At any rate, Tennessee is the first to celebrate the 100th anniversary of her statehood, and that thought has awakened an unprecedented patriotism throughout the state. The products of the commonwealth are peculiarly well adapted to display. No state is famous in more lines than Tennessee. In the production of marble, iron, zine and coal, the state is known throughout the land, as it is for the growing of tobacco, wheat, corn and cotton, and as the home of race horses and fine cattle. More hard woods are annually cut in Tennessee than in any other state, and within 30 miles of the capital there are boundless beds of phosphate. What Tennessee puts on display at her exposition will astonish the world. From abroad it is intended to bring the striking in-

There are two brothers in Memphis who are so near the same size and figure that they can wear each other's clothing. One of them recently bought a fine new overcoat, says the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, which was a very stylish and comfortable garment, and of which its owner was very proud. The first night after he bought the overcoat there was a rainstorm. The water fell in torrents and the mud fairly swam in the streets. The young man was going out that evening, but he didn't like the idea of taking his new overcoat out in such beastly weather. His brothe had a mackintosh, and when the first young man spied this hanging on the hat rack he decided to appropriate it for the night and so save his overcoat Without saying a word to his brother se qr, ne qr se qr, se qr ne qr sec 30, tp he put on the waterproof and sallied forth into the rain, calculating that he would save his new overcoat at least three months' wear that night. When he came home he found his brother ir their room. "Say, old man," he said "I used your mackintosh to-night." "That was all right," said the brother "I got along very well without it,"

"You didn't go out this evening, did you?" asked the owner of the overcoat "Yes," answered the owner of the mackintosh. "Then what did you wear?" "Your new overcoat."
