Kenna as Attorney-General-A Gang of High-Roiling Burglars Captured. NEW YORK, Oct. 15 .- The Herald

publishes the following, based on high authority, which it claims is substantially the instructions issued by President McKinley to Minister Woodford to be presented to the Spanish queen: None but the most kindly relations exist between the present administration and Spain, and as far as lies in the power of the administration they will continue. The belligerency resolution which passed the senate at the last session of congress merely bore evidence of the tremendous popular feeling throughout this country in favor of Cuba The house, to be sure, voted down the resolution passed by the senate; but this was with a view to postponing the issue and not doing anything for the moment that could be construed as hostile to Spain.

The house, like the senate, is strongly in sympathy with Cuba. This feeling of sympathy throughout the United States will undoubtedly take shape as soon as congress convenes, and it is necessary for the president to communicate to congress such recommenda tions as he deems best to make in re gard to Cuban affairs.

Under the circumstances, the govern ment of the United States tenders its best offices to mediate between Spain and Cuba, and it offers to mediate so as to bring the war to an end on such terms as will be honorable to both parties. This government expresses the hope that Spain will reply by the end of October, so as to give the president a chance to report to congress by

No money will be spared to buy off the chiefs of the insurrection, or to make their departure from the island easy, although all such proceedings will b denied officially.

The new governor-general has been given full power in certain instructions, a part of which has been kept secret from most members of the cabi net. The reserve instructions cover all international aspects of the Cuban question, especially Spain's relations with the United States, the treatmen of American citizens in strict observance with the treaties of 1869 and 1871 Yukon in rowboats; and from there with the United States, respect for foreign ownership of property, and possible negotiations with a view to eading to submission of the insurgents. Such negotiations, according to the time-honored precedents of

The new governor affects to consider the state of insurrection in Cuba now to be like what it was in 1878, when Marshal Campos used the same devices, coupled with promises of reform and amnesty, together with vigorous military operations, to close the first great rising. Hundreds on the Back Track ASPEN, Colo., Oct. 18. - Professor Charles M. Daggett, for many years a esident of this city, has returned to Aspen from a fatile attempt to reach the Klondike, He reports hundreds of men who a few months ago left for the gold fields in the best of spirits and with well-filled pocket-books, now returning heartsick and discouraged, without a cent in the world. Of between 8000 and 10,000 people who started for the Klondike, less than 2000 got over the passes. Daggett says their condition is deplorable. Some idea of the number who are without means in the country can be gained from the fact that 26 stowaways were discovered on the boat which brought the professor back.

Circle City, heretofore the metropolis, is absolutely deserted. The conditions at Dawson are much more encouraging. The town is lively and ever, is a source of worry.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 18 .- The political campaign in Nebraska promises to become very warm. Mr. Bryan, who has thus far only made occasional speeches in the state, will start out to make a thorough canvass, speaking twice a day at various places in the state until the close of the campaign. Mr. Bryan thinks the situation has steadily improved for the silver forces in Nebraska.

The gold democrats, who are assisting the republicans, expect the Hon. J. G. Carlisle the latter part of the week to make several speeches.

California Women. the Natural State - Why This Odd Regime Is

There are three charming women in Berkeley who constitute the exception necessary to prove the rule that man is a cooking animal. They regard cooking as barbarity. Their dainty palates rebel at the suggestion of any food that has had its crude nature modified by fire. To them the chef and all his works are anathema maranatha. They eat three hearty uncooked meals every day, and are as plump as partridges, as rosy as pippins and as happy as sandboys

This gastronomical eccentric trio consists of Mrs. L. Beal and her two daughters, Alice and Mary Beal. The Beals are a cultured English family. Their wealth and intelligence preclude the idea that their extraordinary diet should have been adopted through either economy or imperfect investigation into matters of science. They moved from England to the South Sea islands, where Mr. Beal was a representative of her majesty's royal govern ment. When Mr. Beal died they came to California, and have been living a very pretty little place which nest among the Berkeley hills. It was during their residence in the islands of the South sea that the Beals equired their taste for uncooked food The Beals are in no sense simple eaters of fruit. Their regimen include all kinds of vegetables, cereals, fruit, berries-every thing, in fact, except meat. But nothing is permitted to approach the oven or the pot, the frying pan or the griddle. The first article on the Beal breakfast menu is mush. That is, they call it mush, but no one would recognize it as the time-honored article. The raw material is taken from the original package and deposited in the dish of each breakfaster. To this is added milk to suit. The Beals do not confine them selves to one kind of mush, but devour by turns oats in different forms, corn meal and wheats, but always raw as the article comes from the grocery. To this are added fruits, nuts and one vegetable, all in a state of pature.

