

ITEMS IN BRIEF.

From Wednesday's Daily. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Morgan went to Cascade Locks today. Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Jewett returned this morning to their homes at White Salmon. Miss Etta Crabtree, of Tygh Valley, was a passenger on the Regulator this morning, going to Portland for a few days' visit. Constable Urquhart went to Mosier on the Regulator this morning loaded with legal documents to serve in that precinct. The Misses Cartwright of Portland, who have been visiting their cousins, the Misses Helm, in this city, left for their home this morning. Mr. E. A. Myers and his sister, Mrs. H. C. Leavens, were out last night from Portland, and left on the Regulator this morning for their home at Lyle. Messrs. A. M. and T. A. Balfour, of Lyle, Wash., returned yesterday from Spoutland, where they have been the past six months visiting their former home. Word was received here last evening that George McNulty, son of Capt. McNulty, is very low with consumption on their farm near Mosier, his recovery being considered doubtful. Having disposed of his business in this city, Mr. T. F. Sturtevant left this morning for Portland. Mr. Sturtevant will probably return to The Dalles this fall and again engage in business. A former Spokaneite, unless recently killed, is now numbered among the Cubans who are making a struggle for freedom from the yoke of Spain. He is John Lund, the eldest son of Olof Lund, a Scandinavian politician of Spokane. Mr. John Brookhouse, of Dufur, is in the city. Mr. Brookhouse reports farmers busy in the vicinity of Dufur. At the Higgins' place, on Tygh Ridge, there are two seven-horse teams attached to gang plows, and general activity prevails. The county court of Klickitat county is informed by a telegram from Sheppard & Co., of New York city, that the firm will be ready to pay all outstanding warrants of Klickitat county by April 20. The New York firm purchased the Klickitat county bonds. Among the large number of cattle that was received at the stock yards this morning, thirty-five of the best cattle were sold to the Columbia Packing Company, by Mr. A. M. Waterman and thirty-one head of hogs from Mr. R. Gilbert, of Fifteen-Mile for the market in this city. Yesterday the acceptance of J. H. Creadleback for the nomination for prosecution attorney in the seventh judicial district was forwarded to the secretary of state and the clerks of the different counties in the district. Thus all doubts as to his becoming a candidate were set at rest. Lane county populists have come to the conclusion that they made a bad job of nominating a ticket, and have called their candidates off. They will hold another convention on the 24th, at which time they hope to profit by past experience, and improve upon the ticket that was first placed in the field. It was pleasant to note that many of the ladies who attended the theater last night took off their hats, thus relieving those who had to look on to obtain obscure stage from the view of spectators. It is now in order for the gentlemen of The Dalles to tender a vote of thanks to those ladies who were so considerate of the rights of others. Sheriff Driver returned today from Portland having in charge Wm. Landers and Ida Walters, who he arrested before Justice Davis this afternoon on a charge of adultery entered by Warren Walters, the husband of the woman. They skipped out from The Dalles some time since, and when arrested were living together as man and wife at the home of Landers' mother in Portland. From Thursday's Daily. Prof. Wm. Rasmus returned to Portland this afternoon. Mr. Jos. Fulco went to Cascade Locks this morning. Mrs. E. J. Russell is reported quite ill at her home in this city. A slight frost occurred last night, but no material damage to fruit is reported. The Columbia Packing Co. received a lot of fine hogs from J. H. Woodruff, of Juniper, today. Mrs. Dycart, of Centralia, Wash., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Butler in this city. Mr. Wes Rice and wife were passengers on the Regulator this morning. Their destination is Cascade Locks. The feed mill at Lochhead's feed yard is being run at its full capacity, turning out fifteen tons of chop feed each day. Hon. S. E. Van Vactor, of Goldendale arrived on today's local, returning from the democratic state convention at Tacoma. Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Herrin leave tonight for Heppner. Mrs. Herrin contemplates going to Grant county to visit her relatives. Mrs. Kinney will hold a parlor meeting for women at the home of Mrs. High French Tuesday at 3 P. M. All who are invited. Messrs. M. S. Jamison and W. S. Cram went to Portland on the afternoon train. Mr. Cram had been here looking after his fishing interests. One of the most striking influences of the general use of bicycles in the west is shown in the decline of the horse-stealing industry. They're not worth stealing. The Red Men had a rousing meeting last night, and among other pleasant-removes the scalp from one palface, admitting him into full membership in the tribe. Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Bancroft, who have been residing in Prineville the past eight months, have returned to The Dalles, and will make this their permanent home. A large amount of wheat is being received daily at the warehouses in this city. It is part of last year's crop that was held by the farmers who were not satisfied with prices last fall. Dr. Kerkelmeier of Durum, has started 20,000 head of sheep from Harney county to the shearing grounds near Huntington. The wool and sheep will be shipped to market from Huntington. The fishpackers who arrived at the Astoria pier, in Spokane, the other night after the play was well under way, were compelled, by the manager to wait until the end of the first act before they were permitted to enter. Work on the Wapinitia ditch is progressing rapidly, a large force of men being employed on the construction. G. M. McVey, one of the contractors, was in the city last night, on route to Portland after material with which to prosecute the work. Spokane is to have two Salvation armies—one to follow the founder of the society, and a new one to declare allegiance to his succeeding son, Ballington Booth, to be known as American Volunteers, and to be organized into posts instead of corps. It is reported that 15 inches of snow fell last week over in the Snohomish county, says the Heppner Gazette. Many sheepmen were in the midst of lambing and the cold snap has proven very disastrous to this industry in that section. The Degree of Honor held a pleasant session last evening. Among the attractive features was the reading of the "Fern Leaf," edited by Mrs. J. H. Cradbaugh, and the presentation to the lodge by Mrs. Herrin of the pictures of the grand officers of this jurisdiction. Mr. L. Samuel, manager of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., spent yesterday and today in the city. Mr. Samuel was the founder of the West Shore, the brightest journal of its class ever published on the coast, and which every Oregonian regretted to see go down. A telegram from Coahuila, Mexico, states that the rebel Indians at the town of Jiquila killed all the town councilmen, school teachers, and local priests, chief of police and the telegraph operator; in fact nearly every one holding a government place. The people are in terror. An Ohio girl poured a cup of hot water on the head of her fiance for making fun of her cooking. The young man took it as a death blow, the hair dropped from his head and he is likely to die. Other thoughtless young swains will take notice and govern themselves accordingly. Today Wm. Landers and Ida Walters were given a hearing before Justice Davis on a charge of adultery. The case against Mrs. Walters was dismissed, while Landers was held in bonds of $200 to appear before the next grand jury. Not being able to furnish the required bail, Landers was remanded to the custody of the sheriff. The Weiser Signal wound up a compilation to a young school man with a good word about "the reputation for teaching the bears." The next issue of the school man met the editor and chased him down the street with a blue umbrella, and at every jump in the road she screamed that she had never taught a bear in all her life. The reputation of the fine blooded stock in this section is attracting attention abroad, and parties from a long distance are coming here for fine animals. G. Banford, of Chillewauch, B. C. was here yesterday, and bought three Poland China hogs of O. M. Juday, of Klickitat county, which he will take to British Columbia for breeding purposes. The county clerk's office has been converted into an incubator for "Australian shepherd dogs." Five little fellows, who have not yet arrived at that mature age when their eyes are opened to this cruel and relentless world, and who have been reared by their mother and parent, having been turned over to the mercies of the force in that office. They are handsome puppies, and if carefully nurtured for a couple of months their scalps will be worth fully one dollar each. In giving an account of the rendition of the "Confederate Spy" yesterday, we omitted mentioning one of the most important and best sustained characters, Clay, the colored trapper, who in the third act discovered the plot for liberating the spy, and conveyed the news to General Banks. This character was taken by Mr. John Hartnett, who rendered his part most perfectly, and in the list of specialties gave a song and dance that was one of the most attractive features of the evening. The Mount Lebanon Shakers have invented a great many valuable things. They were the first to make brooms by machinery; the first to put up seeds in little packages; the first to manufacture cut nails. Now they are out with a method of curing dyspepsia by resting the stomach. Their remedy is known as the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It stipulates food in an artificially digested form and at the same time aids the digestion of other foods in the stomach. In other words, by the use of the Shaker Digestive Cordial, a dyspeptic virtually gets along without the use of his stomach until it is restored to its natural strength and vigor. A single 10 cent bottle will oftentimes give marked relief. Get a bottle from your druggist and try it. Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil. From Friday's Daily. Hon. C. M. Cartwright, of Portland, is in the city. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilcox, of Kent, are in the city. Hon. V. C. Brook and wife, of Wasco, are in the city today. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dufur are visiting in this city today. Mrs. S. L. Brooks returned last evening from a visit to Portland. The militia company will give a smoker at the armory next Wednesday evening. The wood work for the front of A. M. Williams & Co's new building has arrived from Portland. Mr. R. F. Allen, president of the First National bank of Prineville, arrived last night from Portland. Circuit court last night only three days at Condon, having convened on Monday and adjourned on Wednesday. Mr. M. Sanders, of Albany, is in the city, en route to Prineville to look after his stock interests in Crook county. Mr. P. L. Kretzer, who is operating the well boring machine at the Columbia Brewery, went to Portland on the afternoon train. This morning Tom Ferguson passed through the city with 1,700 head of sheep, taking them to the ranges on Chocomauch. Mr. Emil Salsman returned last night from Salem, where he has been attending a meeting of the state board of horticulture. It begins to look as if the gentle cooling dew would have the drop the olive branch and resign the mission as the emblem of peace. Secretary herbert has perfected a plan to use carrier pigeons as messengers for the United States navy in case of war. Mrs. Sherrill, daughter of Elgin, II., and Mrs. Martin, of Nebraska, who are touring the Northwest, arrived on the Regulator last evening. The river was 12-10 feet above low water this morning and is rising gradually. The rise is caused by the high waters in John Day and Umatilla rivers. The many friends of Conductor M. B. B. are pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from a recent attack of erysipelas as to be on the streets once more. Frosts occurred in many places in Willamette valley and as far south as Angles, Cal., yesterday morning. The frost was more severe west of the Cascades than in this place. The 3-year-old son of Mr. Roberts, of Grand Rapids, fell 20 feet from a tree top last Sunday and struck his head on a rotten log. The boy was unconscious 12 hours but will recover. A small leather-bound index book was found on the streets and has been left at this office for the owner to identify. It is a stencil mark "Albert Joffrey, Portland, Oregon." The old portage road on the north side of the Columbia at Cascades is being repaired by the owners of fish wheels in that section to convey their fish above the falls to the lower river. Two mining men from Spokane, Messrs. Thos. Yates and A. L. Leary, arrived in their wives, have been in the city the past few days, and left for Portland on the Regulator this morning. George McNulty died at the home of his father near Mosier at 3 P. M. yesterday. The remains will be brought to The Dalles on the Regulator this evening for interment. The funeral will probably take place Sunday. Lutheran services will be held in the First Baptist church next Sunday at 3 and 7 P. M. The services will be conducted in English. Rev. L. Gra., the Lutheran pastor, accompanied by his wife, left for Portland on the Regulator City, and will permanently locate in The Dalles. No work whatever is being done at the locks. Everything has been suspended it is stated for the want of funds with which to proceed. This may be all right, but the majority of those who have hoped against hope for the last twenty years that they would live to see the locks completed are beginning to believe there is a great big "bugger in the wood pile" somewhere. