A gentleman who stood on the dock this morning and for some time, gazed upon the Sadie B: anchored in mid stream, remarked that the boat presented rather an unsociable appearance out there, but be presumed the owners had been down to Portland and had seen the Philadelphia anchored in mid stream, and were emulating naval officers, since they held rather a belligerent attitude toward The Dalles.

Hon. E. O. McCoy spent several days in Sherman county this week and from his observations there, estimates there will be as many bushels of wheat harvested in that county as there were last year. The crop is not so good as it was last season, but owing to the acreage being larger he says the usual amount of wheat will be threshed The yield per acre will be about one half what it would have been under more favorable circumstances.

The novelty social at the Christian church last night was a pleasant affair, the rendering of the program affording much amusement, nearly all the selec tions being old-time declamations and songs. Mr Talbott promptly telegraphed to Mr. Byan on the subject, and the young congressman replied that the Interests of the common people demanded a law protecting them from the encrosehments and combinations of corporate power. He told his partner that it was necessary for the life and prosperity of the nation that the competitive principle should be kept alive, and that anything interfering with it should be restrained. He has constantly said that the failure to enforce the anti-trust laws was due to the apathy of the administration at Washington, and he looked upon the selection of Mr. Olney for the office of attorney-general as a part of the general scheme for controlling the government and rendering popular opposition to unjust corporate power He has said many times that the attorney-general should zeafously press the anti-monopoly statutes, so that if they should prove defective congress should promptly perfect them. He holds that a rich man's property s as sacred as a poor man's, but no more so, and that the government should be able to protect its weakest citizen against the oppressions of the most powerful corporations.

Work Being Resumed. In spite of the dull times and polit cal agitation manufacturers in some lines appear yet to have confidence in the return of prosperity, and are starting the wheels going in their establishments. The dispatches announce that the iron mills of Ohio will resume operations at once, putting not less than 10.000 operatives at work, and from Salem, Or., comes the word that the new machinery, of the Thos. Kay woolen mills will be set in motion this week. It cannot reach itsfull canacity for a few weeks yet, but the carding process will start up at once, spinning and spooling will begin this week, and within 10 days weavers will begin to throw the shuttles. The new Kay woolen mills consist of 20 Knowles looms, including a set of worsted machinery. The worsted machinery is the only thing of the kind west of the Rocky mountains, and a higher grade of cloth will be manufactured than has yet been turned out on the coast. The weaving of blankets here will be dispensed with, the com pany having decided to make a specialty of blankets at the Waterloo mills. while the Salem mills will manufacture passimeres and worsted cloth. The mills will be kept going night and day, and, as soon as yarn enough is made ahead and the broachers for all the looms filled, about 100 hands will be kept employed at the new factory.

The Astoria Regetta The annual regatta at Astoria has become one of the leading events of the summer in the northwest, and this year the plans are more extensive than ever before. The battleship Oregon and flagship Philadelphia will be in the harbor, the State Firemen's Association will hold its annual tournsment, and the Oregon Press Association it annual meeting in Astoria during the regatta. An ocean race between the two fastest schooners on the Pacific coast will also be a feature. The regatta will be held during the week August 18-22.

oe Daffron Stabbed by an Enraged Chin man. About 10 o'clock last night an altrication occurred on First street, in front of the Salvation Army barracks between Joe Daffron, a white lad aged about 19 years, and a Chinaman who goes by the name of Charlie, a cook in the Columbia hotel. It appears that Daffron and a lot of other young hoodlums had been tormenting the Chinaman during the evening, and the Chinaman went off and himself with a knife. they met in front of the barracks the Chinaman asked Daffron if he wanted to fight, when Daffron re sponded by striking him in the face, and turned to leave. The Chinaman struck Daffron with a knife, inflicting wound under the right shoulder blade about one inch in depth, severing an artery and causing a profuse flow of blood. Daffron was taken to Dr. Hollister's office where his wound was dressed, and unless bloodpoison ing should result will suffer little inconvenience from his wound. A Jolly Good Time. The lawn social given by the young adies of the Epworth League at the esidence of Mrs. Bills Friday evening was a decided success. The grounds were attractively decorated with lanterns, flowers, electric lights and retty girls. The genial bost, in her sual attractive style, had everything n readiness at an early hour for the eception of the guests. A first glimpse of the grounds assured the spectators of the good time in store and the well selected program reflected credit upon the committee of arrangements. Among the principal numbers on the program were a plano duet by Misses Edith Randall and Clars Nickelson, and a solo by Miss Hilds Beck. The recitation by Mr. Dage, "The Black Horse and His Rider," was the gem of the evening. The pastor, Rev. J. H. ## A FLOATING EMBANKMENT,

Bow Engineers in India Overcome an Obstacle in Railroad Building. On the Calcutta and Southeastern railroad of India an unusual construction has been successfully resorted to to carry the double-tracked railway lines over very soft, wet ground, which was too unstable to support ordinary filling, says the Indian Engineer. At the point where the railway crosses the Pilallee the river flows in an artificial channel. It formerly made a bend at this point, which carried the stream about four hundred feet to the west of its present course, and it thus became necessary to carry the embankment which forms the western approach of the bridge across the old channel, the bottom of which was sixty feet below high-water mark and eighty-three feet below the level of the line. Accordingly the new cut having been excavated, and the lower end of the old bed bunded with sand bags to facilitate silting, the embankment was commenced by throwing in earth from the western bank. The soil of the locality, like that of the Sunderbunds generally, however, is a soft loam, highly absorptive of water, so that the earth thrown in speedily formed a semi-fluid slush, which flowed out on both sides, filling up the old channel, and then flowing out at one or both ends into the river. No efforts could succeed in raising the embankment above the level of high water, and a quantity of bamboos which were laid down with a view to impede the lateral motion of the earth, after settling together with the embankment, reappeared after a few weeks some two hundred feet off or the line of outflow. At length the engineers, finding that there was no hope of the earth attaining sufficient solidity to bear the weight of the embankment as hitherto attempted, adopted the expedient of constructing a great float on the same elementary principle, al-though differently applied in construc-tion, as that adopted with so much success by George Stephenson at the

From the information received at ne Oregon Crop Bureau concerning ne condition of crops in eastern Oreon the following statements were nade in the bull-tion issued yesterday: Heading of fall-sown wheat has comnenced in the valleys; the yield deends upon locality and how the round was prepared. Some fall-sown heat will make 40 bushels to the acre. while spring-sown will only make from 0 to 20 bushels to the acre; an average f 30 bushels for fall-sown is generally estimated. The wheat is generally in good condition, and much of it will ake No. 1; in Wasco, Gilliam and Morrow counties the grade will in sections be No. 2. The hot weather of the previous week caused the grain o shrink some, but it was not injured as was at first thought. Spring-sown grain is poor in all localities and that sown late will not be fit for hay. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the phy sicians for miles about, but of no avail, and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Dis covery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Blakeley & Houghtons' Drug Store.
