ANARCHY IN LONDON. London, above all cities of the world, is the refuge and hiding place of political plotters and conspirators, says the Inter Ocean. The British government is, and for at least a century has been, tolerant to a degree wholly incomprehensible to any continental surpassed by that of the United States, suicidal intent. He left nothing to indiof all mere verbal efflorescences. It cate the reason of his sudden taking off. He is quite as safe to preach condemnation of kings and queens, of millionairs, of presidents, and of mayors, and of all and singular the powers and in Heppner the cognomen of "Vanderbilt." functions of modern civilization in London as in Chicago, John Bull, whatever his failings may be, is a eagr stickler for freedom of speech. The London police daily endure such an amount of "chaffing" and abuse from the lips of street arabs and of the adult proletariat as would provoke a Chicago patrolman to the use of his club. But "thus far and no farther shalt thou go" is a rule of action from the enforcement of which the authorities never

Thus there has been extreme tolerance toward the anarchists in London. They have been allowed to assemble in the public squares and to denounce all forms of government as forms of tyranny. No one has interfered when they vilified Gladstone, hooted at the queen, or demanded radical changes in the constitution. The English have a well-grounded belief that their premiers, their monarchs and their constitution can resist a great deal of wind law, they proposed to assemble to devise means for its forcible overthrew, as though she were nothing but a child's revolvers; clubs are their only weap-

Behind this statement of facts lies a lesson of the strength of free governments. In Spain, where free speech is not tolerated, bombs did deadly and the injury to shipping was of little conwork. In London, where liberty verges on license, a handful of police suppress an overt attempt at violence.

The reason is plain. Free speech convinces the mass of the people of the absurdity of anarchistic theories; it also convinces the professional agitators of the weakness of their cause in the forum of the people. The people, after tolerating absurdities of speech, grow resolute in suppressing violence of action. Behind the police stands the army, and behind both, the people, who are resolved to defend the

A Strange Story.

A sensational story is published in the Philadelphia Times, of December 1st, conained in a dispatch from Pendleton, nuder date of November 29th, of the skeleton of a man being found walled in a cave in the Blue mountains. "A party of prospectors," ago from a trip through the Blue mountains, lying west of here, reported a curious find in a cave high up on one of the peaks overlooking the valley. They came across the emains of a trap, and then of the marks, though faint, of an axe on several trees, and convinced from these indications that some son, presumably white, had at one time lived in the vicinity, for all its wildness, they continued their search for that person's habitation until they finally discovered the cave spoken of. Entering this, they found the way blocked by a barricade of logs and clay, constructed evidently from the interior. As there appeared to be no opening to the wall they decided that whoever had built it had closed it on himself. With some difficulty they succeeded in demolishing the wall, which rose nearly to the top of the cavern.

"They dug through the wall and found the skeleton of a man supported on the stump of a tree to which a support for the back had been added. The man's long white beard still flowed over his breast, though his clothing had all fallen away, except where here and there hung a disordered shred. Upon the feet were tolerably wellwhat antiquated make stood beside the skeleton in such a position as to suggest to the market. the awe stricken party that the man had in all probability shot himself."

It was evident from the surroundings that the cave had been used for a dwelling by some person whe was anxious to have some of the comforts of life around him, and a copy of the Iliad and a Spanish edition of Don Quixote were discovered in the cave. There are other things mentioned which increase the mystery, and taken altogether tions-another modern Robinson Crusoe.

Suicide of Willard Cain.

