

THE OREGON SCOUT.

JONES & CHANCEY, Publishers. UNION, - - - OREGON.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

COL. JAMES EDWARD CALHOUN, of Elberton, Ga., a man of wealth, letters, and eccentricity...

MEISSONIER has painted a full-length miniature of himself in which the face is said to be no bigger than a man's finger nail...

A CORRESPONDENT who recently saw Gen. Schenck says he looks old and grizzled. Old age has added seams and wrinkles to his homely features...

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES has a gray goose-quill with a gold pen fastened to it which, he says, has done every bit of his literary work.

MRS. LAWRENCE BARRETT will not travel with her husband this season, but remain at the Hotel Vendome, Boston.

KAISER WILHELMS is not only the oldest officer in the German army in point of age, but in point of service as well.

Miss JULIA FLETCHER, author of "Kismet," has been living in Rome for the past twelve years, with her mother and stepfather.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT has his left arm in a sling, a big black plaster on the bridge of his nose, and scratches all over his face.

TEN copies of the new ordinary edition in fac simile of the "Vicar of Wakefield" and ten copies of the large paper edition have been bound in wood from the panels of Dolly's chop house.

CHEVY CHASE, the comparatively unknown man, not "Chevy Chase," the famous ballad, is a relative of Tennyson.

THE duke of Argyll is to visit Dundee on Nov. 12 for the purpose of delivering the first course of Armistead lectures.

THE duke of Portland took a house at Doncaster this year, and entertained during the recent week a party of twenty-five bachelors.

ONE of President Arthur's friends kept watch of the newspapers and clipped out everything that was published about his matrimonial intentions.

THE queen wrote to all her family and announced her marriage to them, says Charles Greville in his memoirs.

THE funeral of M. Emile Perrin, late manager of the Comedie Francaise, was very imposing. In the procession which followed the remains to Montmarere cemetery were members of the institute, deputations from the Academy of the Fine Arts...

THE SLEEPING BEAUTY.

Platte County's Trance Wonder Still Fast in Deathlike Slumber.

Three Weeks Passes With No Sign of Returning Animation.

A Visit to the Girl's Home.

Columbus (Neb.) special to the Omaha Herald: The condition of Miss Minnie Dishner, who has lain in a death-like trance for over three weeks at the house of her father, John Dishner, six miles northeast of here, as fully described in a dispatch to the Herald yesterday, remains unchanged.

The most vigorous restorative measures have been tried without effect. Her hands and feet have been chafed until the skin was nearly rubbed off, plasters of every description have been applied to every part of the body, and portions of the flesh have even been pricked with needles...

The trance victim is a girl of medium stature, with a well-developed figure, which might even be called voluptuous. Her features are clear-cut and firm, and her face wears an expression of much sweetness, heightened doubtless by the peculiar smile, before referred to, which settled upon it at the outset of her long sleep.

To all intents and purposes she was a corpse. Not the slightest palpitation of the heart was perceptible. There was, to the casual observer, no respiratory motion. Only the close scrutiny of a physician's practiced eye could discover a single sign of life, and this was the feeble action of the pulse.

Local doctors are unanimous in declaring Miss Minnie's case the first of the kind in Nebraska, and they all declare they are non-placed as to a remedy.

THE LATE LOUIS RIEL.

His Last Letter to His Mother and Wife.

Father McWilliams has delivered the following letter to Riel's mother and wife at St. Vital.

My Dear Mother: I received your letter of benediction, and yesterday (Sunday) asked Pere Andre to place it upon the altar during the celebration of mass, that I might be held under the shadow of its blessing. I asked him afterwards to place his hand upon my head that I might readily receive it, as I could not attend at church, and he thus diffused upon me the graces of mass with its blessings.

Speaker Carlisle said to a reporter at Washington, in speaking of the plan proposed by Mr. Springer to change the rules of the house, that the plan did not originate with Springer.

dissatisfaction at the present rules and this movement is the result of that dissatisfaction. From what I hear, and the strong advocacy the plan seems to have, I think it is probable that the rules will be changed.

THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

A Complete List of the Members Thereof.

Showing Their Politics, Expiration of Term and Their Address.

A Valuable Document for Reference.

The following roll of the members of the new senate will prove convenient for reference during the forthcoming session, and should be preserved by those who may take interest in the proceedings of the United States senate:

Table listing members of the United States Senate by state, including names, terms, and addresses. States listed include Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

NEWS AND OTHER NOTES.

