THE LATE VICE PRESIDENT. The Life and Public Services of Thomas Andrew Hendricks.

The following sketch of the life and public services of Vice President Hendricks, who died at Indianapolis, Ind., on the 25th, is teken from the Omaha Herald;

Thomas Andrew Hendricks was born in Muskingum county, Ohio, Sept. 7, 1819. His parents were unpretentious farm folk. In 1822 his father removed to Shelby county, Indiana, where the family settled permanently. Thomas was given a thor-ough common school education in the schools of the county. He early developed great assiduity in the pursuit of his studies, and led his young companions in almost every instance of juvenile rivalry for prefer-ment. He was sent from the Shelby county schools to South Hanover college where his schools to South Handver coincy where his record was one of brilliancy, in keeping with the promise of his early career, and from which he was graduated with honor in 1841. Young Hendricks then studied law at Chambersburg, Pa., and was there admitted to the bar in 1843. About this time one of the most striking of his characteristics began to develop, namely, his strength of personal conviction on leading questions, and the dignified positiveness and tenecity with which be maintained a personal opinion once firmly formed. It is said by those who knew him at that early day, however, that his opinions were never formed hastily, but when expressed showed careful consideration of the subject in hand from all sides. After being admitted to the bar in Chambersburg, Pa., he returned to Indiana to practice law, and was at once recognized as a young man far above the average intelligence, while his knowledge of legal matters attracted marked attention from the older barristers. Several cases of large importance won by him at that time commanded favorable comment throughout the state, and paved the way to his subsequent success. So well had be become known by 1848 that he was elected a member of the state legislature, and this was followed in 1850 by a still greater honor in his appointment by an overwhelming majority from his district as a delegate to the state constitutional convention. Success continued to follow his legal endeavors, and with it came a knowledge of persons and even not only in his own state but throughout the country, possessed by few men in the United States of more advanced years, and by none of his own age. In 1851 he was sent from the Indianapolis district to contend with un-flinching integrity and acknowledged ability for his constituents in that august body until 1855. In 1855 he was made commissioner of the general land office, a position which he filled, with the ability which had characterized all his previous public daties, until 1859. From 1863 to 1869, he was a member of the United States senate, where he was unanimously recognized as the leader of the democracy, of which he had since his entrance into politics been a staunch and sturdy member. The many rvices performed by him for the part during this trying legislative period, his de termined advocacy of measures which time proved among the best ever-debated, and is equally determined opposition to every effort against the public welfare, are mat-ters of national record, and need no claboration. On the floor of the senate, surrounded by men of force and wide scope, no man compelled more attention, and his many utterances on great public problems were received with the most serious attention. No better evidence of the lasting imthe fact of his very strong support for the nomination at the national democratic convention in New York in 1868. Many of not so familiarly acquainted with him, were, nevertheless, his political supporters. Mr. Hendricks was defeated for the governor-ship of Indiana in 1860 and 1868, but he was elected to that position in 1872 for the term ending January 1, 1877. His administration of the state government was one of the best, if not the very best, ever experienced by its people, and, had he been willing to accept renomination, he might and undoubtedly would have been returned to the gubernatorial chair until he desired to relinquish it from sheer weariness. He was, however, nominated as the demo-cratic candidate for vice president on the ticket with Samuel J. Tilden, was elected with him to the high office, and with him was counted out in the immortal electoral fraud of 1876. From that year until 1880 he took no active part in politics, devoting himself with great energy to the demands upon him as undoubtedly the legal leader of his state. In 1880 he was strongly urged at the national democratic convention in Cincinnati for the vice presidency on the ticket with Gen. Hancock, but his friends were not successful in securing that position for him. From 1880 until 1884, when, as every inhabitant of the country knows, he was victoriously nominated for the vice presidency on the ticket with Mr.

Mr. Richberg says that he has discovered another precedent in the Mackin case which was entirely overlooked in the previous arguments, but will be submitted when the case is heard by the supreme court and he believes will be convincing. It is the case of Pertect, decided by the supreme court in March last, and reported in the 114th volume of supreme court decisions. The points involved are similar to those in the Wilson case, and the decision is nothing more or less than affirming that. He says reversed its decision in one case, but was the court sometime ago reconsidered and never known to go back on a position it has twice taken, and he feels very confident that the Blodgett decision will be reversed. Mr. Richberg and Mr. Wilson had a long conference, in which it was decided to defer entirely to the wishes of the department of justice regarding the date of the argument.

