An attempt was made to brain Marshal Heminger, in Lakeview, one night last week. As he was making his regular rounds, he passed through the alley back of Frankl's store about 12 o'clock, and when he reached the little gate, some one struck him across the eye and nose with a piece of scantling, knocking him down. He heard the movement and threw up his arm warding off the blow somewhat. As soon as he recovered himself, he opened fire in the direction of the retreating figure, but to no purpose. No reason is known for the assault, whether the person intended robbing the store, or had a personal grudge against the marshal.

The fall pack of salmon on the Coumbia river this year amounted to 64,-900 cases. Of this Scufert Bros. packed 6200 cases, the Herrick Packing Co. 700, and I. H. Taffe 2000.

William VanBibber returned this morning from Colfax, where he has been visiting the past two weeks. Mr. VanBibber says all points in Washington that he visited, the weather was Mitchell and anti-Mitchell headquarters have been opened, where the cohorts of the diferent factions may meet and hold consultations. Old residents affirm that a favor able summer always, follows a wet winter, and if this shall prove true, next summer should be a nost favorable one, since this is the wetest winter ever known in Eastern Oregon. Should the coming season be favorable, Wasco county will certainly raise the largest crop in 1897 that has eyer been raised, since the ground everywhere is thoroughly meist, which will admit of a large acreage being sown next spring.

Secretary Worthington reports that the appropriation was expended and a deficiency of $1975 credited. There is, however, cash on hand to the amount of $220.15, leaving a net deficiency of $1754.85 to be reported to the legislature. Governor Lord has repeatedly and emphatically committed himself as opposed to deiciencies, and this will probably go to the legislature with the recommenda tion that it be not paid.

> It is said to be an actual fact that an American millionaire's daughter was recently no more and no less than sold to a fereign prince. The father supposed he was going to give the money to his daughter, but when the prince found this out he called a halt, and his lawyer informed the millionaire that the money must be paid directly to the prince or the deal would be off. The father came to the princ's terms and meekly paid him the money. If this was not a clear bargain and sale, what was it? Of course the only consideration received was an empty title, but some American snobs are willing to pay very dearly for even this.

That he might be fortified to present the matter plainly and forcibly, Senator Mitchell requested that the following memorial be adopted by the Oregon legislature, and the stockmen interested in the matter will endeavor to get it passed through the senate and house at an early fate in the session:

"Be it resolved by the house of rep esentatives, the senate concurring that our senators in congress be and they are hereby instructed, and our representatives be and are hereby requested to urge the immediate action by the president of the United States, reducing the Cascade timber reserve, and creating instead three reserves, throwing open the balance to settlement in accord ance with the application of our dele gates in congress pending in the department of the interior.'

Until within the past year gardeners in the vicinity of The Dalles have given little attention to the cultivation of celery except to supply the local demand, but this season a considerable fine and warm, similar to that we have amount has been raised, and the surplus has been shipped to Portland, where it is pronounced by dealers to be the best that reaches that market, commanding a higher price than the celery raised in that vicinity or that shipped in from Colorado. Evidently this climate and soil are peculiarly adapted to the growth of celery, and the alkali soil, which is ordinarily considered useless, produces celery of a peculiarly pleasant flavor not found in that raised on ordinary land. Celery is a profitable vegetable to raise, and the success met with by those who have given attention to its cultivation in this vicinity is evidence that it will

THUGS AND THIEVES. Two Daring Robberies in The Dalles No.

Year Eve. Thursday night furnished abundant opportunity in The Dalles for the lawless element to practice their nefarious deeds, and they were not slow to take advantage of the occasion. There were numerous entertainments in the city, Uncle Tom's Cabin at the opera house, besides numerous watch meetings in the churches and also at primost deserted, giving toughs a show As a result two bold robberies were

