the guests given an opportunity of viewing the fleshless remains of several generations of aboriginees. These bones were considered sacred, and there was not the least disturbance of any of these relics.

Arriving at the wharf in this city at 6 o'clock in the evening the visitors were met by The Dalles City band and escorted remain until to-morrow evening as the guests of the city.

Flags were flying from several buildings, and across the street in front of the Sun office was stretched bunting with the word "Welcome" in the center. Other buildings were illuminated and becomingly decorated.

Reception Given to the Editors. From Thursday's Daily.

The programme of last evening was carried out very successfully, and our citizens have rarely enjoyed such an occasion. On account of the lateness of the arrival of the train it was after 8 o'clock before the exercises began, and then the court house was comfortably filled. The Dalles City band discoursed several enlivening tunes of music, appointed to confer with the secretary and this attracted a large number of people. The judge's bench was beautifully decorated with flowers, with the emblem of the print-

As soon as the last tune was played, Hon. R. Mays, the mayor, arose and welcomed the editors to the city. He spoke of pioneer days, when Oregon extended from the Pacific ocean to the Rocky mountains, and from the California line on the south to the British boundary on the north. There were but two papers printed in Oregon territory then, one in Oregon City and one in Salem; but Mr. Mays had seen this portion of the northwest grow into a powerful common-wealth, with an intelligent press guiding its course towards further advancement, and he was happy to state that the papers of Conover, Gazette, Corvallis; Mrs Mar Humphrey, Independent, Hillsboro; D M C Gault, Independent, Hillsboro; C (Doughty, Observer, Dallas; Miss Moffett ples applicable to the publication of mewspapers. of the association, thanked the citizens of The Dalles for the many evidences of good at the Cascades, the beautiful floral decora-tions of the tables, and the pleasant ride up the Columbia on the Regulator. The up the Columbia on the Regulator. The meeting at The Dalles, he said, will be one long to be remembered, and the efforts of the citizens to entertain them will be duly appreciated. Our fruit exhibit had been a surprise to many not acquainted with this region, and the future possibilities of this, the gateway of the luland Empire, were almost incalculable. He particularly impressed upon the minds of the editors the committee consisting of Messrs. Hibbard, lying east of the Cascades. While these annual meetings are, in a certain measure, for business, rest and recreation, editors should not be unmindful of the needs of way of commerce which drains an empire in extent, and were made acquainted with the necessity of government and state aid in freeing it from obstructions. Mr. Noltner's

The next part of the programme was the speech of Col. Donan, and the reporter's similes were grand and his metaphors sub-lime, and the transition from the loftiest flights of oratory to the comical side of uman nature so sudden that the audience afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Death of Hon. W. McD. Lewis. From Friday s Daily.

Hon. William McD. Lewis, who has een sick for a long while, died last evening in this city. In June, 1884, he was elected to the Oregon legislature, and served during the coming session with honor to himself and credit to his constituents. For many years he has been resident of Wasco county, and in every manner was identified with its progress and prosperity. As a neighbor and citizen Mr. Lewis was highly respected, and his death will be a loss to the community. He was about 56 years old, and leaves widow and son to mourn his departure The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock from the Cathol

A ringing noise in the ears, head-ache, deafness, eyes weak; ob-struction of nose, discharges falling into throat, some-times profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, bloody and putrid; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Not all of these symptoms at once. Probably only a few of them.

That's Catarrh.

A medicine that by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties has cured the most hopeless cases. One that will cure you, no matter how bad your case or of how long standing. A medicine that doesn't simply palliate for a time, but produces perfect and permanent cures.

That's Dr. Sege's Catarrh Remedy.

A cash payment of $500, not by you, as you might expect, but to you, if you can't be cured. It's an offer that's made in good faith, to prove their medicine, by responsible men, the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Remedy.

That's the kind of medicine to try.

Doesn't it seem so?
