The best friend The Dalles ever had arrived here Saturday evening, after an absence of several weeks in Portland. The old friend was the steamer Regulator which has been undergoing repairs at Portland, and when it steamed up to the dock Saturday evening it looked as if it had just come out of a bandbox. It had on new clothes both inside and out, having been repainted without and within, and the ladies'cabin has been refitted with new furniture, carpets and drapery, while the machinery has been overhauled and made as good as new. THE TELEPHONE NUISANCE.

How a Man Got Rid of Neighbors Who Wanted to Use His 'Phone. "A business friend of mine has finally succeeded in ridding himself of a great nuisance," said Earnest F. Edwards, of Boston, who was at the Southern, to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "His office happens to be on a floor in a building where there are a large number of tenants, but no other telephones besides his own. The result is he has been for months bored to death by telephone deadbeats, many of whom have used his telephone great deal more than he has. The nuisance got so bad at last that it was quite usual to have two visitors waiting for each other at the 'phone. He tried various devices for a long time, but finally took the company into his confidence and got them to give him a new number, but not to change the plate on the 'phone. He specially notified central on no account to connect anyone who called up the old number. The scheme worked like a charm. For a day or two the nuisance was increased by the importunities of pa-trons of his telephone and their indignant protests when they failed to secure connection. It did not take long, however, for them to realize that the telephone was of no further use to them, and the way my friend cchoed their protestations and lamentations was most interesting. He has the telephone all to himself now, and is not troubled in any way."

ittle Known Remains in the Mou Regions of Arizona. An old-time prospector lately arrived n Prescott, A. T., for a three months' ojourn in one of the most interesting and least-known portions of the territory, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The wonderland from which he gaged in the insurance and real estate has returned is the country lying between the Mazatlan and Verde ranges of mountains. Mr. Court thinks that section contains more Aztec rains than any other portion of America, evilences of human habitation being found from the highest peak to the lowest valleys. In one place he found a road or street of three miles in length, perfectly smooth and straight and sixty feet in width. On either side of the street, the entire distance, are ruins. The road was evidently built prior to some mighty earthquake, as it noon, attended by ends abruptly at the brink of a yawn-sorrowing friends, ing chasm. Every door and window was approached, but none would yield, nor would the faithful watch dog be pacified. He was making life unpleasant for our hero, who, driven to desperation by the encroachments of the dog and the pinching cold of the night, sought refuge behind a leafless rose bush (for he was clad only in nature's robes and a very light shirt) and summoned up courage to call for assistance. The school ma'am attracted by his cries came to the door to inquire son reported recommending that the cause of the disturbance, but all she could hear was a quotation from one of the standard song writers "Don't tell them that you saw me," though she could see out there in the cold moon light the form of her guest. The door was left ajar, our Wamic friend stole in, secured his garments, and started at once for home, vowing that his office as school director would immediately be declared vacant.

THEY KEEP POND WATER CLEAR

Goldfish and Sunfish Are Terrors to Green Seum and Wigglers. Fish have their uses to humanit over and above serving as food material or as unwilling caterers to the sport of the fisherman, says the New York Sun. Although it may seem odd so to speak of them, they often are as indisensable to a country place as a dog or

If that country place happens to be one that is supplied with running water, and this is used for ornament in ponds or fountains, two things are pretty sure to bother the owner.

One is the well-known green scum which spreads over the waters of ponds and fountain basins. When its growth begins the plant is pretty. It starts from the bottom, as soon as the sun gets high, in May or June, and sends upward a delicate, graceful, wavy hread of vivid green. Until it reaches the surface it remains pretty, but once there it spreads along and rots, and is soon offensive in several ways.

The other nuisance from standing water, even when it is often renewed and directly from the springs, is mosquitoes. The wigglers grow there. The remedy for both these troubles s fish, and the two kinds that will cure them happen to be the two most desirable for other reasons. Goldfish will keep the green scum from growing; and yellow perch, or, as they are generally called, sunfish, will estroy the mosquito wigglers. The sunfish one has to catch, but the oldfish can be bought two for a quarter in the fish and bird stores of the
