

THE WEEKLY OREGON SCOUT.

UNION, OREGON, SAT., OCT. 31, 1885.

Foreign Immigration.

One of the regular periodical spasms against the Chinese, seems to be agitating certain sections of the Pacific coast at present, which no doubt will result about like other movements of the kind—in the killing of a few Chinamen by mobs, worked up to a frenzy over real or imaginary wrongs, which, after the climax has been reached, will quietly subside and things will move along much the same as before. It is true that these movements are participated in principally by the most ignorant and rough classes; but this is explained in the fact that they are the ones that feel most heavily the effects of Chinese competition and cheap labor; and too illiterate and impatient to deal with these natives in a rational manner, and by the slow process of legislation, they obey their natural instincts to fall upon the offending source of annoyance—in this case the Chinese—and endeavor to annihilate them with violence. It is a matter of regret that causes bringing about such results should exist, but they always have existed and always will exist while the great motley mass of men have antagonistic interests, modes of living, and opinions, or until the whole system of social relationship governing the world to-day is done away with; which, if ever, will be at a period so remote that it is not worth while to figure on it at present. Agitations of this kind which are constantly occurring, although attended with the cutting off of the lives of a few unfortunate victims, no doubt is a spur to the more thoughtful and philanthropic portion of mankind to hasten the enactment of better laws, and the introduction of an order of things founded on the reasonable requirements of the great masses and yeomanry of the country, and viewed in this light, they cannot be considered barren of good results. No one can be more opposed to a resort to violence in the settlement of any question than we are, and the Scout will ever be found opposing the persecution of the Chinese, Indians, negroes or any other class of people. When it becomes the general sentiment of the people that the Chinese must go, the means are at hand to have them go peaceably. We wish the sentiment was more general than it is. The Chinese are a curse to the country, not more so perhaps than the rabble of other countries, which are emigrating to our shores, and a stop should be put to the whole thing. We have a large enough population now, and while protection should be given to all citizens within our borders, the influx of foreigners from any and all countries should be disengaged. Charity begins at home, and it is undoubtedly the duty of our government to adopt every safeguard for the protection and welfare of its present and prospective citizens. The remarks of a writer in the Oregonian is very much to the point. He says:

"The effect of the wholesale immigration of the lower and more ignorant classes of foreigners into our country has been two-fold. In the economical sense, we have greatly gained in wealth from the increase in the number of the laboring and producing classes, but in the social and political sense, we have greatly suffered from the vast concourse of foreign-born people, whose presence has changed or ignored the once prevailing American ideas. We have taken in this foreign element faster than we can assimilate it. Consequently, whenever it preponderates, as in most of the large cities, it has crowded the American element out of the control of public affairs, and fostered basism, corruption, and fraud to such an extent that municipal government in the United States is generally conceded to be a failure. Moreover, public lands of good quality, throughout our vast domain, have been becoming scarce for some years. We have now none to spare for the pauper classes of Europe. We have not enough left to supply the demands of our own young men for more than two more generations. Why, then, continue to sell or give lands and provide money to half a million of foreign immigrants per annum? We have begun a partial exclusion of the Chinese; why not now announce to the world that we propose to Americanize our present foreign-born population by one or two generations of purely American breeding and education, before admitting any more; and relieve our institutions, our society, and our public sentiment of the strain we have hitherto borne, before it wrenches the national structure entirely out of its original shape."

The commissioner of the general land office has instructed the register and receiver at Lakeview that a tract of land in Oregon being in an approved list of swamp land is no bar to a com-test, and that the character of the land may be enquired into at any time prior to the issue of patent. This is an important matter to the people of Oregon, as it opens up to contest by settlers a large amount of land that has been withdrawn from contest by the department on account of its approval by the general land office. It will evidently give the swamp-land grabbers a great deal of trouble, and may lose them a large portion of their swamp-land selections which they had supposed was secure on account of its having been approved by the department. Much of this land is good agricultural land, and what the swamp land grabbers will lose will be gained by honest settlers who have the best right to the public domain.—[Portland Standard.]

A POEM.

[Composed and written by Will H. Minick, and dedicated to Robert V. Davis and Viola V. Wilkinson, on their wedding day, Sunday, Oct. 11, 1885.]

I would fain descend to greet you,
Would st accept it from a friend?
Although absent from your wedding,
I would now this tribute send.

May the paths of life be pleasant
And no sorrows ever come
Toadden hearts of loved ones
That are ever in thy home.

May the love that now so fondly
Beams and flows from heart to heart
Ever grow brighter through life's progress
Till death your call to part.

May God's angels guide thy pathway
Guard and keep you from all ill.
The wish of honest friendship
From the heart of humble Will.
