

ITEMS IN BRIEF.

(From Saturday's Daily)

Miss Luella Nelson went to Hood River today for a few days' visit.

Miss Eva Heppner left today for Seattle to visit Miss Dot McFarland.

S. F. Blythe, editor of the Hood River Glacier, spent the day in the city.

Miss Cliff, of Portland, is visiting in the city, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh.

Ben Wilson and family left this morning for Wind river to go into camp for the summer.

Today R. S. Andrews, of Hood River, made proof before the register and receiver on his homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Meyer returned last evening from Portland and are now at home to all friends.

Last night's east-bound train carried a large number of Christian Endeavors on their homeward journey.

Miss Amanda Berg, of Chicago, is visiting her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Lannenberg in the city.

Miss Etta Story returned home last night from attending the convention of Christian Endeavors in San Francisco.

Hon. John Mitchell left today for Oregon City and Astoria to attend meetings of the chiefs of the great council I. O. R. M. to be held in those cities.

There were 2,100 of an inch of rain fall at this place last night. This though was only local, however the light showers in different parts of the county.

The sale of the Charley Fraser fruit ranch in Thompson's addition advertised to come off today at 1:30 p. m. failed for lack of bidders and was postponed to some future day not fixed.

A party of 13 left Hood River this morning for the summit of Mt. Hood. They expect to spend Sunday above the clouds viewing the beauties of nature.

Yesterday was rather a breezy day, the average velocity of the wind for 24 hours having been 19 miles an hour, and for a portion of the time it blew at the rate of 35 miles.

The "Wild West" show, under contemplation for July 24, will be a hummer if it materializes, and will be one of the liveliest exhibitions ever witnessed in The Dalles.

On July 27 the grand lodge of Red Men for Oregon meets in this city, and local braves are making elaborate preparations for entertaining their visiting brothers in royal style.

Miss Grace Hill, who has been attending the Chautauqua Association at Gladstone Park, returned on the boat last night accompanied by her cousin, Miss Leona Hill, of Oregon City.

C. J. Hayes, special agent of the government and examiner of surveys, was in the city last evening and left today for Copden to examine the evening government surveys in that section. He was accompanied by Sam Gill, formerly engineer on the Regulator.

Several Dalles young people will go to Gladstone Park Monday, to attend the Chautauqua association meeting. Among the party will be Miss Georgia Sampson, who will be carrying the TIMES MOUNTAINEER with an account of the meeting.

The Dalles was viewed by a large number of Christian Endeavor people last evening who came up on the boat and 6 o'clock train, remaining for the night train. They expressed surprise at finding such a thriving city and such an immense wool shipping point in the far west.

Rev. J. H. Wood returned this morning from Canyon City where he has been holding a camp meeting the past two weeks, and will deliver a sermon in the M. E. church at 8 o'clock tomorrow. In the evening the Sunday school will give an entertainment.

The steamer Dalles City will go to Portland tomorrow for repairs and will be off the line for a few days. This will afford all who desire to visit the city an opportunity to go down tomorrow. The steamer D. S. Baker will be substituted for the Dalles City while she is undergoing repairs.

John Wannamaker is getting candid, listening to a steady stream of people passing through this office, with their tales of woe, sorrow and starvation have worn upon me. And I confess, also, that I am alarmed by the increase in the number of that procession in the last few months.

There is only one man in the city who will acknowledge he was at the boxing contest on a scow anchored in the river last night, and he says if the good Lord will forgive him for this offense, he will never be guilty of another like infraction. The man who is thus honest enough to acknowledge his fault is the genial Tom Kelley, of the Umalla House.

The barbers' association of The Dalles has entered into an iron-clad agreement binding the members to not work the most on Sundays, under penalty of paying for a wine supper and subjecting the violator of the compact to the indignities of being condemned through the daily press of the city. That the stipulations of the agreement will be complied with is not questioned, not because any of the barbers would object to standing the expense of a wine supper, but they fear the roast that would be given them by the press.

From Mondays, Dalles, returned to Portland on the boat today.

Miss Emily Lieby, of Portland, is visiting her cousins in this city.

Miss Georgia Sampson left today for Gladstone Park to attend the Chautauqua association.

The Misses Samuel, of Portland, are visiting in the city, the guests of the Misses Glenn.

Mark Long and family and Miss Maud Cuen returned Saturday from a visit to two camps at Mofet Springs.

