A BOLD LARCENY.

A Man Steals a Team and Wagon, also Horse and Saddle. A young man named Lee Morehouse had been at work for Myron Taft, who lives on the Deschutes a fell miles from the city, for some months. Last Monday he induced young Taft to go with him to Rice's farm some miles distant and to procure a load of grain to haul to this city. Believing that the transaction was all right Taft accompanied Morehouse to Rice's barn and helped him load the grain on the wagon. He offered Taft a fair price for the use of the wagon and team, and he was expected to return the next morning. Yesterday morning he ar-rived in the city, and sold the grain about ten sacks—to some dealers, and then went back to the Deschutes, took westerly direction. One of Taft's work horses came back yesterday wagon he knows nothing about. He went before Justice Davis and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Morehouse, and yesterday he was heard from in the vicinity of Mosier. Morehouse owns a horse at the Cascade Locks, and very likely will stop there to take this animal with him. This morning Constable Urguhart left on the local state of Locks, and the Declaration of Indonesia where the programme was rendered. The president of the day, Judge W. L. Bradshaw, introduced the exercises by an appropriate speech, when the band played a national air. This was followed by a song rendered by a select choir in excellent style, and the president of the day, Judge W. L. He norning Constable Urquhart left on he Regulator, intending to stop at the Locks, and overhaul the man there Without doubt this is one of the boldest thefts we have heard of for some time, and a fellow possessing such quality of "cheek" should succeed in almost any vocation. It was a bold act to borrow he team and wagon from Mr. Taft to take the load of grain from Mr. Rice's; but it was still bolder to get him to help put it on the wagon. Then, after driving in town and selling his grain, to go back to the Deschutes and steal a saddle and another horse and get out of the vicinity, is, without doubt that has been credited to the government mule. NEARING COMPLETION.

The Work at the Cascades Will Be Fin-Work at the Locks is progressing apidly, the season being an unusually vorable one. In conversation with Mr. I. N. Day, one of the contractors, last week, he assured the writer that boats would pass through the canal and locks before the end of the year. After years of waiting our people have become somewhat skeptical concerning all such statements, yet an examtion of the work will convince the most doubting that the assertion made by Mr. Day will be verified, unless ething unforeseen happens to pre t. Nearly 500 men are now at work, cleaning off and leveling the bottom of the upper lock. The lower part of the upper bulkhead is being removed, the upper gate is partly fin-ished and as soon as the water drops sufficiently Burleigh drills and giant powder will soon lift the big bulkhead out of its place. A dredger is on the way from Portland to clear the chan-nel at the upper end of the canal, and the big stone barge is kept moving supplying rock for the stonecutters, who already have a large amount of it cut and ready for the walls. The contractors are anxious to get the work ompleted as quickly as possible, for they now have earned nearly $200,000, which is held back by the government, and will not be paid them until the work is completed. It will be a great day for Eastern Oregon, and especially for The Dalles, when the first steamboat whistle that now awakens the echoes on the lower river is heard that will be remembered by all who witness it. Persons returning from the Okanogan country confirm the report that an Indian child had been eaten by hogs a few days ago, says the Wilbur Register. It seems that a squaw resid-ing just below the Indian school on the ogan river had left her papoose tied to a board in the customary manner, leaning against a tree while she went to the river to do some washing. When she returned she found several head of hogs fighting over the remains of her child. The hogs had devoured the child, all except its head, and that only resembled a ball of dirt. A more horrible scene could scarcely be im-

FOURTH OF JULY. The Celebration in The Dalles -Competitive Drill-Hose Contests Bicycle Display-Fireworks, Etc.

Very unusual weather for the season of the year was experienced yesterday in this city. About 3 o'clock in the norning rain began to fall, and con tinued without intermission until 3 i the afternoon. This interfered with the success of the festivities of the ccasion, as our people are very muc lifferent from those in the Willamette valley, for they cannot enjoy them-selves completely when the clouds ang low and the streets are muddy. At 10:30 o'clock the processio formed, the Orchestra band taking the lead, followed by Col. Thompson and staff and A and G companies, O. N G. The Liberty car was occupied by a number of little girls, representing the different states, and forming beautiful picture, attired as they were in the national colors. Then came one of Taft's riding horses and A. S. long concourse of citizens in carriages. Roberts' saddle and left the city in a on horseback and on foot. The procession marched through the principa streets to the stand in front of the court house, where the programm

