The rapid rise in the river in the last few days has brought the question of high water up for discussion. As there appears to be Last night was a good time for police considerable difference of opinion regarding "flood years" and the heigth attained above low water mark, we copy the following stastimulating fluid. Recorder Dufur gave nucl. published in 1885, the data for which sach an interview this morning, and the was very carefully collected: "In 1862 very high water was experienced, submerging Front and Second street and reaching to Third. Again in 1866 the river overflowed publicans say they will vote straigther this the flood was on June, 23, 1876, when it cial schemes based on fiat money. It is next flood, and it marked 48 feet, 71 inches, and in 1882, June 14th, 48 feet 2 inches.' These figures were compiled from trust worthy sources, and there can be no doubt of their correctness. In 1882 the council ordered the grade of the streets of the city raised above the mark of the flood of 1876 and little fear need be entertained of any further damage to property by reason of the

Mrs, E. Schutz, mother of Mr. William Cowne, received a letter from him dated May 17th, in which it is stated that in attempting to cross Bridge creek with his wagon the water proved too deep and he lost everything. He states that nothing was saved from the vehicle except the orange basket and the cushion. The seat washed down the stream, also one wheel, and it was only after almost superhuman exertions that the horses were rescued from articles along the hank of the atream but only discovered one box and it was empty out of the water, but the bed was empty. In saving the horses and wagon the tongue was broken, and this made it more difficult to manage the vehicle. The young man said that he was all right and would reach his bome at Caleb the next day. All streams are very high at this season of the year, and those that were formerly fordable seen in print for many years: Crossing a field one day President Lin coln, it is said, was pursued by an angry buil. He made for the fence, says Life's Calendar, but soon discovered that the bull was overtaking him. He then began to run round a haystack in the field and the bull nursued him, but in making the short circles around the stack Lincoln was the faster caught the bull and grabbed him by the tail. It was a firm grip and a controlling one. He began to kick the bull and the bull bellowed with agony and dashed across the field. Lincoln hanging to his tail and kicking him at every jump, and as they flew along Lincoln yelled at the bull:

hear a discussion of the issues of the day by Hon, C. W. Fulton. His speeches in different parts of the state has given this gentleman a wide reputation, and every one realizes that in listening to him they will hear a full and fair discussion of the question agitating the people of Oregon. Prof. C. L. Gilbert, president of the Hood River McKinley club, introduced the speaker of the evening in a few well chosen remarks. Mr Fulton spoke of the tariff policy of the Republican party in relation to American industries, and showed wherein it had firmly established these, and at the same time cheapened the cost to the consumer, mentioning in particular steel rails and wire nails. Speaking of the Wilson tariff bill, he said t did not fulfil the promises of the Democratic party made during the last campaign, and when it was before the nance committee, people from the southern states besieged the committee oms asking for protection for industries in which they were interested. The men from South Carolina and Louisiana lesired duty on rice and sugar, and their wishes were satisfied. But wool, a great staple product of the northwest, was placed on the free list. The member from Troy, New York, received recognition because he stated that if his dis trict did not receive proper attention it would never return another Democrat to congress. He thoroughly dissected the tariff reform policy of the Democratic ous to the best interests of the American After he had made plain the positions of the Democratic and Republican parties on the national economic policy, he directed some of his time to Gov. Pennover and the campaign he was making throughout the state. He is disclaiming against Judge Lord for receiving more than his constitutional salthe creek, and did not learn of the robbery arv as a member of the supreme court, while the executive is receiving over $1800 in excess of the amount given him. In this regard he is extremely inconsistent, and is playing the demagogue to delude the voters. The governor had only vetoed two bills during the last legislature, and others he had permitted to become laws by reason of the lapse of time. One of the measures to which he Taffe. had affixed his signature, was allowing appropriations for salaries and in which he himself was mentioned for an additional one thousand dollars to the amount he was already receiving. Mr. Fulton showed in several instances where the present executive had received extra sums in excess of the $1500 constitutionally allowed him. He spoke of the fiat money theory of the Populists, and said that the value of any paper, whether issued by the government, bank or individual, depended upon the fact of its redemption. If the government greenback, bank-check or individual note had no probability of re demand of this third party for the government to issue sufficient money to give each individual $50. Populists say the stamp of the government is all that is necessary to make money. If this is correct, the speaker said, why not manufacture enough money to make every man rich The only extra cost would be the price of the paper, ink and the printing. Poverty would be abolished, and riches would be the common lot of all. Mr. Fulton thoroughly exposed the fallacies of the Populist party, and showed it to be absolutely unsafe and unsound in its financial theories He was listened to with the greates? attention throughout, and was frequent- et al. ly applauded. His speech undoubtedly left a good impression upon the people and will bear fruit on election day in June. After he had closed, Mr. W. H. Leeds, Republican candidate for state printer, and Hon. A. A. Jayne, the nominee for district attorney, occupied a short time and Mr. John Michell ended the meeting with a five minutes speech and closed the exercises by proposing three cheers for the Republican party. Several persons present were forced to take the 10 o'clock train for this city, and this rendered it necessary to confine the remarks of each speaker to a limited time.

He Will Get There.

The nomination of Judge Lord for governor calls to mind an amusing and possibly prophetic incident that occurred some years ago on the Bull Run and Sandy stage. He had been out on the line and was returning to Portland, when the driver, Leon Cohen, being in somewhat of a burry to reach the esty before dusk, touched up his horses with the whip and put them through at a lively rate. The wheels touched the high and low spots in the road in such rapid succession as to severely test the springs and keep the occupant of the stage bouncing about its interior like a rubber ball. Finally the driver slackened his speed and Judge Lord thrust his head out to expostulate, but just then the whip cracked again, the horses umped into a run, and as the judge was erked violently back into his seat, he heard the driver shout: "My Lord, sit still and you will get there."