He ner Gazette. George Moore brought in word Wednesday from Burns of the suicide of Willard Cain, two weeks ago last Monday, at the above place. Cain was a sporting man, and locating in Burns stopped in Heppmonths. When the races occurred there last fall Cain and others went over, and since that time has not been in Hepperly set and was doing well till he fell out of bed and broke it over. Shortly after wards he was at the house of an acquaintance in Burns and in some manner fell out of a rocking chair, breaking the injured arm in a new place above the old fracture. He was again looked after by a physician and made as comfortable as possible. Some prum was put up in capsules for him to take to allay pain during the night. In the oom there was also some powdered spium in a sack. Late at night, or early in the norning, Hon. J. B. Huntington, of the Burns land office, heard labored breathing in Cam's room. Calling he received no response, and finally the door was broken open. Cain was found unconscious, and upon examination it was found that he had taken all the causules and considerable of the loose opium. Everything possible was done for him, but of no avail and he died the next morning. While this might have been a case of an overdose of the drug, our informant states that in the opinion of the administration, and to a degree not Burns people, Cain took the same with is reported to have a wife and family in Portland with whom he has not lived for some time. After Many Years.

There are many incidents connected with the early history of the first settlements on this coast that would furnish substance for omances; but perhaps they will never be written, and as time removes them farther from the present generation, they gradually fade from the memory. This was torcibly brought to mind yesterday in talking to an old pioneer, who has been on the Pacific coast since 1849. In that year he crossed the plains with a man from Philadelphia to California, and he mined with him and was his cabin mate for seven years. In 1862 has heard nothing of him, and did not know making inquries of his whereabouts, and a tween them; and this will always exist. TE LEGRAPHIO NEWS.

The Freuch Excited . Paris, Dec. 9-A bomb was thrown in the chamber this afternoon, happily without fatal results. The usual number of members present when no matter of great importance is to be considered were in their seats, and the business of the house was proceeding sleepily. The galleries contained a number of visitors, including some ladies, who watched the proceedings with little interest. In the gallery above the beaches occupiedby the members of the right were a number of strangers, none of whom had attracted any attention when they entered the gallery, and had seats assigned them. In he course of the business of the house he election of M. Marmin came up for liscussion. M. Marmin had been speaking from the tribune and had just descended to resome his seat, when a man in the gallery above mentioned threw a bomb toward the floor. The bomb had time fuse attached to it, for as it passed the head of Professor Lemire, deputy for Hazelbruch, it exploded with territid report. Dense clouds of smoke and dust scended, shutting out from view for a time those sitting in the body of the house. For a single instant the house was perfectly quiet, and then, members and others realizing what had occurred, there was the wildest excitement. The officers detailed to guard the building were the first to gain their senses. They first shut the great doors leading to the chamber, to prevent escape of the bombthrower. The people in the galleries fled in wild disorder, fearing that other was the last time he saw his friend, and bombs would be thrown. They were in two years later be heard from him some- a state nordering on frenzy, and almost where in California. Since that time he fell over each other in their wild but futile haste to get out of the building. One lady, whom it was subsequently learned was an American, had been hit in the forehead by a piece of the casting of the bomb, and she fled with blood streaming of going to pieces, as the weather seeme over her face. One report has it that twenty-five or thirty persons were wounded. When the chamber rose at 6 o'clock, the official re port of the explosion and what followed was found posted in the lobby. Trembling with emotion, the president of the chamber said: "Such outrages cannot disturb the chamber. We shell continue our labors and, after we exhaust the order of the day, the chamber officials will do their duty in regard to the outrage." This statement was generally applauded. The members talked excitedly of the explosion as they lingered after the adjournment in the lobbies and corridors. The socialists apparently were eager to Guesde, leader of the extreme socialist group, gesticulated wildly at a half dozen mes who were shouting at him. As the conservative deputy, claimed. Paris, Dec. 11-The excitement resulting from the throwing of the bomb in the chamber of deputies Saturday has somewhat subsided, and the people are now looking to the chamber to enact measures to stamp out the reds. Previous to this outrage the union of socialists and anarchists was strong enough in the chamber to overthrow one government, and they were confident of being able to do the same with the existing government; but Vaillant's dastardly performance seems to have greatly strengthened the hands of the governrooms, and is considered equal to any in is believed this act, which has sent chills chasing up and down the spine of every monarch of Europe, will result in joint action by France, England, Spain, Italy and Austria for the extradition and se-vere punishment of all proved to have engaged in anarchistic conspiracies. A Steamer Ashore.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 11-The steamer F and P. M., of the Faint and Pere Mar quette line, went sshore in a terrible easterly gale and snow storm, six miles north of here, this morning. The sea were so high that the surfboat could not be towed to the scene and the lifesaving apparatus had to be taken overland. The steamer is in a perilous position. There are 18 passengers and a crew of 15 on board. Great difficulty was experienced in reaching the beach opposite the point where the vessel lay, owing to the steep. high bluffs. When the crew finally suc needed in getting a surfboat down to the shore, it was found that the high sea and rocklined bottom of the coast made i impossible to use the surfbost. Arrangements were at once made to rig a breeches buoy and throw a line to the wreck from a mortar. From the beach the steamer seems to be in a very bad position, being 300 to 400 teet from shore, broadside to the seas, pounding heavily on the rocks and evidently full of water. The pasengers have taken refuge on the cabin, and appear to be in no immediate danger. The steamer is rated A1, and is worth $80,000, with a cargo of general merchand se of unknown value. It was finally decided to try to get on in the surtboat. After a stiff pull of 15 minutes it reached the side of the ve-sel and two of the woman on board, Mrs. Augusta Peterson and Mi-s Flora Gun erman, both of Ludington, were le down in a sling into the bost. After consultation with the captain, who said the vessel was in no immediate danger moderating, it was thought best to defer the rescue of the others So the crew rowed back and landed the two women.

