

Our readers will notice in this week's issue, on this page, a change from the small advertisement of Le Page's Liquid Glue, showing the small can or bottle. Instead of the simple announcement of its merits, those who use it, amount of sales, how simple can be obtained, etc., the Russian Cement Company perform a praiseworthy act in revealing a fraud which is the more contemptible, because it affects only the smallest size for family use (of bottle goods), and therefore affects those who are obliged to buy in small quantities rather than those who are able to stand the imposition. In addition to the statements of the advertisement, which we have from good authority are exact in details, we have it from sources unquestioned that various statements promulgated through the press, by show cards, etc., of other glues as receiving endorsements from high government officials, are entire fabrications with not even the color truth. In point of fact, the Smithsonian Institution (as well as other Government Departments) have used, and still use, LE PAGE'S LIQUID GLUE exclusively, reason for which is found in its containing no acid, while all other glues all others have an acid base, and in its superior strength. At New Orleans, on a Riehle Testing Machine, a block of Georgia pine, one inch square, butted, registered 1612 pounds before parting. LE PAGE'S LIQUID GLUE does not need our special praise, the fact that such manufacturers as the Russian Cement Co., have adopted it shows its worth to every wood worker, and for every family in the land.

It Astonished the Public to hear of the resignation of Dr. Pierce as a Congressman to devote himself solely to his labors as a physician. It was because his true constituents were the sick and afflicted everywhere. They will find Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," a beneficial use of his scientific knowledge in their behalf. Consumption, bronchitis, cough, heart disease, fever and ague, intermittent fever, dropsy, neuralgia, colic or thick neck, and all diseases of the blood, are cured by this world-renowned medicine. Its properties are wonderful, its action magical. By druggists.

Nearly $2,000,000,000 would be due were all insured Americans to die at once.

"Say, why is everything either at sixes or at sevens?"

Probably, my dear nervous sister, because you are suffering from some of the diseases peculiar to your sex. You have a "dragging-down" feeling, the back-ache, you are debilitated, you have pains of various kinds. Take Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" and be cured. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

John L. Sullivan on Health.

That great physical courage and prowess have many admirers is proven by the attendance at the Central Theatre every night. Long before the hour for the beginning of the performance every seat in the spacious auditorium is filled and the legend "Standing Room Only" is displayed at the box office. Several women were present on the opening night, and at least one well-known church official, says the Philadelphia News. The attraction was John L. Sullivan, the "undisputed champion of the world," in his representations of Greek and Roman statuary. Besides there was a minstrel performance, but it was only of tertiary importance. I found "the big fellow" in an entrance watching the feats of a couple of acrobats and accompanied him to his dressing-room, where I saw him "make up" for his act. Divesting himself of his street clothing, he first drew on a pair of tight, which were worthy of the name, for they were at least two sizes tighter than his skin, and though elastic it required the giant and his assistants at least ten minutes to draw them on him. A very strong elastic band at the waist made them fit his body like a glove. Then he was hand-rubbed and slapped from the waist up.

"What is that done for?" I asked. "To bring the blood to the surface and arouse the electricity in my system. It makes me feel good and lively." Then he was wiped dry and his skin glistened and glistened like polished marble. "I'm a little too fat," said he. "I weigh now 231 pounds. I would be better at 225. I'll get there the next week stand we make."

"How?" I asked. "Why, by doing a little work. Every one ought to do enough work to keep him in good condition," he replied.

"John," said I, "there are lots of people who are not fighters or athletes—men who are clerks, or in sedentary positions, who would like to know just how to 'condition' themselves in the spring. What ought they to do?" "In the first place," he answered, "they ought to set apart fifteen minutes to half an hour every morning for exercise. More than half of them lie in bed until the last moment in the morning, then jump up, dress in a hurry, and go right to the breakfast table and wonder why they have no appetite and feel dull and stupid. The human stomach was not made to be treated that way. A man should, after getting up, take a ten minutes' brisk walk if possible, or, if that is not convenient, use a light pair of dumb-bells for three or four minutes, so as to bring on a slight perspiration. Then he should rub himself dry with a coarse towel, and after that take a sponge or towel bath. Then after he has rubbed himself dry, he should rub and slap himself briskly as I have done just now. Then after dressing let him go to the table and eat a couple of poached eggs on toast, or a bit of nice steak with bread and coffee, and he will be fit for his day's work, and my word for it, he will want no other tonic to give him an appetite for his dinner. Should he need a laxative he can find few things better than plenty of fruit. Stewed prunes eaten at night are excellent. If a young clerk does as I have said for two weeks and don't find himself as fine as a fiddle there is something serious the matter with him and he had better consult a good doctor."

Buell on Shiloh.