At luncheon uncooked bread take the place of the uncooked mush. Wheat, corn or barley coarsely ground and mixed with milk is the substitute for bread upon the Beal table. Luncheon is completed much like the breakfast. Dinner is completed by adding two regetables to the luncheon menu and by varying the uncooked "bread." Any vegetable that may be in season is all lowed-string beans, cabbage, turnips carrots, artichokes or asparagus, as the case may be. Green corn eaten from the cob uncooked is said to be a great luxury, and raw green peas are de scribed as delicious. When fresh fruits are out of season the dried fruits are accepted as a substitute. Canned fruits are never served, because they are cooked before canning. Among the dried fruits prunes find the greatest favor with the Beal family. Tea and coffee are never used, because the Beals regard the brewing thereof as a form of

"We live upon uncooked food simply ecause we believe that it is the best,' said Mrs. Beal. "It is not a religious mania, but it is done because we are satisfied that it is proper from a scientific point of view. Our dietary habits are the result of our experience while living in the islands, and, now that we not see any reason to change it." The simplicity that is exhibited in eating is carried through the remainder of the house. The furnishing of the place is very simple, but of the finest that can be purchased. The floors of hardwood, highly polished, with rugs found in the Islands. The raiment of Mrs. Beel and her daughters is as sim

A GREAT LIBRARY.

The Imposing Building Which Holds the Government's Books.

ing Uncle Sam's Congressional Litera-ture—Grandest Library Building in the World.

The library is a noble, imposing, mon-imental structure, by far the finest building in the national capital, in many respects the finest public building on the continent, and, in the opinic: of those well qualified to judge, the finest library building in the world. That a building of its size, solidity completed ready for occupancy for less than $7,000,000 is a matter for national congratulation. Not only will it be completed for less than the original estimate, but within the time limit set nearly nine years ago. It is, therefore both a monument of good taste in architecture and the decorative arts and a testimonial to the ability of the government, acting through its regular officials, to plan and direct great public works, to finish them within the time originally fixed and to keep within original estimates of cost, and these are no slight gains.

The building is, of course, fireproof Little that will burn has been used in its construction. The exterior walls are of gray granite. The interior or court walls are of creamy white glazed brick. The framework of the roofand ceiling of the dome surmounting the rotunda is of iron and steel. Fireproof material has been used between the iron girders in all floors, and the partition walls are of brick. Figors and wainscoting, stairways and balustrades are nearly all of marble, and there is good authority for the claim that more of this material has been used in the building than there is in any other building in the world. With the exception of the colored marble in the rotunda it is nearly all American

The library at present contains over 750,000 bound volumes, besides 220,000 pamphlets. The three book stacks now completed, together with the alcoves which will provide for the growth of the library for 15 years, at the rate of increase, about 30,000 volu year. The unassigned rooms will hold 1,047,000 volumes, which will provide for all additions for 50 years. For the growth after that date the main rooms of the first and second stories of the north, east and south sides will hold, on the stack and alcove systems of storage, 1,322,000 volumes, increasing the total capacity to 3,537,000 volumes, which will be sufficient for about 90 years from this date. The capacity can be still further increased by 1,100,000 volumes by the building of one-story stacks in the interior courtyards, without in the least interfering with the light in the second and third stories and only slightly obstructing the light in a few interior corridors of the first or basement floor. Unless the additions shall be more numerous than is now expected the new building will, therefore, prove ample for the needs of the library for 125 years, its total capacity being about 4,000,000 volumes.—E.
