AN AWFUL MARINE DISASTER.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 31.-The tween this port and the Channel islands, crashed upon the dreaded Casquet rocks, near the island of Alderney yesterday afternoon, in a dense fog, and foundered in 10 minutes. Her boilers exploded with tremendous report as she went down. The coasting steamer Lynx, which brought the news of the disaster here, picked up four boats and 40 persons. It is estimated that 120 persons were feed them."

The second officer of the steamer who was among the number rescued, says a collapsible boat was launched full of people, but he thinks it struck on the rocks, owing to the fog. Another steamer has picked up a boot containing 45 persons, including 20 women who escaped from the wrecked heavy loss. The American loss was

The Stella left Southampton yester day conveying the first excursion of the season to the Channel islands. There were about 185 passengers on board and a crew numbering 35 men. The weather was foggy. At 4 o'clock Casquet rocks suddenly loomed up through the fog bank, and the steamer almost immediately afterwards struck amidship. The captain, seeing the steamer was fast sinking, ordered the lifeboats launched. Women and children were embarked in the boats. Then the captain ordered the men to look after themselves.

A surviyor stated that he and 25 others put off from the steamer in a small boat. The sea was calm, but there was a big swirl around the rocks, When this boat was a short distance away from the wreck the boilers of the Stelia burst with a terrific explosion and the vessel dissappeared stern foremost in the sea. The last thing the survivor saw was the figure of the captain of the Stella standing on the bridge and caimly giving his last instructions. The captain parished with

WASHINGTON, April 2 .- The following has been given out at the state department: The secretary of state has received from the secretary of the navy a telegram to him by Rear-Admiral Kautz relating to Samoan affairs. It is dated Newcastle, N. S. W., March 30, 1899 and reads as follows: "The Mataafa people obeyed orders ts leave the government reservations. Since then they have become aggressive, killing Private Holloway and three British sailors, Our man killed was guarding the American consulate. The German consul issued an incendiary proclamation, saying that my proclamation was untrue and he should uphold the provisional government. The British forces act in concert with the United States, shelling the rebels where they can be reached."

A copy of the Telegram was sent to the German ambassador. The dispatch convinces the government that the high commission will find the Germans to blame and will result in the recalling of Rose, the German consul.
