

LET THE SCAR REMAIN.

The McMinville Telephone Register, which has been a Democrat on principle from the beginning, has these vigorous words for that other line of action adopted for policy. The Yauhill organ says:

Democratic trucking to Populist ideas for Populist support has been the ruin of the Democratic party of this state. The wedge for desertion was entered when the senate Democratic committee of two years ago sent forth the edict to support the Populist electors. The Democratic principle, pure and unadorned, will be supported by thousands, but when adulterated with Penneyism and all the kindred evils of the people's party, the returns show that Democrats prefer Republican men. Hereafter the Democratic party must keep in the middle of the road.

It is not often that we find anything to approve about the Republican party, but the election of Monday demonstrates that the Democratic party can take a lesson from them in fighting. Nearly every Republican Populist voted the straight Republican ticket. Every Republican stood up and was counted. They voted the ticket straight. Without the support of a righteous cause they planted their feet firmly on the line and fought for the entire Republican hog or none. Today they are successful, although in the minority. Today the Democrats and Populists are defeated.

The concessions of Democracy to Populism has accomplished nothing but, dishonor and disaster. The faithless have deserted a great principle for nothing. The party is better without them. Now let the true Democrat stand together and fight for actual Democratic success. Too much management has entered into Democratic affairs, too many managers and too few fighters, too much courtesy and too little grape and canister. Seize guns are needed, not rattlings that sputter without damage. We have learned a lesson. We have learned that an honest position is a safe one. Victory cannot be purchased at the sacrifice of a principle or any part of it.

Let the wound heal, but let the scar forever remain upon Democratic memory. Remember the election of 1894.

Memphis Commercial: The west is not more cured with droughts and locusts than with governors.

New York Daily American: If Oregon has squelched Penney she is entitled to a national vote of thanks.

Kansas City Journal: The Populist governors will all go out as rapidly as the people can get at them. Penney merely goes early and avoids the rush.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Oregon Populists succeeded in electing fourteen members of the legislature out of a total of ninety. This is the most eloquent argument yet advanced against sending Governor Penney to the United States senate.

With the government work at the Cascades not injured and good crops the coming harvest. The Dalles and vicinity may yet be considered fortunate. The flood came unexpected, and spent its fury on everything within reach; but the fruitful soil and healthful climate of Wasco county still remain, and these will be some of the means of the wonderful development of this region in the future.

Inter Ocean: Grover Cleveland will observe that a small rephry from "the wild and woolly west" has started up in Oregon. By the time it crosses the Rockies it will be a political cyclone. A president cannot pull down "Old Glory" and shut up the nation's workshops and undermine the commercial prosperity of the nation without being called to account. The president and his party have been false to the people, and the people will sit in judgment.

ITEMS IN BRIEF

From Saturday's Daily. Hon. W. H. Dufur is in town today. There are seven occupants in the county jail.

Mr. O. E. East, of Moro, is in town today. Some boats are left high and dry on Court street.

The Union Pacific has a force of men employed cleaning the railroad track through the city.

The flood has subsided, but there are reminders of it still remaining in the shape of mud and debris.

The cannery began work for the season yesterday, and it is expected will continue busy during this month.

The corner of Washington and Third is still the business center of the city; but it will be changed in a few days.

Just received a new lot of cars, or locks and boat chains at Miller & Benson's hardware store in basement of Baptist church.

and relative in this city for some weeks, related to their home in this city.

Last Sunday was a busy day with our citizens; but tomorrow will be observed as the Sabbath should be. The Dalles is once more out of the water, and another such visitation may not be expected.

One of the hottest places in this city is the spot occupied by the Dalles National bank, adjoining our school. The thermometer here today registers 104 degrees here yesterday, and it reached as high a mark today.

At the primaries held last evening M. T. Nolan was nominated for councilman and J. B. Cross for water commissioner for the first ward, and Samuel J. Stankler and C. W. Gilhouse for water commissioner in the second ward.

Last evening at Dufur, a team attached to a buggy in which were Mrs. E. Stankler and Miss Annie Dufur, ran away, throwing the occupants out. Fortunately they were not seriously injured, but their escape from a violent death was almost miraculous.

The freight cars that have stood on the railroad bridge during the flood shows the effects of high water. At one time they were almost submerged, and with very many of the boats under the bridge washed out, they have the appearance of a sea of water.

Mr. Pitt-Gardner, the janitor at the court house, since the water of the Columbia has ceased to wash the door steps of the building, has been in the habit of sweeping the walks a few times a week. It is not often that we find anything to approve about the Republican party, but the election of Monday demonstrates that the Democratic party can take a lesson from them in fighting.

Today we lost one of our home companions in a business line. The First National bank moved to its old quarters on Second street this afternoon, and the smiling countenance of the president and cashier are missed from our ordinary view. The new environment will give us a new view of things in our former room; but the pleasant companionship of bankers, Populists, county officials and others will never be forgotten.

Front Second and other submerged street, can be traveled over today, and business is again prepared to start in their old quarters. The Umalla House is preparing to use its first floor, and the building shows the least damage from the flood. There is considerable debris left on the streets, and they have very much the appearance of having been the best of times. The walks are washed away in many instances, and awnings are in a battered condition.