Declaration of Independence in a very able and eloquent manner. Mr. Sin-nott introduced a very desirable innovation in this part of the usual exerrises on the 4th of July, by a preliminary speech, explaining the object and aims of the instrument, and this he did in an exceptionally eloquent and appropriate manner. After sing-ing America by the choir, Mr. John Michell, editor of the TIMES-MOUN-TAINEER, was then introduced, and deivered the oration. He dwelt upon the causes which led to the revolt of he colonies, spoke of the heroic strugle of the Revolution, the Declaration of Independence and the constitution. the dangers through which the republic had passed and which may threaten it in the future, and eulogized the patriotism of the American people through different periods. There was close attention paid to the address, although there was a constant shower of rain during the time and very many were exposed to the full force of the storm. After three cheers were given or the flag the meeting adjourned until afternoon. The rain interfered very much with he parade, as very many did not wish to expose themselves to the elements in the streets, and remained on the sidewalk where they were sheltered. Hundreds came from the country and neighboring towns, and the Reguator on its return trip from the Locks brought about 150 persons to the city. These crowded the sidewalks during the procession, and gave the city a very animated appearance during the An attractive feature in the parade was the steamer of Jackson Engine Co. No. 1., handsomely decorated, and in charge of the veterans of the fire department, in uniform, some of whom were white-haired with age, while close behind came a hose cart drawn by boys, whose ages ranged from 10 to 13 years, and on the cart were placed little Clinton Bradshaw and Glenn Patterson, dressed in costumes representing Brother Jonathan. These little fellows enjoyed themselve very much, and were as patriotic as in the procession. Our firemen made a fine showing, and The Dalles still sustains its reputation of having as efficient a department as any in the The Columbia hose cart was beautifully ornamented, and its position in was highly complimented by many, and all admired the taste displayed.

The little girls in the Liberty Car suffered from the rain, and nearly all their dresses were discolored from the bunting; but they had true American grit, and waved their flags as briskly as if the sun were shining. Dalles is not accustomed to rain or the 4th of July, and the occupants of the Liberty Car and many on the street

The rain interfered with the hose contests in the afternoon, and, at the time stated on the programme for them to begin it fell in torrents. This made it impossible for the mem-bers of the different teams to run, and, instead, the competition drill was held in the new armory by A. Co. of Wasco and G. of this city. These companies proceeded to the new armory and went through the manual of arms. The full number of points that could be made was 117, and A. Co. of Wasco scored 90 against G. Co's. 87, thereby winning the Sergeant Bartelle, of G. Co. won the silver medal awarded by the field and staff officers of the Third regiment. The judges were Capt. A Ad. Keller, Capt. John W. Lewis and Mr. John North of A. Co. First regiment. There was no bitter felling engendered be-tween the companies, and each was cleased with the awards.

The two blocks between Washington and Union on Third streets were crowded with people waiting for the contest to begin, and these were impatient for some time for the drill to finish, as some members of the teams were also members of G Co. Considerable complaint was made on this account; but it was a matter difficult of adjustment, and perhaps the man-ner in which it was arranged was the best under the circumstances.

THE HOSE CONTESTS. The weather cleared about 3 o'clock. and the sun began to shine. Several persons were employed in sweeping the street free from mud, and after ome work it was in fair condition, but wet and slippery. Jackson Engine Co. No. 1 was the first to take position, Co. No. I was the first to take position, and the team consisted of R. B. Sinnott, captain; W. L. Hunter, N. J. Sinnott, W. Klindt, J. Maloney, J. Fisher, R. Tiege, G. Brown, S. Frank, W. Ulrich, G. Liebe, A. J. Bartell. W. L. Bradshaw, L. E. Crowe and T. Haslam, acted as judges; Sheriff Driver, starter; J. P. McInerny, J. S. Schenck and T. A. Ward, time-keepers. The signal was given, and the run made; but the water came before the nozzle was attached to the hose, and the time was not given. This and the time was not given. This teammade a splendid run, and we are loubtful if they can be beat anywhere in the state. The time given to us by reliable authority was 30 seconds; but on account of the failure mentioned it was not considered. The next team in line was the Mt. Hood Hose Co., consisting of C. L. Phillips, captain: Ralph Fisher, James Harper, Julius Ulrich, Fred. Snipes, W. Norman, John McNeal, Frank Menefee, James Harper, Walter Johns, Wm. Nichols, Frank Chrisman and J. Spiebe They had a good start and when water came the time noted was 40 seconds.