Hon. A. C. Palmer, of Mitchell, is in the city. He is en route to Portland as a delegate to the A. O. U. W. grand lodge.

According to Pague tonight will be warm, tomorrow warmer and Wednesday warmest, or at least extremely warm.

Mrs. J. H. Blakely, Mrs. S. M. P. Briggs and Miss Core Joles left this morning for Portland to attend the grand Lodge D. of H.

Today the Dalles City had on board

70 sheep belonging to D. F. Kothum. They will be taken to the mountains in Washington to range until fall.

George Summers, recently appointed postmaster at Prineville, and Joe Dobson, city marshal of Prineville, arrived here today en route to Portland.

The Regulator brought a party of Christian Endeavors from Portland to the locks this forenoon, and after a few hours several hours there returned to that city.

Last evening Dr. Hollister was called to Rufus to attend Miss Alice Thompson who was thrown from a horse and sustained a compound fracture of the right arm above the wrist and also a dislocation of the right elbow.

J. P. Benton and family, E. Schanno and family and Mrs. H. J. Maser and children were passengers on the boat today. They go to Mofet Springs for a summer outing.

L. P. Sales, an expert piano tuner and repairer, has arrived from Portland and has taken a permanent abode with the Jacobson Book & Music Co.

Mrs. P. J. Nicholas, who has been visiting in the city, started this morning for her home in California. She was accompanied to Cascade Locks by Mrs. Nolan and Mrs. Thomas.

The excavating for the new school building is now complete, and everything is in readiness for the laying of the foundation. So soon as that contract is awarded work on the building can be begun.

Saturday and Sunday the D. P. & A. N. boats made excursions from Portland to Cascade Locks carrying about 600 Christian Endeavor people. The D. S. Baker was pressed into service for these occasions and all three boats were loaded to their full capacity to accommodate the sightseers.

A considerable number of fat hogs from Union county are finding their way to Troutdale. Yesterday six car loads of them from Island City were loaded to feed and water, and today another lot of three car loads were uncarried and fed. They will be re-shipped tonight. Three car loads of mutton were also shipped last night to Troutdale.

Within a few days B. Wolf will be erecting a building on the city street, just west of the Blasington hide and pet store. It will be a one-story building 5x35, and when completed will be one of the handsomest structures in the east end. It will be built by A. Anderson and is to be finished within 30 days, when it will be occupied by the Great Northern Furniture store.

Troubles never come singly in this city. The only consolation is which George Ellick, the Hood River brave, can bury his sorrows. Two wives deserted George some time ago, and recently he was wedded to a third. But before his honeymoon had ended he was arrested on a frivolous charge, and while on the jail he was visited by his two former wives, who were both accompanied by their new husbands.

Three tourists, two from San Francisco and one from Peoria, Ill., who have been traveling over the North, west the past month, were in the city last night, and left today for Copden to examine the evening government surveys in that section. He was accompanied by Sam Gill, formerly engineer on the Regulator.

Several Dalles young people will go to Gladstone Park Monday, to attend the Chautauqua association meeting. Among the party will be Miss Georgia Sampson, who will be carrying the TIMES MOUNTAINEER with an account of the meeting.

The Dalles was viewed by a large number of Christian Endeavor people last evening who came up on the boat and 6 o'clock train, remaining for the night train. They expressed surprise at finding such a thriving city and such an immense wool shipping point in the far west.

Rev. J. H. Wood returned this morning from Canyon City where he has been holding a camp meeting the past two weeks, and will deliver a sermon in the M. E. church at 8 o'clock tomorrow. In the evening the Sunday school will give an entertainment.

The steamer Dalles City will go to Portland tomorrow for repairs and will be off the line for a few days. This will afford all who desire to visit the city an opportunity to go down tomorrow. The steamer D. S. Baker will be substituted for the Dalles City while she is undergoing repairs.

John Wannamaker is getting candid, listening to a steady stream of people passing through this office, with their tales of woe, sorrow and starvation have worn upon me. And I confess, also, that I am alarmed by the increase in the number of that procession in the last few months.

There is only one man in the city who will acknowledge he was at the boxing contest on a scow anchored in the river last night, and he says if the good Lord will forgive him for this offense, he will never be guilty of another like infraction. The man who is thus honest enough to acknowledge his fault is the genial Tom Kelley, of the Umalla House.