During the flood our county treasurer, Mr. Wm. Moore, has shown a commendable spirit of accommodation, and has opened his office to bankers, editors and even his competitors. He has shown generosity. For the past two weeks the editor of the T. M. has scribbled "Penney" checked by the river of the plumes of twenty dollar bills, rolls of greenbacks, and at the same time notified of the end of all that in the shape of an array of caskets around the walls. Notwithstanding this gloomy aspect of affairs he considered it his duty to have a dry place to publish his paper when the waves of the Columbia washed the building out from under him. Next Monday we shall be at the old stand; but the reminiscence of the early days of 1894, will always be a source of constant enjoyment.

From Monday's Daily. Back in the old quarters. The flood has subsided. The street sprinkler is making its usual rounds today.

Mr. A. Schneckner, of Astoria, has been in the city for the past few days. Charles Frank has removed back to his old quarters, exactly opposite the Umalla House.

Dr. and Mrs. Suedeker returned yesterday from a few days' outing on the Deschutes. The election passed off quietly with the exception of the contest for the offices of marshal and recorder.

J. O. Mack is again occupying his old place in the sum of $50,000 with his county clerk today.

Mr. F. G. Hull, editor of the Milton Eagle, paid this office a fraternal visit last evening. He was en route to the grand lodge, A. O. U. W.

Messrs. Stuart & Fish are rapidly placing the Umalla House in the shape in which it was before, and it will only be a few days before this popular hotel will not show any of the effects of the recent flood.

Mr. L. E. Yates, of Milton, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. He was a delegate to the grand lodge, A. O. U. W., and will be in the city for several days. The Columbia Packing Co. shipped by the regular line a light cartload of cartons of all sorts of goods for the U. S. Lumber Co. of Portland.

Now that the city election is over the debris left by the flood, and the health of the city demands that this be done immediately.

A man was arrested last night for being drunk and disorderly, but this morning he was released. He did not produce any witnesses and was held for trial in the U. S. district court. Deputy Marshal Thomas Shaw accompanied him to Portland this morning.

The railroad bridge over Mill creek, since the water has receded, has fallen in the middle of the bridge. The bridge is now in a very bad condition. It is very evident that the bridge has been washed out, and that the river reaches the lowest stage it will present a perfect wreck.

Last Saturday evening William Penn Carter, aged 54 years, and Eveline Mills, aged 46, were granted a marriage license by the county clerk. This is not quite an illustration of January and May joining hands; but perhaps may be considered as January and December mating.

Union Republicans. An amusing incident occurred here the recent election. A Populist candidate for a place of business with a sample ballot and said, "Some one is circulating bogus tickets. I have been told that they are for the Republican party." He was told that the tickets were not for the Republican party, but for the Union Republican party.

At a meeting of the school board at Oregon City, held on the 15th, the wages were reduced to $1000 a year for the superintendent, $800 a month for vice principal and $400 a month for the substitute teachers. The bid of John Bell, for the reason that the approach to the hall were submerged by the Columbia river.

Dr. Hollister, who was called to dress the wound of Jack Hawthorne, a diagnosis of the case. He had entered the hospital, and made it about six inches from where it struck the body. The doctor says the wound is not very serious, and with proper dressing Hawthorne will be all right in a little while.

A sewer has burst in Union street, and the water flows out continuously. The street commissioner says it is clogged farther down the street, and that it cannot be repaired until the river falls sufficiently for the sewer to have an outlet.

The printing office of the Wasco News failed badly during the flood. A great portion of the type is "lost," and the press will need thorough overhauling. An open well to the sea has always been a possibility, but there was too much water in the Columbia to be too free to please the most earnest advocate.

Deputy sheriff Hall, of Umalla county, arrived in the city yesterday with four prisoners who were brought here by the deputy. One was a boy who received a year's sentence for larceny of a value, another a year's sentence for the same length of time for assault, still another for two years for assault with a dangerous weapon, and a cattle that sent up for one year.

Democrat: The great slide on Pine creek below Cornucopia was about 700 feet long by 400 feet wide. It changed the channel of the stream and necessitated the building of two miles of new road. This road is high enough up the mountain side that it will not be damaged by high water or another slide from the same place. The new road is about completed, and will be a new bridge at one place which cannot be put in now on account of the shifting channel of the stream.

Arlington Record: Governor Penney found himself stung and eleven miles from Arlington at Willows Tuesday morning. He went to the door of the section foreman's house and rapped. A voice within called him in, and he found several men sitting around a table. He was taken to a room and the foreman inquired his name. He answered, "I am Sylvester Penney, governor of Oregon, and I want you to take me to Arlington."

The body of James Spence was found with a bullet hole through his head, in the Klammath river, about thirty feet from the shore. He was wearing a blue shirt and blue trousers. He was an old soldier, aged about 50 years, and had been in the service of the United States Army for many years. He was found by a fisherman on Wednesday.

In conversation with a person who came down the river on the Almo yesterday, we learn that the damage to the Union Pacific road has not been over-estimated by those who have pictured it in the worst light. The roadbed has in many places washed entirely out, and has to be newly constructed. It says that the construction of the road will not be hurried, and new grades will have to be built almost along the entire line.