General Buell's contribution to the Century Magazine for March, is a paper that will not make peace on the subject of the greatly disputed battle. It opens with this paragraph: Twenty-three years ago the banks of the Tennessee witnessed a remarkable occurrence. There was a wage of battle. Heavy blows were given and received, and the challenger failed to make his cause good. But there were peculiar circumstances which distinguished the combat from other trials of strength in the rebellion: An army comprising seventy regiments of infantry, twenty batteries of artillery and a sufficiency of cavalry lay for two weeks and more in isolated camps, with a river in its rear and a hostile army claimed to be superior in numbers twenty miles distant in its front, while the commander made his headquarters and passed his nights nine miles away on the opposite side of the river. It had no line or order of battle, no defensive works of any sort, no outposts, properly speaking, to give warning or check the advance of an enemy, and no recognized head during the absence of the regular commander. On a Saturday the hostile force arrived and formed in order of battle, without detection or hindrance, within a mile and a half of the unguarded army, advanced upon it the next morning, penetrated its disconnected lines, assaulted its camps in front and flank, drove its disjointed members successively from position to position, capturing some and routing others, in spite of much heroic individual resistance, and steadily drew near the landing and depot of supplies in the pocket between the river and an impassable creek. At the moment near the close of the day when the remnant of the retreating army was driven to refuge in the midst of its magazines, with the triumphant enemy at half-gunshot distance, the advance division of a reinforcing army arrived on the opposite bank of the river, crossed, and took position under fire at the point of attack; the attacking force was checked, and the battle ceased for the day. The next morning at dawn the reinforcing army and a fresh division belonging to the defeated force advanced against the assailants, followed or accompanied by such of the broken columns of the previous day as had not lost all cohesion, and after ten hours of conflict drove the enemy from the captured camps and the field of battle.

The Burglar and the Cashier.

A New York bank cashier, who was making preparations to go to Canada, having occasion to return to the bank after night, found that a burglar had opened the safe, and was extracting the contents. "Now I've got you. Throw up your hands!" exclaimed the cashier, drawing a pistol. "Bah!" replied the burglar, contemptuously. "You keep quiet or I'll tell the directors how much money I didn't find in the safe." The cashier recoiled with horror and dismay at the suggestion. "You had a mighty narrow escape from catching a burglar," continued the night of the jimmy. "Next time I come, if there ain't more cash in the safe I'll land you in Sing Sing," and after obtaining a contribution from the cashier, the burglar withdrew, smiling.—[Texas Sitings.]

A Popular Ex-Mayor.

Ex-Mayor Newton, of Des Moines, Ia., is deservedly popular in the city over whose destinies he presided, by reason of the many good deeds and the unostentatious acts of charity which he is constantly doing. Successful as a politician, he has also recently been playing the part of a good Samaritan with a success equal to his triumphs in politics. The fainting traveler by the wayside, whom he has raised up and refreshed by good counsel in the last instance, is Mr. George A. Crandale, the manager for Oberne, Hosick & Co., Second and Walnut streets. Mr. Crandale, who naturally feels under many obligations to the Ex-Mayor, tells us as follows how he came into such a wretched plight as to need help and how it was cheerfully given:

"I have never had an ache or pain of rheumatism," he said, "since I used Atlophoros; and the medicine cost me only $3. If any one had guaranteed to cure me I would willingly have paid him $50, yes $100. My rheumatism was inflammatory, mostly in my ankles, but a little in the wrist. I could manage to hobble around by the use of canes, but I felt as if I were walking on the bare bones, or in other words as if my feet were off and I was walking on the stumps. The pain was terrible to bear, yet I managed to be about and to attend to my business.

"One day, during the time I was suffering so much, I hobbled to the Court House to look after some matter. As I was struggling to get up the steps I met ex-Mayor Newton, who asked me what the trouble was. I told him that it was rheumatism, whereupon he advised me to get a bottle of Atlophoros. I did not get it then, as I had no faith in patent medicines and did not want to take any. A short time after this I wrote to an old friend, Charles P. Griffin, of Stuart, to inquire what had cured him. I knew that he had been confined to his bed with rheumatism of the worst kind. His answer was: 'Get Atlophoros. That is what cured me.' I then got some, but really had no faith in its curing me. I began to get relief from it in twenty-four hours. I continued taking it until I had used three dollars worth, when my feet were free from the pain and the swelling was gone, and I have not had any return since. That is now over a year ago."

Ex-Mayor Newton based his recommendation of Atlophoros upon the very remarkable cure it had effected in the case of his wife. "That lady," he said, "has been comparatively free from rheumatism for the past year and a half. Previous to that I had been a great sufferer for years and had resorted to many remedies, but nothing would do what Atlophoros did for me. I have had a few twinges and do not attribute that to myself, but if I have any, I do not hesitate to be so careful as I should have been. Atlophoros took the stiffness out of the joints of my fingers and gave me the use of my hands, in which I had so long had trouble. I have recommended it in many cases and in every instance that I know of the result has been very satisfactory. I do not hesitate in the least to recommend it most heartily to every rheumatic sufferer."

If you cannot get Atlophoros of your druggist, we will send it, express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he has none, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. Atlophoros Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

Persuading an Editor.

Editor (shivering in his night garments, and peering over the banisters into the gloom below)—"Who's there?"
Voice below—"A burglar."
Editor (with his teeth chattering)—"I thought so. Did you shut the door behind you when you came in?"
Burglar—"I didn't."
Editor—"I was sure you didn't. The blast coming up stairs is half freezing me. Is it not enough that I am made the victim of such neglect all day at my office, without having you come around here in the dead of night and adding to my misery? Go back and shut the door."

The conscious stricken burglar at once retraced his steps, and shut the door from the outside, leaving the editor's vaults untried.—[Boston Courier.]

The Sunday Newspaper.

Gentlemen, there is a good deal of talk as to the propriety or necessity of abolishing the Sunday newspaper. Now the good newspaper is a good thing, on Sunday as on other days. The bad newspaper is known at a glance, and it will be admitted to the house of no gentleman who manages the literature which ought to be under his charge on Saturdays or Wednesdays or Sundays. Suppose, because there are bad clergymen, we should propose to abolish the pulpit? That would not be reasonable; but in all this discussion about the Sunday journal there has been no one to suggest a proper selection of Sunday periodicals or literature, the question being the very broad one whether to have Sunday newspapers or to abolish them.