Warming the North Atlantic Climate. A New York engineer, J. C. Goodridge,

Jr., suggests a plan for moderating the :limate of our North Atlantic coast. He assumes that the renson we do not get the benefit of it now is that we have between as and it a Polar current, coming down slong the coast of Labrador through the Straits of Belle Isle, and forming the cold western wall of the Galf Stream. The existence of this current is well established. What Mr. Goodridge proposes is, that it should be stopped in the Straits of Belle Isle by a dam at a point where it is about ten miles wide and 150 feet deep. The dam, he says, could be built with the adjacent rocks, and the cost would not exzeed $40,000,000. The effect of this would be, he calculates, to change the temperature of the coast from Cape Hatteras to Newfoundland. Nova Scotia would have a climate as mild as Cape May, and Block Island and Cape Cod would become winter watering places.

An Improvement.

The western journalist is fast acquiring the amenities of polits and refined society. Says a Detroit man, "The office boy of our esteemed contemporary is, in the editor's absence, still trying to palm himself off on the community as his intelligent and wellinformed principal," Now, everybody must admit that this is a great advance upon the custom which formerly obtained of speaking of a brother editor as "the emptyheaded sycophant across the way," or "the presiding jackass of the low-down menagerie whose vile smelling odors pollute the surrounding atmosphere." But it terribly severe on the office boy .- [Boston Transcript.

A Trip to Coltax Springs.

Colfax Springs, on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, is a popular health resort to which many Western people go to try the waters, which are noted or their healing properties. They are claimed to be beneficial for rheumatism and kindred troubles. Mr. Charles P. Griffin, a butcher of Stuart, In., recently nade a trial of them and, while they appear to have done him some good, he afterwards discovered a cure which proved in-Unitely more efficacious. He gives this accounts

"My attack was a very severe one, and for three months I was compelled to close my store, as I was not able to attend to business at all. My joints were swollen and there did not seem to be any part of my body that did not ache. After suffering in this way until the pain was almost beyond endurance I went to Colfax Springs to try the effects of the waters. The day I left home I had to be carried down stairs. After remaining at the Springs a month I came back home feeling somewhat better. A few weeks later, however, I had a relapse which prostrated me the same as before. It was at that time that I learned of Athlophoros. I sent for a bottle of it, and in fifteen minutes after I had taken the first dose I felt the effects of it, and when I had finished my third pression made by him on the minds of the bottle I was well. I have not had any leading men of the times to be found than phonontism since and have attended to my rheumatism since and have attended to my business every day, which is a thorough test, as I am obliged to be out all kinds of the greatest men in the party were his strong personal friends, add many others. I had known of Athlophoros in the first place it would have saved me hundreds of dollars and the detriment to my business in closing my store. I take great pleasure in recommending it to others.

Dr. L. D. Rounds, a dentist, for sixteen years a resident of Oskaloosa, but for the past three years of Albia, Ia., relates an qually pleasant experience with Athlophoros

"Rheumatism," he says, "has been my most serious trouble until about a year ago, when I used a bottle of Athlophoros. Since that time I have not had a twinge of it. Previously I had been subject to scintic rheumatism for several years, many tim s so badly that I could scarcely drag myself around. When I commenced with Athlo-phoros my legs were so stiff that I could scarcely get up the steps to my office. But am not troubled that way now, and the joint of my legs are as free as they ever were. I had tried so many remedies before that I had no faith in Athlophoros when I began with it, but I changed my mind after had taken a few doses and found relief. All I used was one bottle. It is the grand-est medicine ever heard of for rheumatism. My wife has also used Athlophoros with success equal to mine.'

"During the years I have been in business," says O. E. Givins, a druggist at Stuart, Mr. Griffin's home, "I have sold nany different kinds of proprietary medicines but none that has given such univer-sal satisfaction as Athlophoros has for rheomatism. I always feel when I hand out a bottle of that medicine to a customer that I am giving him the full value of his money. Since I have seen its wonderful effects among my customers I gladly recommend it is every instance for rheumatism."

Disagreeable---Dangerous.

Catarrh is an exceedingly disagreeable disease, its varied symptoms discharge at the nose, bad breath, pain between the eyes, coughing, choking sensation, ringing noises in the cars. &c .- being not only troubiesome to the sufferer but offensive to others. Catarrh is also dangerous, because it may lead to bronchitis or consumption. Being a blood disease the true method to cure is to purify the blood. To purify the blood take Hood's Sarsaparilla, by which many sufferers from estarrh have been cured.
"I suffered three years from catarrh, and my gen eral health was poor in consequence. When I took Hood's Sarsaparilla I found I had the right remedy. The catarrh is yielding, as Hood's Sarsaparilla is cleansing my blood, and the general tone of my system is improving. "-FRANK WARBURN, Rochester.
