THE FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS

Complete returns from the election show that the republicans will have a clear working majority in both houses of the next congress. The senate is composed of 50 republicans, 31 democrats, five populists, three silver republicans and two populists. On all party measures it is safe to say that the republicans will vote as a unit, while the democrats, populists, silver republicans and fusionists will generally vote together. They will at least be almost a unit in opposing any financial legislation that will propose the retirement of the present credit currency and enlarging the powers of banks, and may be counted upon to stand pretty closely together on tariff legislation. On the other hand, the republicans in both houses will support a measure recommended by the administration for the revision of the financial system and on the tariff, but as to the question of territorial expansion they, as well as the democrats, will be divided.

GOVERNMENT FOR HAWAII

The Hawaiian commissioners have about concluded their labors, and their report will recommend a liberal form of government for the islands. The commission has favorably considered a proposition to give the islands a representative in the house with a vote, in which regard he would rank with the representatives, and not with the delegates from Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, who have the privilege of talking, but not the right of voting.

PHENOMENAL EARNINGS

Only one American railroad made a better showing in the way of increased earnings for October than the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern.

PLENTY TO KICK ABOUT.

The Times-Mountaineer says "It cost the people of Oregon nearly $30,000 to elect Joe Simon United States senator."

Admitting that it did, what difference does it make? Was the legislation enacted at the special session of no value? Was the saving of interest on unpaid warrants of no account should Oregon be deprived of her full representation in the coming session of congress when matters of the greatest moment are to be acted upon? And finally, what's the trouble with you: have you absolutely nothing of importance to kick about? Can't you find fault with the condition of the U. S. treasury, the price of wool, cattle, sheep, or hops, the general prosperity of the people, the result of the war, the conduct of our soldiers and officers in that war, nor anything under the sun except a paltry $30,000 expended under the laws and constitution of the state of Oregon.—Prineville Journal.

A WARM WELCOME.

W. R. Hurst, proprietor of the San Francisco Examiner and New York Journal, is to have a party in his honor after an absence of several months spent looking after his interests in the east, and his friends are so glad to see him that they have given him a most interesting reception. Claus Spreckle had him arrested for criminal libel, Martin Kelly wished to do him injury to indict him for perjury, Grove Johnson will sue him for damages to character, A. L. McDonald has begun an action for $80,000 for infringement on his Klondike map, and ex Senator Dunning has a $25,000 libel suit filed against him. These friends are aggrieved because Hurst has been stirring up some of their rottenness, and other friends will probably show their affection in a similar manner. While they are thus engaged Hurst will go right ahead showing on the nationality of these men. He is simply able to defend himself against such friends as these.

MR. SHERMAN TALKS.

When John Sherman resigned his seat in the United States senate to accept a place in President McKinley's cabinet, people wondered what was the case. It was presumed that it was to give Mark Hanna a place in the senate. Now we have it direct from Mr. Sherman that this was the cause of his resignation. In a recent interview with a New York World reporter Mr. Sherman said: "They really did not want me in the cabinet, but wanted my senatorial seat. It was represented to me that they could not make up the cabinet without me, and that questions were coming along that I ought to have control of. I know that Hanna wanted the rest of my term, and as he had always been friendly to me I did not desire to seem disobliging. So I resigned my seat and went into the cabinet. Mr. Hanna

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Now that we have all complied with the requests of the president and governor to give proper thanks for the bounties bestowed upon us, it is not amiss to search the pages of history and review the customs and causes that have brought about this generally observed day in America.

The grand old Pilgrim father, William Bradford, governor of the original New England colonies, belongs the honor of being the first to proclaim in America a general Thanksgiving day.

THE PRESIDENT'S POLICY.

The ablest politician in President McKinley's cabinet is thought to be Postmaster General Smith. He has recently given in an interview the policy of the administration on the important issues of the day. He declares the acquisition of all the Philippines has been determined on; the war taxes or most of them are to be retained; there is to be no attempt at currency reform at the approaching session of congress, it being thought best to leave this task for the next congress, which will be republican and for "sound money" in both branches. These are held to be the instructions of the people as delivered at the polls in the late election.

FOR NORTHERN OREGON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The president has appointed John Morgan collector of customs for the Southern district of Oregon.

NEEDS REGULATING.

Since the Pacific Bridge Co. began operations on its contract with the city to put in new water mains, it has been necessary to dig long trenches through the streets, in which to lay the new pipe, and to guard against any accident the chief engineer, Mr. Frye, has each night put a string of light lanterns along the trenches so as to warn the travelers of the places of danger. Somebody has made a practice of either carrying away the lanterns or putting out the lights, so as to leave the travelling public at the mercy of the treacherous trenches, into which the people might fall at any time, causing serious damage and possibly loss of life.

A Chance for Everybody to Buy Good Clothing.

It has been a common report to us that other dealers say that we have nothing but trash, but we will defy any house in our line in The Dalles to show as good a quality of goods as we carry for the money; those people know when they tell you this that they have goods that have been laying on their shelves since the year One and prices on them since the year '49, and when they know it to be a fact that our store, the
