The 4th of July, 1894, will be of little importance to the citizens. There was no event of unusual occurrence, and the day will have no especial agnificance from others except the memories that cluster around it in former years.

We received a call today from Mr. S. T. Richardson, formerly a resident of Prineville in this county, but at present a lawyer in Salem. He is en route to Lewiston, Idaho, but is detained by reason of the strike of the Railway Union, and there being no train or boat east of Celilo.

The root of the Railway Union, and there being no train or boat east of Celilo. The next strike anticipated is by the employes of steamships and steamboats from sympathy with the Railway Union.

If this means of transportation is stopped the railroad companies may realize more fully the necessity of not hauling any more Pullman coaches.

A large force of men are now employed between this city and Celilo, and work is being pushed as rapidly as possible on the Union Pacific road. When this is completed an outlet will be had for wool, fruit and fish, which the people warm much desire at present. This is the first season since 1890 that there has been a good run of salmon in this vicinity, and there is no possibility of the fish being shipped east or west.

The cannery is run to its full capacity, and it cannot nearly can all the fish caught. If the railroad was in operation ready sales could be made of the salmon; but transportation is worse tied-up from the effects of the flood than it is east as a result of the strike.

The McMinnville Telephone-Register tells the following: W. W. Baker, of the Rural Spirit, has a colt, out of Scarlet Letter. He has named it McKinley Bill and has challenged any Wilson Bill in the state. A short time ago, Annie B, sister of Lady Beach, gave birth to a fine horse coit by Scarlet Letter. Mr. Galloway has named him Wilson Bill, and has accepted the Baker challenge. The Wilson Bill will win in congress; but the Oregon horse bearing the same name will be McKinleyized on the race track.

The passage of the Baker over the rap-The passage of the Baker over the rapids at the Cascades to take an active part in the trade of the middle Columbia has been anxiously desired by very many business men and citizens, both in Oregon and Washington, who have been deprived of necessary transportation facilities for goods, wool, fruit and fish since the flood destroyed the Union Pacific road. Neveral attempts have been made and each has failed, and our people must bear their losses patiently. The high water was caused by natural causes, over which no one had the least control, and the Union Pacific has exerted and will exert its utmost efforts to rebuild its road at the earliest possible date.

busy receiving and storing the product, The problem of transportation is the greatest difficulty now experienced, and sacks are being piled to the rafters in the building and every available foot of space is being occupied. Prices remain the same as last quoted, and these will not appreciate while there is no opportunity to ship. Offers have been made of from 6 to 7 cents a pound, but there have been lew sales at these figures.
