THE TRUTH ABOUT THE BONDS The financial question is an intricate and perplexing one, and only experts are capable of comprehending and discussing it in all of its various features says the Globe-Democrat. But it involves some plain and significant facts that the average citizen can easily understand, and that he should make it a point not to forget. Among these simple and important truths is the one presented in Secretary Carlisle's recent answer to a senate resolution concerning the sales of bonds previous to the one that has just been made. The peo ple have been told by the Democratic leaders that those sales had practically nothing to do with the question of revenue and that the proceeds were used, solely to replenish the gold reserve for the protection of the currency. In his special message urging the necessity of legislation to facilitate further bondselling, the president spoke of a "comfortable surplus" in the treasury, thus conveying the idea that there was no lack of money for ordinary purposes and that the only trouble was a want of gold for a specific object pertaining to banking interests. The statement of Carlisle, however, tells a different story, and places before the people the figures which show at a glance that the situation has been misrepresented and the actual facts distorted and confused

to save political ends. According to the secretary's showing, $205,002,143 of the proceeds of the first two bond sales were used, directly or indirectly, to pay the current expenses of the government. In other words, an amount exceeding the face value of the bonds sold was applied to make good the difference belic expenditures. The money thus obtained-that is to say, the money borrowed on the national credit-went into the gold reserve, technically speaking, but it did not stay there; and the reason why it did not stay there was that it had to be taken out to meet descits in the revenue. At least this is true as to $105,002,143 of the $110,000,000 which was realized from the two bond sales of $50,-000,000 each, for Secretary Carlisle says so in an official communication. The public debt has been increased about $100,000,000 with $62,400,000 more soon to be added, because the Democratic plan of conducting the business of the government has fallen is not at all complicated Any intelligent person can readily see what it means, and where the responsibility lies for such a large addition to our bonded indebtedness in a time of peace. There are other factors in the case, to be sure, relating to other phases of the subject, but they do not affect this practical and conclusive truth. The project of building a telephone line from The Dalles to Antelone is being agitated vigorously in this county, and judging from the interest manifested by most of those who would be the principal stock holders, it is very probable that the scheme will materialize before long. It is proposed to build the line from The Dalles to this place by way of Dufur, Boyd, Kingsley, Shearer's Bridge, Bakeoven and Cross Hollows. The distance between these two points, taking this course, is something like 75 or 80 miles, and on account of the poles being so easily procured, the expense of building the line would be much less than that required in most other places. By each of the places named taking its proportionate share of atock in the enterprise it would not be a hard matter to have the line completed and in working order by the lat of July. The Dalles is the shipping point for this county, and a telephone line to that place would be of inestimable value to every citizen in this part of the interior. There s not a man doing business of any kind in his part of the country but that would have occassion to use the telephone several imes each year. Such a line would save nan many a long, tiresome, expensive trip to Tae Dalles, and we don't believe there is a citizen in this part of the country but that would be glad to take stock in the enterprise. We hope to hear of satisfactory developments in the near future.

Work is proceeding favorably at the Cascade canal. One of the big steel gates is partially hung. It consists of seven sections, five herizontal and two vertical each. Four of these sections are in position, and the others will be put on as rapidly as possible. These gates are to be 36 feet in height. The sections for one pair and a part of another are on the ground and it is the intention to get the first pair erected in time to shut the June flood out of the canal, so that the work need not be interrupted by it. If the rise is very great it will, of course, finally overflow the gates, but it is hoped that there will not be a great flood this year, and that there may be no interruption to the work. The water at the Cascades is lower now than it has been in a long time, and advantage is being taken of this to complete the side walls of the canal below the lower gate, which are 150 feet in length, and also the upper ends of the walls, which together form the four corners of the canal.

Senate bill No. 201, introduced by Senstor J. H. Raley has passed the legislature and becomes a law. It regulates the practice of medicine in the state of Oreones, which weigh from 15 to 25 tons gon, being almost a copy of the Washington law, which in turn was taken with modifications from the statutes on this subject in Minnesota. Senate bill No. 201 provides for a beard of six examiners whose terms expire in rotation and two vears apart. The three schools of medicine are represented on the board. Persons at present practicing legally under the statute as now on the books are not affected by the new provisions, but may continue to practice. After a certain date, all who enter practice must pass an examination, and credentials from other state boards or from medical institutions will not entitle one to a certificate. Justices of the peace are given jurisdiction over violations of the law.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly, accurately, and exhaustively it illustration and descriptive text of the highest order.

The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railway Strikes and the Chino Japanese War, and the amount of light it was able to throw on Korea the instant attention was directed to that little-known country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. Julian Raiph, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by O. D. Wel don, the well-known American artist, now for many years resident in Japan, who has been engaged to co-operate with Mr. Raiph in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.

During 1895 every yital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful and exustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and kindly of mmenton the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.

Fiction. There will be two powerful scrials, both handsomely illustrated—The Red Cockode, a stirring iomance of olden days by Stanley J. Weyman, and a nevel of sew York, entitled The son of His Father, by Brander Mathews—several noveleties, and many short stories by Popular writers.