Kansas contains a population of 1,208,432. Judge Thurman says his old enemy, neuralgia, is after him again. General Logan expects to make fortune and fame out of the lasses. A daughter of Senator Ingalls is being educated at a Georgetown convent. The Marquis de Buto has just finished a $5,000,000 castle. The name of his plumber is not known. Gustavus Panckake has been appointed postmaster at Onego, Ohio. He is very popular with the lasses. Mr. Ruskin will soon resume his literary labors and amuse himself by perusing the many obituaries of himself. John Kelly expects to eat oranges in Florida this winter. Tammany will pick plums in New York, as usual. Postmaster General Nomura, of Japan, who is visiting this country, has not yet quite caught on to the immediate delivery system.

MATT RILEY.

A Once Active Person Who Shot Ten Men in Ten Minutes Single Handed.

An Eastern journal recently published an account of the shooting of eight Texans by Matt Riley in Kansas some years ago. The article concluded with the statement that Riley some years after the tragedy described, was attacked with paralysis and died in the Eastern States. Riley did not die in the East, but, on the contrary, is alive and a resident of San Francisco, where he has lived the greatest portion of the time since his celebrated adventures in Kansas caused a sensation throughout the Southwest.

Riley had formed McClusky's acquaintance at Laramie, where he met him in company with some of the most desperate characters that ever infested the West. Subsequently McClusky and Riley met on the Atchison and Topeka road, and they became partners in the preservation of the peace, and the proprietors of a hurdy-gurdy and gambling house at Newton.

At the first report of the Texan's pistols, Riley started for the dance house. His quick eye took in the tragic situation of his partner at a glance, and in an instant he had seized the nearest Texan by the neck, and, holding him up before him as a living target, opened a fusillade on the assassins.

After parting with Sullivan, Riley formed a partnership with the notorious Jack Wiggins, and opened a large saloon in Salt Lake City. On the opening night a Mormon known as Dutch John, who figured as a destroying angel, entered the saloon and intimated to Wiggins, that no Gentile would be allowed to run such an establishment in the city.

With that lofty consideration which distinguished Mormon justice, Wiggins was given the choice of death by hanging or shooting. He chose the rope, although exhorted by his rough friends to select the bullet as the most expedient and respectable agent of execution.

CHICAGO'S BOSS PALMER.

The Many Beauties of Mr. Potter Palmer's New Home.

Inter-Ocean:—Potter Palmer's palatial new residence upon the lake-shore drive, is considered by careful connoisseurs as the finest in the United States.

The great fireplace that spans one corner of this hall is the reproduction of one in a famous Italian castle, even to the elaborately carved wood that reaches above it to the ceiling or the iron rods and fire sets of smoked silver. The floor furnishes the most magnificent mosaic in the country, a combination of beauties in color and design that would be extremely difficult to describe without an illustration.

The ceiling of the Indian room, with its richly ornate carved frame of oak, appears to be the veritable maze of Indian tapestry. The browns, the pinks and gold, with tinting of mauve, appear in the color scheme, following the delicate and intricate in pattern that, beautiful in regularity, never reveals its beginning or end.

The Moorish room is upon the south side of the hall, abutting upon the conservatory. The woodwork of the room is polished curled maple. In its east side is a fireplace, with an elaborately-carved mantle tree inlaid with polished copper, and surrounded by a hood beautiful in symmetrical Moorish curves, and with an appearance of solidity.

The panels are the frames for decorations upon canvas applied to the wall. The colors are light blue, gold, silver, lemon, yellow, and salmon red; the decoration is a Persian vase, with conventionalized plant, the branches and leaves in silver, all following the line of curve. In the arc of the panel is a golden censor. Every window is canopied, and has a screen of carved lattice work, through which the light comes, showing to best effect the beauty of the room decoration, splendid in color, in poetry of design, and magnificent surroundings.

The Impending Crisis. From the Detroit Free Press. He got a letter out of his box at the Post office, which he hurriedly read and indignantly flung on the floor.

From your tailor? "I wish it was!" was the reply. "No; it's blackmail."

Mourning Her Lost "Daisy." From the Kansas City Times. "Daisy! O, Daisy!" almost shrieked a stylishly dressed lady at the Union Depot recently as she left her two children and hurried through the crowd.

A correspondent asks: If a man gets 1 cent the first day of a month, and he is to get it doubled every day for 31 days, how much will he have coming to him for the thirty-first day? The amount to be paid for the thirty-first day's wages would be over $10,000,000. The total amount to be paid for the entire 31 days would be over $20,000,000.