

SUGAR BOUNTIES. Last fall Secretary Foster estimated the amount that would be required for the bounty on American sugar under the provisions of the McKinley bill at $10,000,000, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

The production of beet sugar has advanced from 12,000,000 pounds in round numbers, in 1892 to 27,000,000 pounds in 1893. The product of maple sugar this year will be about 3,000,000 pounds, sorghum production about 1,000,000 pounds, and the cane production about 450,000,000 pounds.

In view of the open threats made by the Democratic party of 1892, that one of its first acts when in power would be to repeal the sugar bounty act, it is little wonder that there is no increase reported in the number of sugar producing and making establishments in the United States.

When congress meets the next time, whether in extra or regular session, this question of sugar bounties will have to be settled. The McKinley act, in terms, promised the continuation of the bounty until July 1905, but a Democratic congress, which never has any care or regard for domestic industries, may have no hesitation in breaking this promise made to the sugar makers of California, Nebraska and Louisiana, or in killing the domestic sugar industry on the puerile ground that it is being aided by a subsidy.

A few days ago the TIMES-MOUNTAINEER said that the Democratic press, with hardly an exception, were attacking the principle of pensioning those who were disabled—by wounds or sickness—in the late war, and called their attention to the fact that there was equally as much fraud in voting bounties to those who served in the Mexican war as to those who risked life and limb to preserve the nation during the late rebellion.

During the week, W. N. Brown, Clarence Zachary, Jas. Barnard, Billy Keys and others have been busy for Reynolds, with the result that less than two-year-old steers will be sold in this section next month, and three next year will be scarce as hens' teeth.

On Sunday an old Indian was noticed walking towards the academy building. He was dressed like a white man, and seemed to wear a benign expression on his face.

On being questioned he gave his name as Joseph, and that he was baptized by Father Walker when he was stationed as a missionary near the academy site. The old man was very communicative, and required no questioning to draw out his recollection of the history of the Methodist mission.

Oattle Buyers in Gilliam County. Louis Lapointe has purchased a few more "bands round," and Reynolds has since last week bought the 2-year-old steers of W. S. Thompson, J. A. Knapp, and a large number of other cattle men.

Shop Notes. Those A. M. who have been around among Morrow county sheep this year, give the following information: W. S. Small, of Miles City, Montana, and J. N. Watson, of Calif., have bought 12,000 head of sheep, the former 6,000 yearlings which he will ship from Wallata, the latter 6,000 two-year-olds, to be shipped from Nevada.

Yakima Herald. The indications are that the proposed big irrigation scheme of Kittitas county, of which so much has been written, has fallen through. Some $200,000 had been expended on this work in the way of surveys, appropriations, dams and rights-of-way, and what the trouble is the Herald represents as follows: It is said that the project was abandoned due to the opposition of the citizens of the county, however, was set to be held in Ellensburg sometime this week, and the citizens are hoping that all obstacles may be overcome.

It seems that there are bad boys in other parts of the state than The Dalles, as the following from the Eugene Guard will show: The boys, Ralph and Jesse Winklo, who have just served a sentence in the county jail for stealing a couple of boxes on the river were discharged from custody this morning by Sheriff Noland, their time having expired. He immediately re-arrested them on a warrant charging them with having burglarized a dwelling at Smithfield. They will be given an examination before Justice Kinney to-morrow morning. These boys ought to be sent to the reform school, but that institution is full to overflowing, and the citizens are hoping that all obstacles may be overcome.
