There is no doubt that the redskins have fired every ome and cabin there, and by morning they will be repeating their work this side of the Teton range, in Teton basin, and perhaps after that all down the Teton river valley, in Idaho. American ship Raphael, of San Fran-cisco, in charge of Albert Whitney, went ashore at Tanglefoot bay, near Kariuk, Alaska, on July 7, and was a complete wreck. The officers and crew narrowly escaped drowning, the along a rope bard will hand, a distance of 300 feet, through surf and raging seas.

As the last man reached the beach a heavy sea struck the Raphael and she dropped to pieces, one mast going over the side, and taking nearly all the deck with it A fer moments later scarcely a particle of the wreck remained in sight,
Captain Whitney and seven of the crew arrived here early this morning on the steam tender Ella Rohlffs, Cap-tain Jacobsen, and gave particulars of the disaster to an associated press correspondent.

The Raphael was at anchor July 4, about one mile from shore, when the storm began to brew. One hundred and forty feet of chain was let out, and and forty feet of chain was let out, and apparently she was safe enough to ride out the storm. Steadily the gale in creased until the 6th, when it had reached the force of a hurricane. Early next morning she began to drift. An anchor, secured by a big hawser, was thrown out, but parted immediately, and then a third anchor was let. ately, and then a third anchor was let out with the same result. Steadily she drifted in shore. Seas washed the ship's decks fore and aft and her masts threatened to give way each moment.
A buoy fastened on a life line, was sent ashore, where it was caught by some cannerymen, who were in readiness to lend assistance, and then a arger line was fastened between the shore and ship. the beach broadsides with terrific force, shattering the timbers into splinters. Then Captain Whitney, realizing the desperate situation and fallacy of remaining on board, ordered all hands to go shore on the life line. The crew slowly left the doomed vessel and slid along the rope through the surf for more than it words and landed more dead than alone. Had it not been for those on shore wading out into the surf and assisting the men to land, many of them doubtless would have drowned. As it was, they all reached the shore without taking their personal effects from the vessel.

Searcy Trail.

It seems now pretty certain that James Searcy, the perpetrator of the awful tragedy at Auburn last week, and who up to this time has eluded capture, is headed for Nevada and off the line of railroad, says the Baker City Democrat. Teamsters arriving here yesterday from Malheur county state that on Sunday evening last a man answering to the description of Searcy was at their camp in Cow valley and was riding a gray horse, having made an exchange of animals on his travels. His route was direct for old Ft. McDermott.

"The courier cannot tell what was the extent of the massacre at Jackson Hole. He believes none escaped alive. The torch has been applied beyond the range, and the fires could be seen at night."

Contrary to Law.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 27.—Governor Culberson today issued a proclamation reciting that the Corbett-Fitzsimmone fight is contrary to law, and ordering all state officers to use every means in their power to prevent the contest.

The courier cannot tell what was the Peking government. Among the commercial stipulations in the peace treaty with Japan that of opening the remote interior to foreign trade has met with the strongest objections from the court and the Tsung Li Yamen, and it is alleged that Viceroy Lui was secretly instructed to foment disturbances in order to prove that the upper Yang-use provinces were unsafe for strangers. By this means it was hoped that aliens might be prevented from availing themselves of the newly granted privilege. But since the outrages have been resented with a wholly unexpected spirit, it has endeavored to escape the responsibility by degrading Lui and making him the

While at many points the crop will not be more than one-half or three-fourths of that of the proceeding year, the quality is superior and the outlook for good prices is excellent. In some of the countries the yield will be fully up to the average, and this combined with the prospect of advanced prices, has made the growers jubilant.

Were Released From Prison.

HAVANA, July 29.—Before leaving Manzanillo for Cienfuegos, Captain General Martinez de Campos pardoned all political and war prisoners. The prisoners thus released include many under sentence of death, according to military law. The others were condemned to imprisonment in the African colony.

The case that was tried in this county on a change of venue from Sherman, in which B. Douglas was sentenced to the penitentiary, will be remembered by our citizens. He was afterwards pardoned out, and it was expected that he would hereafter follow an honest career; but it seems that those who entertained such hopes were disappointed. After being released from the penitentiary he went to Wamic in this county where he behaved himself for a while; but about three weeks ago stole a horse and saddle from a resident of that neighborhood, and left for parts unknown. Sheriff Driver has been hunting him for some time, and yesterday found a letter written by him from Walla. He immediately telegraphed to the authorities and Douglas was sentence of death, according to Wamic in this county where he behaved himself for a while; but about three weeks ago stole a horse and saddle from a resident of that neighborhood, and left for parts unknown. Pacific Farmer: If the fruit of the northwest was the fruit of other sec-tions, that is if the better class of fruit tions, that is if the better class of fruit was as that of other sections there would be no danger of the constant cry that the fruit business is overdone. The only kind of fruit that is being over done is the interior fruit business. The Farmer is not afraid of the competition of any other section of the world in strawberries, cherries, Italian prunes, pears and apples of the higher grades, but it is afraid of the dozens of little early and late cherries, strawberries, summer and fall apples, poor soft plums and little prunes which are being set by the thousands in the orchards of our fruit growers.
