The Labor Exchange in Salem was held up last night, and the officers are unable to detect the robbers. This ought to be easy enough, for there are 60 gentlemen in Salem who are experts at holding up, and it ought to be an easy enough matter to discover who mong the number were the culprits.

County Clerk Kelsay has prepared and forwarded to each of the several school clerks of the county a complete list of the taxable property in hts district, so that districts desiring to vote taxes for school purposes may base their calculations upon the amount of property subject to taxation.

The lecture of Col. Jackson at the Congregational church last night was quite well attended, and was highly apprecipted by all who were present. Col. Jackson is a pleasant speaker. and succeeds well in holding the attention of his hearers. The next lecture of the course will be delivered on the evening of Feb. 2.

There is is more truth than poetry in the following expression of the Capital Journal: "If the house is organized for the purpose of electing a senator it will cost the people from $300,000 to $500,000 in the general appropriation bill that does not belong there, the retention of all the commissions and $100,000 for clerkships that are not needed."

Efforts to float the Glenmorag have been abandoned, and the vessel will likely be allowed to remain on North Beach until it is broken up by the ele. ments. Capt. Burns has several times had the ship almost ready to float, but each time adverse winds have frustrated his movements. His last effort was made Monday, when an inshore wind drove the vessel further onto the bar, and further work was abandoned

Miss Ellot, of Portland, who gives singing lessons each week in The Dalles, may stay over a week soon, in order to give a few of her pupils the advantage of dally practice. If there are any who are thinking of taking lessons in the near future, it would be wise for them to begin at this time, that they may have the same opportunity. Miss Eliot may be conferred with on Thursday afternoon or Friday morning of this week, either in person or by tele phone, at Mrs. Leslie Butler's.

Oregon may yet have a good, long session of the legislature, since there is much talk in Salem that the house, when it organizes, will insist upon sitting at least 35 days from date of organization. In that case the senate ean dop othing but comply. There can be no sine die adjournment without the concurrence of both houses, and of mough to last for the next two years. | nently in (alifornia.

Where Music Reigned.

The musicale arranged and carried out by Mesdames E. C. Pease and G. P. Morgan, at the home of the forme lady, last evening, was a decided success in every particular. The spacious parlors were filled to overflowing, nearly a hundred of The Dalles' most cultivated and appreciative people being present to greet a coterie of its best musical and artistic talent. It would be invidious to single out any number for especial praise, where all were excellent, unless it were to mention the one who both as purser for the evening, and as "fair debutante" covered himself with glory, Mr. Truman Butler. The unique programs were greatly admired as souvenirs. Fancy bon-bons containing surprises

Yesterday afternoon workmen were engaged tearing down the high trestle on the O. R. & N. line five miles below The Dalles, and while J. E. Graham was cutting away a brace on top of the trestle some of the timbers gave way, letting him fall about 25 feet, where he became entangled in the timbers. He was then some 75 feet above the ground, and was so bruised by the fall that he was unable to help himself either up or down, so he remained in that perilous position until his companions could clamber up the timbers and let him down with ropes. Mr. Graham was considerably bruised, out his physician, Dr. Sutherland, does not consider his injuries very danger-