Columbia's Hose team was a fine ody of athletic fellows, consisting of Arthur Clark, captain; Louis Porter, Ray Logan, C. Cooper, Grant Mays, Henry Bills, Max Vogt, J. H. Fisher, John Hartnett, Ralph Rowland, Jos. Bonn and F. Clark. They made the run in 354 seconds; but attached the nozzle, it was claimed, after water came. In arriving at the conclusion of the winning team, considerable dispute was had regarding this run; but it being decided that the rules were not complied with, Mt. Hood Hose Co. was considered the winner. This closed the contests, and as it was nearly 6 o'clock a recess was taken until 8 o'clock, P. M., at which time

THE BALL. As the final number of the interest-ng programme the ball at the opera house was a fitting conclusion to a very successful celebration. There were a large number of tickets sold, and the nusic was all that could be desired. The people are intensely patriotic on the 4th of July, and there is no better way in which they can exhibit their entire satisfaction than by the merry dance. For this ball the arrangements were well made, and there was nothing left undone that would insure the enjoyment of those present. The nembers of the different committees new their duties and did not fail to faithfully perform them.

This ended the exercises of the celit was considered one of the most suc-

GOOD ROADS FOR ILLINOIS.

Governor Altgeld Advocates a System of Good Highways for the Entire State. In a recent interview on the question of good country roads Governor Altgeld expressed himself as follows:

"I regard the question of good roads as

me of the most important that now conronts the people of Illinois. The state hould take hold of it with resolution and upon a broad gauge plan. There is no adequate reason for the impassability of many of our common roads. The west has built great cities, railroads and workshops, Illinois has been in the front rank in all of these improvements. There is no excuse for her being behind in her road policy, particularly as her agriculture is the basis of her prosperity. It seems almost incredible that we have made so little progress in the business of bration of the 4th of July, 1895, and roadmaking. This question should inlerest the farmer more than any one else, for the reason that he suffers much actual financial loss from had roads. "As a result of impassable roads the farmer is often prevented from marketing his grain when and where it would bring the best prices. In other words, he must sell when he can get to a selling place and not when the best price is obtainable. The railroads also are deeply interested in securing good roads. As things are now the railroads are swamped with grain for shipment when good roads enable the farmer to deliver his grain to them, but let the weather make the roads bad, and the farmer, being unable to haul over them, ceases to bring his grain to market, and the railroad and its cars are idle. For this reason alone many railroads are compelled to have an nunceessarily large number of cars. Bad roads congest the grain business into the periodic spells of good roads, and this necessitates higher charges for the service of transportation when it is rendered.

In addition to all this teaming over bad roads is hard on the horses, hard on the wagon and hard on the farmer himself." "What have you to say concerning the expense of building good roads throughout the state?" "That is a most difficult problem to deal with. However, it may be set down as a principle of right and justice that those who are benefited by the good roads should pay for them. But a good road policy would be of general benefit to the entire state. It might be, there fore, that some of the expense should be borne by the state at large. In addition each county might have a local tax for the same purpose. Townships likewise should have a tax. But it would be unfair to a township to compel it to build a lot of bridges over a stream mainly for the benefit of people all over the county. It would be for such a purpose that a general county tax might be levied. In addition to this, property, farms espe anlly, that are conspicuously benefited. should be made to pay a special assessment. All of this, however, is very erude. I only suggest it as perhaps a feasible plan. I would not like to be considered as having reached final conclusions on this phase of the matter." "Would a good road policy upon the part of the state greatly increase state "That would depend upon the policy adopted. If we were to undertake to build good roads all over Illinois at once the cost would be great and would neces sarily heavily increase taxation. But instruments such commendations as such a policy could not be agreed upon place them far above the average or maintained. I apprehend that with a careful and economical administration of the state affairs general taxation need be but little increased, if increased at all, in order to begin a road policy. And it should be considered that money expending the constituting the official document is rampant.