Eight Persons & Hed ROME, Dec. 11 -- A distatch received onight from Giardnelli gives further details of the riot at Partenico, Sicily, last Saturday. The mob of peasa to who had protested against the milk tax wrecked the communal building and dragged on the ground two carbineers who tried to summon military reinforcements. When the troops arrived they found at the head of the mob several wemen, who carried aloft portraits of the king and queen. and screamed, "Down with the taxes." The officers in command of the troups appealed to the women to be quiet, and called upon the mob to disperse, but no heed was given to their words. Several shots were fired by the rioters before the troops received orders to shoot. After the first volley the mob retreated, carrying away several killed and wounded As soon as the troops were withdrawn the rioters gathered again, entered the rooms of the sheriff and killed him and his wife. The leaders cut the heads from both bodies, stuck them on poles and carried town. Of the eight persons killed during the riot, four were shot dead by the soldiers and two were wounded so severe .io that they died within an bonr. The other two on the death list were the sheaiff and his wife. Ten persons who were wounded are still alive. The majority of HARPER'S WEEKLY is acknowledged as standing first among filustrated weekly periodicals in America. It occupies a place between that of the hirried daily paper and that of the less timely mounthly magazine. It includes both literature and news, an presents with equal force and felleuty the real even of current history and the imaginative themes of fictien. On account of its very complete series of illustrations of the Werld's Fair, it will be not only the best guide to the great exposition, but also its best souvenir. Every public event of general interest will be fully illustrated in its pages. Its contributions being from the best writers and artists in this country, it will continue to excel in Iterature, news and illustrapions, all other publication of its class.

nothing new when we state that it pays to engage in a permanent, most healthy and pleasant basiness, that returns a profit for every day's work. Such is the business we offer the working class. We teach them how to make money rapidly, and guarantee every one who follows our instructions faithfully the making of $300.00 a month.

Every one who takes hold now and works will surely and speedily increase their earnings; there can be no cuestion about it; others now at work are doing it, and you, reader, can do the same. This is the best paying business that you have ever had the chance to secure. You will make a grave mistake if you fail to give it a trial at once. If you grasp the situation, and act quickly, you will directly find yourself in a most presperous business, at which you can surely make and save large sams of money. The results of only a few home? work will often equal a week's wages. Whother you are old or young, man or woman, it makes no difference, —do as we tell you, and success will meet you at the very start. Neither experience or capital necessary. Those who work for us are rewarded. Why not write to-day for full particulars, free? E. C. ALLEN & CO., ICKETS TO AND FROM EUROPE.
