and fraternal organization. The warehouses are being taxed for room in which to store the large amount of wool that is being brought on Second and Jefferson streets has been charted for storage purposes and is rapidly filling with wool. Mr. J. B. Haverly, who was in the city today, stated to a T. M. reporter vest the heaviest wheat crop ever yet

Hon. T. S. Hamilton, commissionerelect of Crook county, is in the city. Mr. Hamilton is an extensive wool raiser, and has stored all his clip for this year at his farm on Trout creek, Intending to hold it until next season or until such a time as prices will justify his putting it on market.

Hon. Arthur C. Mellette, the first governor of South Dakota, died last week at Pittsburg, Kan. Governor Mellette was well known to many residents of The Dalles, having spent some time in the city a few years since visiting his son, Charles Mellette, who was time keeper at the O. R. & N.

An Oregon girl, Miss Millie Brouillette, aged seventeen, is making quite a name for herself in California as an orator. She is trying to earn enough by her work to pay her way through college. The Examiner says her oratory is above what one would expect from a girl of her age. The Oregon girl is not behind the age in anything.

Mrs. E. C. Price left on the afternoon train for Bonner, Montana, where her husband has located, and where they will make their future home. Mrs. Price was accompanied to the train by a large number of lady friends, who wished her a safe journey, and also that Montana would not prove sufficiently attractive to prevent her some day returning to The Dalles.

The new K. of P. hall in the Vogt block is nearing completion, and will soon be ready to receive the furniture. The main hall is 38x57; feet, and the banquet ball is 27+x48. Both halls will be elegantly furnished throughout, and when ready for use will be as handsome lodge rooms as there are anywhere in the state. It is the intention of Friendship lodge to dedicate the new hall on June 30, with imposing ceremonies, to which all neighboring lodges will be invited.

Squirrels are commencing operations north of Colfax. Farmers from that portion of Whitman county say that the animals are eating the barley as fast as it grows, but they have not commenced on the other cereals. They do not commonly do so untill the grain commences to joint, then the animals cut the stalk at the joint and suck therefrom the sweet juice. They eat no more of the grain, which accounts for the vast amount of grain which one squirrel can destroy.

From Monday's Dally. Tonight three car loads of sheep from Bridge creek will be shipped to Portland.

A train of 25 cars of Webfoot cattle passed through here last night en route to Montana.

Last Saturday Earnest Jensen wa granted final naturalization papers by the circuit court.

Two car loads of cattle were shippe from here Saturday night to the Pacific Meat Co. at Tacoma

Mr. E. Jacobsen returned Sasurday from a tour through Sherman county. He reports crop prospects very fatter ing throughout that county.

D. C. Herrin leaves tonight for Heppner, and from there goes to Pendleton to attend the grand lodge, W. of W. which convenes on the 17th.

> OREGON'S BARD. Miller Visits the Scenes of Childhood

When the train stopped in front of the Umatilia House at noon Monday there alighted therefrom a man whose face is familiar to all Oregonians. It was Joaquin Miller, the poet, who had who were ready with cutstretched hands to welcome him to the city. Mr. Miller's first visit t . The Dalles was in 1852, when he landed here a boy with his parents, after an arduous journey across the plains. Little he dreamed then that his name would someday be- in several of the higher studies re come familiar to all English-speaking read and admired by the literary and board. world. But such is the case. The wayward and untutored boy, the reckess and darring youth, who was once the equal of the most darring frontiersmen in early mining days, has grown into the accomplished poet and man of letters, one whom Oregon may well be proud of, and he in turn is proud of the state in which his childhood days and early manhood were Blakeley & Houghton.

To a representativo of the TIMES MOUNTAINEER Mr. Miller declared that he was more of an Oregonian than anything else; that while circumstances required that he should claim California as his home, Oregon still was more dear to him than any other spot on earth. He said he had traveled wice around the globe; that he had seen every clime and every people in the world, and no spot in the entire universe had more attractions to him than Oregon. Its climate is the most attractive: its resources the mos varied, and its people the most congenial of any he ever knew, said the poet, and for this reason he loved Oregon, and even though he might never again claim it as his home, it would ever have a warm place in his affections. After enjoying the hospitality of Col. Sinnott at the Umatilla house and spending a short time with his brother, James H., who resides in Crook county, the poet left on the | afternoon train for Portland to be present at the meeting of the Oregon Pioneers' Association before whom he delivered an address on Tuesday.

Worth Contesting For. There are on exhibition at Van

Norden's jewelry store two elegant medals that are offered by the officers of the Third batalion O. N. G. as prizes for the first and second best individual scores made at rifle practice during the coming encampment of the battalion at Hood River. The medal for the first prize is of solid gold, and on the top bar is inscribed " Chird But. Infantry, "O. N. G. while-underneath the bar are two rifles crossed behind a bulls-eye target. The second prize is Three Years of Splendid Health. of the same model, excepting that it is I might add that I am a druggist and have made of silver with gold rifles. The medals are certainly worth contesting for, and will no doubt be the source of considerable rivalry among the crack marksmen of the different companies in the battaliot.

The Dalles and Wool.

Last year more wool was shipped from The Dalles than from any other one point in the United States, and this season there will be about a million more pounds handled here than medals are certainly worth contesting

"Past Redemption" is a most difficult play for amateurs, as almost every character is a leading one, requiring the closest application on the part of every actor, yet there was not an error in the entire rendition either in stage effect or recitation. To attempt to say who among the many in the play did best would be an impossibility, for every one took his or her part with such ease and grace that no one did better than another, hence suffice to say that "Past Redemption" was rendered in The Dilles better than it was ever before presented by an amateur Belmont, No. 48-Chas.