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Godfried, who have been in the city the past week visiting Mr. Godfried's sister and brother, Mrs. H. Herberg and Mr. Carl Godfried, took passage on the Regulator this morning, on their homeward journey. Mr. Godfried was formerly an employe in the O. R. & N. shops here, but is at present superintendent of a coal factory in San Francisco. It was his first visit to The Dalles in eight years. All is Not Harmony. While matters are being adjusted between the fishermen and the cannerymen at the mouth of the river, there are still some differences existing between them, and it is evident that the fish output from that section will be unusually light this year. The following from Astoria gives some idea of the situation at present: If reports received from Iwaco can be relied upon, all is not harmony among the trappers on that side of the river. It is said that the trappers residing at Chinook beach were notified of the intention to hold the mass-meeting at Iwaco, on Friday last, and that the resolutions passed at that time do not reflect the sentiment of a majority of the trappers. The Chinook men are endeavoring, by every means in their power, consistent with an observance of the law, to dissuade from fishing those of the Baker's bay trapper who have started operations, and it is reported that feeling has been running high in consequence. Comparatively few of the trappers have accepted the 4-cent rate, and these include only those who were forced to fish because of an inability to get advances of supplies from owners. A New Sugar. The latest thing we have heard of, says the Athena Press, was sprung by a man living near Weston. He has been tapping box elder trees and making maple sugar from the sap. He rather thinks that over any thing sprung so far this season. We can expect to hear next of an ice factory making ice from the pure, clean water furnished by a watch spring or lean of some honest farmer starting a dairy with the products of the willow-wood. There is no limit to what can be done in Oregon. The manufacture of pure Vermont maple sugar from the sap of box elder trees may become one of the leading industries of the state in future years. Something, we might say, by an inventive genius in the way of making cloth from cottonwood trees. There is no limit to what can be accomplished here by intelligent effort, although we have not had time as yet to study out any plan to utilize the tumbleweed. A Boy Wins a Suit. In Massachusetts a boy brought suit for damages because he had been expelled from a public school and his teacher and the school committee refused to admit him unless he would apologize for being disrespectful and promise not to do so again. He secured damages, and the defendants appealed on the ground that he had no right to bring such a suit, but the supreme court of the state has decided that he can bring it, and gave it as its opinion that ordinarily the teacher's word is law, but that he may not declare null and void an act on the part of a pupil or is not disrespectful. The small boy, in Massachusetts, seems as if he proposed to be more aggressive than the new woman. Grant County Mines. The Eagle of Long Creek says: J. J. Cozart, who has visited the Quartzburg mining district, states that he was convinced that Quartzburg, Grant county, possessed a camp equal in richness to any in the world. In every instance where the ledges near the surface were only a few inches in width, they widened out as many feet as sufficient depth was attained. While there is some need of capital at present he thinks it only a matter of a short period until plenty of wealth will find its way in there, for in a camp where the miners can make wages crushing out the yellow metal by hand his future is assured.

"THE CONFEDERATE SPY." This Interesting Drama Presented by Home Talent. It is a true saying that home talent is always appreciated in The Dalles, and this statement was never more fully verified than Tuesday night, when the play of "The Confederate Spy" by the Home Dramatic Club, under the supervision of the R. H. Hines sisters and direction of Prof. E. B. Mason, all the available space in that large building was taken, and many turned away, not being able to secure seats. The play is a thrilling one, with just enough of the pathetic in it to arouse the sympathy of the spectator and bring out the admirable qualities of the most characters. The scene is set in the North where a beautiful Southern girl, Maud Bradley (Miss Rose Mitchell) is visiting, and has been suddenly summoned home by her traitor father, a radical Southerner, her lover, George Waterman (J. J. Sorenson) enters and pleads with her to go to the Union, to accept his home, his fortune and his heart. With true Southern spirit, she rejects his offer, unless he will not to enter the Union service. Loyalty to his country is a stern duty to the young girl, and she is moved by the emotion Miss Mitchell and Mr. Sorenson displayed in this scene would have done credit to professional actors. The parting between George and his mother, a character taken and very fully sustained by Mrs. G. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers, headed by Mr. C. Blakely, was another affecting scene. The mother had given her husband and eldest son to the cause of the Union, and for her only remaining boy to go to the war was more than she could endure. The appearance of a company of soldiers