MONTREAL, Dec. IL-The strong ndercurrent of sentiment throughout Canada favorable to a separation from Great Britain and the establishment of an independent Canadian republic on this continent has begun to take tangible shape. The organization of independence clubs has been in active progress during the past five or six months and a convention has been called to meet in this city in March next, with the object of federating all groups and clubs of the dominion. Until then the chief work will be to group individuals favoring the independence movement throughout Canada; that is, to effect the co-operation of all those who favor national independence by pacific means.

The Associated Press correspondent is informed that the movement is gaining ground rapidly in the rural districts, especially in Port Neuf, Drummond, Granby and the most remote districts. Two organizers are traveling in the interest of Canadian independence clubs throughout the Canadian centers in the United States and in the Eastern townships, where the idea seems to meet with great favor.

MOSTON TO CLEVELAND. The Governor's Views Upon the Cuba

NEW YORK, Dec. 14-Governor Morton, according to a statement published in the Evening World, sent a telegran o President Cleveland vesterday in ban affairs and the assassination of General Maceo in particular. The nessage contained the novel suggerion that President Cleveland invite resident-elect McKinley to Washington to discuss the most feasible plan to be followed by the president concerning the attitude of the United States toward Cuba during the remainder of Cleveland's term.

The World article says: 'It is not probable that Morton would have proffered his suggestion unless he thought it would be acceptable to President-elect McKinley; indeed, it is said the governor has had some correspondence with the president-elect on the subject."

WARRIOR ANTS. Terrors of Their Advancing Col-

Overwheimed and De-

It was in Honduras, near the Caribbean coast, while on a government survey, says a correspondent of the Omaha World-Herald, that I first saw the warrior ants-those strange insects which march through the tropical forests in armies, attacking every living creature in their path. One intensely hot day, as I sat in a hammock under the thatched roof of my bamboo hut. a native came running in, and, with excited gestures, bade me follow him. I did so wonderingly, and, going out he indicated. There on the rolling savannah stretched a wide black belt extending far back into the deep shadows of the adjacent forest. It rose and fell with every formation of the ground, and, like a huge snake, slowly crept toward the village. "The war rior ants," explained the native in a strange patois of English and Spanish which I shall not attempt to imitate. "They will soon be here," he con-"You had better untie your dogs or the ants will kill them." Acting upon his advice I loosened my dogs, and, retiring to a safe distance, watched the approach of the warriors In countless multitudes they swarmed order like a well-drilled army. Hefore them scurried a heterogeneous mass of lizards, grasshoppers, frogs, beetles relation to the critical condition of Cu- and other manner of insects and reptiles, in a wild scamper to reach a place of safety. Presently the advance guard reached my hut and disappeared within; then the main column appeared, and soon the roof, floor, walls and rafters were black with them. Like the soft rustle of dried grass stirred by a gentle breeze came the sound of their presence in the leaves of my thatched roof. The sound increased in loudness as the rats, mice, lizards, cockroaches, centipedes and others their ilk, who tried vainly to escape. Some succeeded in getting away from the house, but only to fall victims to the surrounding hordes without. One large cockroach, I noticed, made a plucky fight, but, overpowered by numbers he gradually relaxed his efforts and was soon dismembered, each ant carrying off a portion of his body as a to slip away unseen. The ants quickly surrounded him, however, and fought switch of his tail the snake killed a score of his tormentors, but their places were soon filled by the black swarm which swept unceasingly on. Finally the writhings of the snake became fainter and fainter, and at last ceased entirely, and then, and not until then, did the ants relinquish their attack. All day long they marched through the house until at sundown the end of the column had passed and was lost to view in the thickness of the forest. I entered the house and prepared to survey ruefully my larder, but my anticipations of sorrow were premature, for there were all my provisions as I had left them, untouched. There was but one exception-a poor turkey which I had tied to a stake that morning, intending to keep him alive for a few days before making him into soup. He was stone dead, but the rumpled earth about him showed that he had made a hard fight for life. Not a dead ant was to be seen, they lad all been carried off by their comrades. I afterward learned that the warrior ants refuse to touch any food that they themselves have not caught and slain, which accounted for my provisions remaining unmolested. I was overjoyed at the change in my house-not a eockroach, lizard or any other insect or reptile was left; they had been com-
