Brown's body would be ornamenting a lamp post instead of his being comfortably housed in the county jail. But better judgment preyails, and the law will be allowed to take its course.

Thursday night, Billy Hoering was exercising his trotter on Union avenue, and when attempting to turn into pile back of Phillips' store, leaving Billy in the street. The animal escaped, and Billy hunted all night and until late yesterday afternoon before he found it tangled up in a picket fence near the old garrison. The animal was not injured, neither was Billy, but the cart was a total wreck.

An evidence of what can be grown on Wasco county soil without irrigation has been placed on exhibition at N. Whealdon's office by W. H. Sharp. It comprises sugar beets, several different varieties of carrots, parsnips and rutabagas, also some stalks of corn. The vegetables were grown on Mr. Sharp's farm near Five Mile and had no irrigation, and Mr. Sharp says such pecimens can be raised any year on the up-land in this locality if proper attention is given to cultivation.

Wife. While Intoxicated. One of the worst cases of human de prayity ever known in The Dalles oc curred about 6 A. M. Satu day. when W. R. Brown attempted to murder his wife with a knife. He had been out carousing all night and returned to his home on Twelfth street about 6 o'clock in the morning in au intoxicated conditior. Entering the hed room where his wife and two small children lay asleep he ordered her to get up. Mrs. Brown obeyed, and no sooner had she arose than be knocked her down with his fist. When she recovered from the stroke he ordered her to get or akfast. Mrs. Brown arose and went into the kitchen and proceeded to build a fire, when the brute again assaulted her, using a knife, stabbing her three times in the right shoulder above the collar bone. once in the back of the left shoulder and once in the back of the head. Neighbors hearing Mrs. Brown's screams came to her rescue, else the fiend would probably have finished his hellish undertaking. Those who came to the assistance of the unfortunate woman called Dr. Geisendorffer, who found the wounds as above stated, and reported them not necessarily fatal, though the knife with which they were inflicted, a 34inch clasp knife, was dirty and bloodpoisoning may set in, which would likely cause death. At a previous meeting a petition ha been received by B F. Laughlin and others asking to put a sidetrack in on Second street and the matter was re ferred to the judiciary committe which reported favorably, and it was ordered that said petition be granted. The matter of a new sewerage system was next considered, the re consideration of a resolution heretofore passed by the council having been, at last meeting, made a special order of business for this meeting, and on motion reconsideration of the reso lution was lost. Thereupon Council man Gunning introduced a resolution providing for the running of a branchsewer down Second street which carried by a vote of 8 to 1. The former esolution provided for the running of a branch sewer through private property, where as the present resolution calls for the construction of a sewer down Second street, on property owned by the city. The recorder was also authorized to advertise the location of the new proposed sewer at the sariiest possible date.

narshal was instructed to not enforce the ordinance against riding bicycles on sidewalks, with the provision that no bicycle should be ridden on Second street walks, that no one should ride on walks at an unusual speed, and that rider shall dismount ten feet before neeting a lady or child on the walk. STUMP PENCILS ARE MASCOTS. Members of the New York Stock Exchange Superstitious About

Load Sticks. "Talking of hoodoos and mascots, said a member of the stock exchange reports the New York Post, "the boys on the floor of the exchange are as superstitious as a lot of sailors. If you don't believe it you look at the lead pencils they are using the next time you are in the building. You won't find a man using a long ead pencil. Why? Because a long pencil is a 'hoodoo' of the worst kind. They always cut a new pencil in half pefore they sharpen it. Some of these encils acquire the reputation of be

"Less than a week ago I came down without my pencil, which, by the way, s a lucky one-every memorandum made with that pencil results in a profit for me-and I borrowed one rom a friend on the floor. He handed me a stump about an inch long, and 'You can use that; it's a lucky

"Sure enough, I made two deals in he morning, and each netted me a handome profit.

and Cheered for the Young Correspondent. Here is one to the credit of Richard Harding Davis. After the battle a heavy traveling bag or trunk was found with no owner at hand to claim it, says Nashville American correspondent. Several negroes of the Tenth cavalry regulars opened it and found a variety of fancy shirts, trousers, stockings and such like. These they immediately confiscated and began to bedeck them-

Shortly after Richard Harding Davis came upon the scene from another part of the field. He saw he had been de spoiled, but entered no complaint. An officer of the regiment, however, began to make inquiries. He asked where the clothes came from and was told. Turning to Mr. Davis he inquired: "Are these your clothes?" Mr. Davis bowed in the affirmative. "Then, men you should be doubly ashamed of your opening the trunk at all, but you have made a brave man your victim. When Staple and Fancy Groceries we were fired upon from ambush by the Spaniards Davis here was right in front of our column pointing out the Spaniards for us to shoot at. A soldier was shot down by his side. He picked up the gun and began firing immediately. He has just returned from the pursuit. Take off those garments. Mr. Davis, in behalf of my soldiers, I apologize for their thoughtless con ported that the following experimen was made under the direction of the French academy of sciences, with the body of a man who was guillotined. A moment after the operation the head was placed on a vertical pivot, on which, after some oscillations, it turned to the north and remained stationary. It was then turned part way by the professors in attendance and it moved back into the same north and south position. This was repeated until "the final cessation