About 10:30 O. C. Wilson, a voung Hartland, Wash., was returning along the railroad track on First street to where he had been to secure a ticket to Bandor, Minn., for which place he expected to start Friday night, and when opposite the electric light power house was confronted by a man, who with drawn pistol ordered him to throw up his hands or he would shoot his head off. Mr. Wilson had his hands in his pockets at the time, and in attempting to get them out his right hand was en tangled in a key chain, which the rob ber probably saw, and believing it was a pistol, fired on his victim. The pisol was almost against Mr. Wilson's breast, and the ball passed through the left side of both his coats, and grazed his vest. He struck at the robber's hand knocking the pistol down, and the second shot fired took effect in Mr. Wilson's right thigh. The shool from the shot caused him to fall to the ground in a swoon and the robber proseeded to relieve him of a pocket book. that was in his inside vest pocket, and contained $31 in bills. A purse in his pants pocket, that had in it a few dollars in change, was not molested. Mr Wilson la'd about 15 minutes before he fully recovered consciousness. When he recovered his wits, he managed to get to the electric light house, and informed the engineer of what had happened. Dr. Logan was summoned and dressed the wound, and Mr. Wilson was taken to the Farmer's hotel, but pefore the officers could be summoned the thief had made good his escape. The victim of the second robbery was Miss Gris- Malrey, M E vold's manner of rendering herself is that of perfect ease with her subject, and giving it in a perfectly natural way that is charming Her modulation is correct, and altogether her part on the program was a success. Let us here ention Mr. Walter Reavis, a school boy of our city, who appeared on the program in a recitation. We all know this young man and forsee for him a bright future. He is naturally gifted with the fires of dramatic art, and could make a success in that line of work if he so desired, as could be seen in every gesture and expression as he recited Fitz James and Rhoderick Dhu last night. KICKED THE PIGSKIN.

The New Year game of football was fully as interesting as if the Portland team had contested for honors with The Dalles eleven, although it was impos sible to make up two teams, hence the game was played with nine on a side. They were designated as The Dalles and High School teams and were captained by Grant Mays and H. Clyatt respectively.

R. J. Sinnott was chosen as umpire and the play was begun promptly at 2:30. The Dalles team won the kick off, and when the egg-shaped leather ball was once started in motion there was a lively contest for its possession It was a spirited contest from start to finish, and it was fully demonstrated that The Dalles can put up a first-class foot-ball team, one that is capable of meeting any ameteur team in the state For nearly two hours the contestants wrestled, run, pushed and fell over each other, and when the goal was ly reached the score stood 22 to 6 Lthe Dalles.

THE PAUL MOHE ROAD AGAIN. It is Said to Have Been Reviewed From The report comes from Sherman county that the Paul Mohr road scheme has taken new life since the locks at Cascades have been opened. and a move is on foot to raise money with which to prosecute the work o construction. The matter is being agitated quite vigorously in the regions to the east, but what the result of the agitation will be no one can at present tell. But certain it is that Sherman county is desirous to secure an outlet, and since the prospects are not flattering that the boat railway between The Dalles and Celilo will be opened at any near date in the future, it is but natural that the people of that section should interest themselves in any scheme that promises to give them cheaper freight rates to tide water. The Paul Mohr road, if built, would give then this outlet, and it is but reasonable that they should offer it enouragement. The plar, as we understand it, is in ease the Mohr road is built from Coumbus to some point where boats can land safely on the Washington side of the river, to construct a road from either Deschutes, Biggs or Rufus, leading out into Sherman county as far as Moro, which would tap all the wheat section of that county, besides drawing a considerable amount of the wool shipments from Crook and Grant coun-

Should this plan be carried out. The Dalles will certainly lose a large amount of wool trade that it has heretofore had from Crook and Grant, since the wool raisers of those counties can reach a transportation line over a better route by going to Moro than by coming here. This can be overcome only by the Dalles offering TOURIST greater inducements to wool growers than now exist. A wool scouring plant located here would accomplish this end, and woolen mills would also be an inducement for wool raisers to the south continuing to bring their product to this market. Evidently if the Paul Mohr road is built and a line is extended from the river to Moro, The Dalles must put forth some extra effort to control the wool trade which she enjoys at present.

Still there is some thing about the surroundings-the orchard, smoke house, negroes, pigs and oultry-which denotes solid old-fashoned comfort and Arcadian content.