The state analist general taxation need be rescript of the report of the individual judge as agreed upon by the body of judges, constituting the official document is rampant. should be considered that money expended in permanent improvements, such as good roads, is not like money thrown away upon payrolls of useless employ-"Have you given the matter of road-building any consideration?" "Only in a general way. I have kept track of the question as it has been treated in the newspapers and magazine Saturday Judge Eakin passed sentence | and have been much interested by it. It appears that a good roadbed and roadway about fourteen feet wide-that is to sny, double track-can be built for about fifty cents a linear foot. This would be about $2,500 a mile. Where a general system of roadmaking would be gone of one year in the penitentiary. System of roadmaking would be gone Frank Shinn, who was charged with into, however, I am inclined to believe mayhem and convicted of assault, was fined $200 and in default will be conduced. But, even at fifty cents a foot, would not require much expenditure for

> A Coal Mine In China. The coal mines at Wang san-shih are very interesting. There are here three seams of 24 feet, 3 feet and 14 feet, which are at an angle of 50 degrees, nearly due south. A perpendicular shaft has been sunk 106 feet with no fault. The first 25 feet were through alluvium, thence through quartzite and a few bands of shale in quartzite. The shaft is being deepened at the rate of four inches per hour. Wang-sanshih is only three y and miles from the line six miles from the iron mmes. In summer a creek comes within half a mile of the works, and it was up this that the heavy machinery was brought to the mines by the following ingenious process: A raft drawing only an inch to the ton was constructed, and, the machinery being shipped, was d. . . ged up the creek till it grounded. Then a dam was built behind which caused it to float, and this was successively and successfully done until the machinery was got to within a half a mile of the mines. Hand porterage took it the rest of the way .- Inven

It is not generally known that Oliver Stevens, the present district attorney, once saved General Butler's life. It was at the Charleston convention, more than 30 years ago. General Butler's course in the con vention had been conspicuously bold and courageous, and his antagouism to certain elements had been noticeably unrelenting. Jack Cavanagh, a well known figure at conventions and caucuses in those days, after many bloody threats, finally one evening loaded up his revolver and himself and made for General Butler's quarters. He would have found the general unprepared and unable to defend himself, and he undoubtedly would have shot him, but Oliver Stevens intercepted Jack and spirited him away and at the same time to General Butler - Boston ... e.

Down on the great jetty, at the mouth of the Columbia, work is being pushed forward as rapidly as circumof men are employed for the reason that they could not be worked to much advantage. Quantities of stone, brush piling, etc., are being taken down in barges and used in the construction of the jetty. There need be no delay in the completion of this great govern-ment improvement, for the last appropriation made is ample to finish the work. Major Post, under whose general supervision the work is being carried forward, is confident that the jetty will be completed before the be-ginning of 1896. Notice to Water Consumers The Water Commissioners have ordered that the rules concerning the ise of water for irrigation be printep and posted upon the gates of consum-ers so that all may understand what the rules are. This has been done as ordered. The great waste of water heretofore and the limited supply, make the enforcement of these rule absolutely necessary. All consumers will please take notice of these reguations and in case of a violation of the rules the water will be at once shut off and a charge of $1.00 will be made before again making the con-nection. Lord Tennyson as a Carpet Cleaner. Tennyson appeared once in the new character of carpet cleaner. Calling on some friends and finding them absent he wrote them a polite note, but had the misfortune to overturn the ink bottle upon the beautiful white Persian carpet. Frantic, he appealed for help to the servant. She, suddenly recollecting that new milk will remove ink when wet, seized a can of the creamy liquid which happened to have been just left by the milkman. She upset the can on the large black pool and set about rubbing and scrubbing the stain. Down went Tennyson on his hands and knees, rubbing and scrubbing also, in an agony of suspense lest his friends should return, which he afterward said "reached the infinite." Every trace of ink was removed, and the servant was rewarded with a

This nerve passes down on the inner side of the arm, and then rather inconsiderately bends round and enters the forearm at the back of the elbow joint. Any one who has felt his neighbor's elbow sticking into his ribs knows that the elbow is remarkably deficient in flesh. The nerve is therefore at this point very near the surface and has little to shield it from a blow. If we are so unfortunate as to give our elbow a smart tap, we obtain a practical confirmation of the fact that the ulnar

Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fitteen to twenty cigats regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco, for the time being, at least.
