Two brothers named Balley rescued a horse from a well into which it had fallen, in Polk county, in a new and novel way the other day. They piled straw into the well and the horse tramped it and rose until he could clumb out.

The La Grande Chronicle, of the 20th, printed an Immigration edition of ten pages, with seve al fine illustrations of buildings in that city and vicinity. It was a very creditable number, and will be a good advertisement for La Grande.

The contract for building the bridge across the Big Klicklitat at the Maxen place was awarded to the Pacific Bridge comdany of Portland, Oregon, says the Klicklitat Leader. The bridge is to be a combination wood and steel structure and is to cost $2869.