The barbers' association of The Dalles has entered into an iron-clad agreement binding the members to not work the most on Sundays, under penalty of paying for a wine supper and subjecting the violator of the compact to the indignities of being condemned through the daily press of the city. That the stipulations of the agreement will be complied with is not questioned, not because any of the barbers would object to standing the expense of a wine supper, but they fear the roast that would be given them by the press.

From Mondays, Dalles, returned to Portland on the boat today.

Miss Emily Lieby, of Portland, is visiting her cousins in this city.

Miss Georgia Sampson left today for Gladstone Park to attend the Chautauqua association.

The Misses Samuel, of Portland, are visiting in the city, the guests of the Misses Glenn.

Mark Long and family and Miss Maud Cuen returned Saturday from a visit to two camps at Mofet Springs.

Hon. A. C. Palmer, of Mitchell, is in the city. He is en route to Portland as a delegate to the A. O. U. W. grand lodge.

According to Pague tonight will be warm, tomorrow warmer and Wednesday warmest, or at least extremely warm.

Mrs. J. H. Blakely, Mrs. S. M. P. Briggs and Miss Core Joles left this morning for Portland to attend the grand Lodge D. of H.

Today the Dalles City had on board

70 tons of piping and other freight to be used in constructing the water works for the new school buildings on the agency. Messrs. Gray & Pugh have the contract for putting in the water works and sewerage for the schools recently built by the government.

Already financiers of New York have begun speculating upon what effect the newly discovered gold fields will have on the price of gold and silver. Some hold that it will cause gold to depreciate and silver to advance, while others insist that it will have no effect whatever upon the relative prices of the two metals.

A Pendleton wheat buyer is already offering $5 for new wheat. In Portland the ruling prices offered are 62 1/2 to 70. This would mean 57 1/2 to 65 1/2 for Dalles. However, wheat raisers are anxious to engage their wheat at these prices, as the crop this season will be No. 1, and will probably command 70 cents before harvest is over.

Last night Bud Robbins and Frank Johnson are starting a new game in the county jail. Both are accused of larceny. Heater is accused by B. Parodi of stealing a horse valued at $25, and G. W. Spencer accuses Robbins of larceny by bailie, in having stolen a horse that is in the custody of Recorder Hesson today, and Thursday afternoon was set as the date on which their examinations will be held.

Hon. V. C. Brock, cashier of the Wood bank, is in the city today. Mr. Brock says prospects in Sherman county are very flattering, better than they have been for years. A conservative estimate of the wheat crop is that there will be 3,000,000 bushels harvested, and it will all be of excellent quality. Wasco, Mr. Brock says, is enjoying a healthy and substantial growth, and is being developed by the prospect of being made the terminus of the Columbia Southern road.

IS A PRACTICABLE ROUTE. An Easy Grade Found on the Proposed Railroad from Here to Deschutes.

Last Friday and Saturday Engineer Johnson, in company with Messrs. Bennett, Seufert, Glenn and Whalston, of the Commercial Club transportation committee, made an inspection of the proposed route of the railroad from The Dalles to the free bridge on Deschutes, and the opinion expressed by Mr. Johnson is that the route is practicable, and that a road can be built on easy grades to that point. The highest elevation reached is about 600 feet above The Dalles, and that can be attained with a grade of little over one per cent going to Deschutes, and not to exceed one per cent returning. This would put the route on such easy grades as not to interfere with drawing heavy loads.

The line of road would be about 25 miles in length, and the estimated cost for the line would be $10,000,000. The road if built will be a narrow gauge, and it is expected that sufficient local capital can be interested in the enterprise to put it in operation. The transportation committee will soon make a report to the club when it is expected definite action will be taken toward formulating plans and having a preliminary survey run.

Everybody says so. Casanova Candy Calfario, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleases and refreshes the taste, acts gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleanses the blood, cures colds, coughs, headache, fever, habitual constipation, indigestion, and all ailments of the stomach. 10-day, 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

The Whitman Monument. An organization that has been in existence a number of years, whose prime object is and has been to perpetuate the memory of that sturdy pioneer, Dr. Whitman, who was massacred at the Walls Walla Mission, November 29, 1847, have closed a contract with the Niles-Vinson Marble Works for erecting what is to be known as the Whitman monument. The monument is to be erected and put in position on or before Nov. 29, next, the date of the 50th anniversary of the massacre, when the unveiling ceremonies will be observed. The monument will be of granite and marble and will be one of the finest monuments in the state.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away. To quit safely and forever, no matter how long you have smoked, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It cures the habit, restores the system, and makes you feel like a new man. All druggists, or by mail, 25 cents. Address: Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

Work at the Institute. Monday morning the normal institute began its work with renewed energy. Some of the teachers who attended the first week were not present as other duties called them away. Edna Brown and Anna B. Thompson, of The Dalles, enrolled for study.

