Indian Dave found a peculiar growth of a young potato in the garden on the Rinearson place the other day. During its embryonic period the potato had evidently made its start in the center formed by the handle ring of a rusty old door key that had been lost and covered beneath the plow or hue. The tuber continued to grow out evenly from each side of the key ring' until the curiosity was unearthed by Indian Dave.-Oregon City

Carl Gottfried and George Weigel met with a severe accident last night. They went into the Lutheran church to examine the acetylene light lately placed in the church. They took a bicycle lamp to find their way, and once inside they immediately smelled gas escaping. The flame from their lamp ignited the gas and there was quite an explosion. George's face was badly burned, while Carl received burns about the head and hands. The boys immediately came down town and secured medical assistance. They can congratulate themselves on not being injured worse, for a gas explosion usually results more seriously.

THE WOOL SITUATION.

"Everything seems to indicate that financially, to absorb the products of the woolen mills than they have been at any other previous period in the history of the country. The prospect of another agricultural output of great nagnitude, and the outlook abroad just the reverse, is sufficient to sustain the assertion that the export trade for the fiscal year will be equally as large, if not larger, than the fiscal year 1898. The exports of the manufacturers not only exceed the figures of any other year, but for the first time in the history of the country exceed the imports. This shows that not only are American manufacturers gaining prestige in foreign markets, but that domestic consumption is increasing as a result of the displacement of importa-

The absolute necessity of good roads should be forcibly impressed on the farming population of the locality north and south of here, as well as upon the merchants of The Dalles. All concede now-a-days the great value of good roads. The initial ex pense is the great impediment in the way of procuring them. With a bluntness of perception that is anything but creditable, the farmer prefers to maintain the old and useless system of 'working out road tax," under which roads are kept in continuous disrepair. Let the merchants argue the question with their country customers.

Improved accessibility tells upon every farm and adds to its value. Time and money, which are usually equivalent, are saved to the farmer, and to all whose business it is to communicate with him.

There is every reason to believe that good roads would go far in effecting a desirable revolution by multiplying the people in general are more able, I inducements to the career of agriculturists. The vastly increased economy and facility of haulage to shipping points and the increased pleasures of country life, which would be the outcome of good roads, would remove two of the most potent causes of the decadence of farming. Almost every farmer that comes to our city has some complaint to make regarding the condition of the roads even in the immediate neighborhood, yes, even within the city limits. These conditions are most deplorable and the Commercial Club should unite with the merchants and farmers and bring about some reform pertaining to the advisability of improving all roads leading to the city.

The roads have been neglected for some time past, and the season for wheat hauling will soon be at hand, not be excessively large, and the fact and with poor roads the producers will that the free wool imported has not evidently look for some market that will be more accessable simply because the combination won't work.

A sick man is in very much the same fix about getting at the nourishment he needs to keep him alive. There is plenty of good food at hand, but his digestive organism is out of order; the nutritive "combination" of his system won't work. He can't possibly get at the nourishment contained in the food. He takes it into his stomach, but it does him no good. It isn't made into good blood. He is just as badly off as if the food was locked up where he couldn't touch it. He gets no strength or health out of it. food was locked up where he couldn't touch it. He gets no strength or health out of it. All these mal-nutritive conditions have a perfect and scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts the nutritive "combination" of the system into perfect working order. It gives the digestive and blood-making organs power to make pure, red, healthy blood, and powr it into the circulation abundantly and rapidly. It drives out all bilious poisons and scrofulous germs, cures indigestion, liver complaint, nervousness and neuralgia, and builds up solid flesh, active power and nerve force.
