REFORMS.

During the campaign just closed Democrats all over the United States have arraigned the Republican party for placing heavy burdens upon consumers by means of the McKinley bill, in nurturing corporations and plutocrats by class legislation, and in causing strikes and general depression in business by favoring the few to the injury of the many. These and many other gross outrages have been laid to the charge of the present administration, and in their platform adopted at Chicago and in the speeches of their orators Democrats have promised rehef if the sovereign people would give them the executive and legislative branches of the government. The citizens of the country have acceded to their urgent request in a very liberal manner, and it is now, incumbent on the great Democratic party, the party of reform, to redeem its pledges. For the next four years the president and both houses of congress will be as clay in the hands of the potter to the dictation of the politicians who secured the victory, and relief should come immediately. It should be far-reaching, and the McKinley bill should be repealed, and a measure imposing duties only for revenue passed. The Of course, it is presumed that this ring national banks should be abolof politicians did not follow the same ished, and radical action taken plan of operations that the Woman's in regard to trusts. The change was made on the morning before the mail steamer sailed from San Francisco with the origual orders on account of the late news from Honolalu, which caused the officials to think it prudent to keep the Alliance in that port. Orders were accordingly sent to have the Ranger, now at San Francisco, fitted out for service in Samoa. But it was subsequently found too much delay would be occasioned in getting ber off for this service, and deeming the sit-The bulk of opinion here points in the diuation in Samoa more urgent than that ection of an extra session of congress, which, in Honolulu, it was finally decided to adt is believed, will be called at an early date