The literature class considered the writings of Halliwell and Drake; the theory, the imagination, and the book-keeping class, posting, making out balance sheet, and closing accounts, showing gains and losses. The work has for its aim the better preparation of the teachers for their work and also to strengthen them for the examinations required by the laws of the state.

New Oregon Town Located. In Eagle valley, Baker county, there has been founded a new town which gives promise of becoming quite a thriving little city. This burg is christened Richland, and is located about the center of the valley, on the north side of the line of the survey for the Seven Devils railway, where the track will come down Powder river and cross Eagle valley. A mercantile house is established, and a good blacksmith shop built in the new town, and other enterprises are projected. Eagle valley produces fairly monstrous crops, such as grow in this climate, besides many things of a semi-tropical nature, hence it has abundant resources to sustain a bustling town.

For Sale or Rent. A fine fruit farm of 90 acres, plenty of wood and running water, situated within five miles of The Dalles, will be rented or sold on easy terms. This is one of the most desirable bargains in the country. For particulars inquire at the office or at the home of J. A. Fleck.

Be Sure you get your yellow tickets in every package of Schilling's Best tea. The tea is worth the money; but you might as well try for one of those prizes.

Rules of contest in large advertisement about first and middle of the month.

SCHOOL GOVERNMENT.

Rules or no Rules Discussed by an Old Teacher.

Among teachers there appears to be no end of discussing about rules of school. Some say that "Do Right," is enough and all others only serve to point out the wrong; to give it prominence and life in the minds of the pupils. The "do right" teachers perhaps have never thought that they have no rule, that it is simply an exhortation, that is drummed in our ears from infancy to age, so are the exhortations, "Do good, feed the hungry, or clothe the naked, or be something to go by, that leads, if not from bad to good, at least ends with the good; that, whether it begins with the wrong or not, is sure to end in the right.

The rule of necessity must take his place in the school as a learner, and must be amenable to the teacher. In the school the teacher is one factor, the pupil another. So soon as the teacher allows a division of his mind, the pupil is sure to take advantage of it. The rule of necessity must take his place in the school as a learner, and must be amenable to the teacher. In the school the teacher is one factor, the pupil another. So soon as the teacher allows a division of his mind, the pupil is sure to take advantage of it.

Then write on every mind subordination, that is, take your place as a pupil; write it as the rule of all rules. Doing this affords you an opportunity to present many things which are of the greatest importance to the school, that the law has made you not thought of the school; that society from time immemorial has given it sanction; that you have been hired to govern the school, and that with you is the responsibility of the school, and you intend to meet the requirements.

Then write for your first rule "subordination," and immediately under it "regularity." No one except the very youthful, is entitled to the honor of having his name enrolled upon the school register unless he has determined to attend. The reason for this rule, for such it is in Oregon, is so well understood that I need not stop to give reasons for its importance as affecting the very life of the school.

For the third rule I would write "punctuality." This should be interpreted to mean not only punctuality in getting to school, but punctuality in the performance of every duty. Punctuality in the hours of study, punctuality in recitation, punctuality in every duty.

For the fourth rule have "attention," of these related rules can be readily grasped by the young. Without effort and attention the work of the school is no work, and without work there can be no school worthy the name.

Two more rules should be added; sixth, "moral action;" seventh, "moral courage." The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily beset the worthless student will largely depend on the success with which these rules are maintained.

These rules are positive, not negative. First, thou shalt be subordinate; second, thou shalt be regular; third, thou shalt be punctual; fourth, thou shalt give attention; fifth, thou shalt make an effort; sixth, thy actions must be moral; seventh, thy language must be moral. Because these things are right, they should be done. The law of the school is not the demands of society are not satisfied with less than this. The observance of each and every one of them is demanded by duty, right and honor as exercised by all sensible pupils, whether young or old. Regulations concerning whispering, note writing, and the like, are of the nature of other wrongs that so easily bes