he cut a "bee tree" a few days ago that contained 150 pounds of fine honey, and he says the mountain forests contain many more trees inhabited by the tireless little toilers. The millions of wild flowers that grow on the mountain sides and in the meadows every summer are coveted by the busy bees.

Passengers who arrived in the city on the east-bound train yesterday report the snow about five feet deep on a level at Bonneville. The snow plow, in many places, bored its way through drifts twenty-five and thirty feet deep; but in a little while the cuts would be refilled by drifting snow. The Cogswell stock bill should not pass, says the Heppner Gazette. To divide the taxes on stock that go into another county is fair, and such bill would meet the approbation of stockmen. But to have to pay taxes, and an uojust liceuse besides, for the privilege of herding on Uncle Sam's grass, is out of reason. There is a mean as well

Albany Herald: Two separate and distinct rumors reached this city yesterday from Corvallis, in reference to the matter of the right to examine the books of the Oregon Pacific company. One that the decision of Judge Fullerton was that the decision of Judge Fullerton was that the New York experts has no right to examine the books and had left for San Francisco by the way of the Bay and the steamer. The other was that the decision was in their favor and that the result of their examination was the discovery of rather extrava-gant salaries paid to certain officials. The New York gentlemen have started back and Mr. Hoag has gone to San Francisco is really about all that is known upon the Albany Herald: Friday quite an exciting aone took place at the Oregon Pacific depot, which elicited a great deal of attention at the time and considerable comment afterwards. It consisted of a genuine, old-fashioned cowhiding, in which the lash was thoroughly applied and the victim had to take the medicine and acknowledged that it was deserved. The consisted of the control of th was deserved. The man in the is one of the carpenters on the Oregon Pa-cific railroad and just ready to take the train for Yaquina, by name Geo. Ridinger, and the lady was the wife of one of Albany's contractors and builders. The cause was derogatory and scandalous talk made by Ridinger against the lady, without any grounds whatever. The lady's busband witnessed the eastigation and emphasized it with some talk to the traducer as to his Several days ago, says a Hillsboro paper, a Chinaman, who lived at Beaverton, met with a sudden and tragic death through his own thoughtlessness. The Chinaman was the owner of a team, and, having occasion to enter the stable where he was keeping his horses, he passed very near the heels of one of the animals without taking the pre-caution to speak first. The horse was caution to speak first. The horse was frightened by the sudden and unexpected mal gave a vicious kick, striking the poor Mongotian in the back het vern the shoulders. The blow was so powerful that it killed the Chinagan almost instantly.
