A DASTARDLY DEED .- Our Elgin correspondent's letter, concerning the celebration, came to hand too late for publication last week, and most of the items are too ancient for news now, The following, however, we take from it: "Mr. C. N. White, who lives about a quarter of a mile from town, had a peculiar experience a few days ago, and if it had not been for two mice which were found dead in a sack of flour, his whole family would have been poisoned. Mr. White went to get some flour to make bread, and perceiving that the mice had been in the flour, concluded not to use that sack, but let it undergo a thorough examination. Some of the flour was thrown to the pigs two of which died, and two more had fits showing the symptoms of poisoning by strichnine. A kitten that ate one of the mice also died. There can be no doubt that the flour was poisoned by some one. Mr. White has kept some of the flour for the purpose of getting it tested, and if the perpetrator of the dastardly deed is ever found he should be hung to the first tree.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS .- A dispatch dated Peudleton, July 12th, says: The transfer of the books of N. Hendricks, a three termer republican treasurer of Umatilla county, to his successor to-day revealed the fact that he was $6000 short on the state school fund and some $12,000 short on the county general fund, $18,000 in all. No efforts were made to conceal the shortage. Hendricks no doubt intended, and it is said was promised the money, to replace the de-ficiency. His bondsmen nine in number, are held in the sum of $30,000. They will pay the shortage, as to-day they started suit against Hendricks for $19,000. Attachments were levied on the firm of Houser & Hendricks by Murphy, Grant & Co.. San Francisco, and a number of Portland houses, for over $18,000. The firm is thought to be solvent, but will be crippled by attach-ments. Hendricks cannot account for the money, but it is thought he used the most of it in buying into the firm. He has considerable property. The town is wild with

OUR HORSES IN NEW YORK,-The Oregonian says: An occasional correspondent at Geneva, New York, writes under date of the 4th inst.: The first through train of live stock to be sent over the Northern Paeific railroad arrived in Geneva, New York, June 28. It was a trainload of horses from the stoch ranch of Hoxter & Newell, Gol-dendale, W. T., and left Prosser, W. T., June 15. W. D. Hoxter, W. J. Hoxter, Albert Tozier, Henry Sicade and Lewis That cher, of Washington county, and Ben Martin and James Hopkins, of Klikitat county, were in charge of the stock. It is the largest band of horses seen in New York for years and thousands of people visit the pasture where the largest are grazing to see ture where the horses are grazing to see what Oregon and Washington territory can do in the line of horse flesh. Ladies assemble by the hundreds, and many are taking their first lessons in horseback riding.

MULTNOMAH FALLS.—The finest picture ever published of the beautiful Multnomah Falls is the one occupying two pages of the printed in three colors and shows the falls with all the grace fulness and tints of nature. As a whole the July number is a magnificent one, all the illustrations being printed in colors. They embrace views at the seaside, pioneer's reunion, etc. In future, all illustrations of the "West Shore" will be executed in colors, equal in artistic effect to the present num-ber. This renders the "West Shore" superior artistically to any other publication Views of our Western seenery at all approaching in beauty those published in this magazine can not be procured anywhere, and it should be found in every house west of the Missouri river, Published by L. Samuel, Porltand, Oregon.

EXAMINATION OF BENNETT.-On Monday last Wm. Bennett, the murderer of Legore. was arraigned before Willis Skiff, J. P. of this city, charged with murder in the first Geo. C. Israel and Jno. R. Crites were attorneys for the prosecution, and M. Baker appeared for the defense. Bennett waived examination, and the prosecution proceeded to examine their witnesses which consumed the greater portion of the day. We were at considerable trouble get ting the testimony for publication, but as the information elicited by the examination is substantially the same as has been given to our readers heretofore, and as it is only one side of the question any way, we have concluded not to publish it. Bennett was committed, without bail, to await the action of the grand jury.

AINSWORTH MINE.-The Baker City Sage Brush says: "The Ainsworth mine, at the head of Rattlesnake gulch, three miles from Sparta, and owned by Wm, Ainsworth and Gee. Ross, has now in successful op-eration a Salmon mill, manufactured by the Union Iron Works, Portland, Oregon. Mr. Ross, while on a recent trip to Portland, purchased a rock crusher which was to have arrived here yesterday. The capacity of the mill is from six to ten ton every 24 hours and will be run night and day. They have on the dump in the neighborhood of 150 tons of exceedingly rich ore, and a full quota of laborers who will push the work until SETTLED AT LAST .- The mandate from the Supreme court of Oregon, in the celebrated case of R. C. Sugette vs J. A. A. Wilson, et al, has been received. It is the final decision of the case, the plaintiff receiving a judgement for the principal and interest sued for. This has been one of the most bitterly contested suits that has ever taken place in Union county. The attorneys for the plaintiff were J.sR. Crites and R. Eakin, the defendant, we are informed, had egiht lawyers, including the district attorney.

STAMP MILL - A gentleman in from Pine creek mines, called on us last Saturday and informed us that Messrs. Torey and Tolman left Cornucopia last Friday for San Francisco where they will purchase a ten stamp mill. It will be erected at Cornucopia. The gentleman also says that the camp looks well and showed us specimens of gold-ore that had a tendency to make an editor feel like a highwayman.— Revellie. ld-ore that had a tendency to make an Jack Vincent, proprietor of the Cornuco ois and Union stage line, did not get ready to make the first trip, last Monday, as he expected, on account of the sixteen horses, which were furnished by A. E Eaton, being somewhat wild, and requiring to be trained some before hitching in. He informs us that he will make the first trip next Monday without fail, and regularly thereafter.

From D. P. McDaniel, who came in from the mining districts, we learn that numerous rich placer mines are being discovered along the line of the new road, and especially on Eagle creek. He says that a man by the name for Bryen has taken two or three ounces of coarse nuggets, almost from the road bed, near the bridge, and other prospectors are having the same kind of luck.

The pole cats have recently been making sad havor with Al. Goodbrod's chickens and ducks. They tunnel into the chicken house during the night, and slay the in-mates by the dozens. During the last two weeks they have killed at least 400 chickens and ducks, and notwithstanding extraordi-bary measures have been taken to capture the marauders, Mr. Goodbrod has only succeeded in capturing one.

A man supposed to be W. W. Saunders, the Linn county nurderer, was arrested in Walla Walla, a few days ago. When the deputy sheriff arrived from Albany, to take deputy sherili arrived from Alia if was not charge of the prisoner, he said if was not Saunders, although bearing a remarkable resemblance to him. Several other parties, however, who were intimately acquainted with Saunders, have visited the prison, and declare that he is the right man. It is a rather peculiar case.

D. W. Shehan arrived in this city on Friday evening of last week, having come from Cornucopia, over the new road, to this city Cornucopia, over the new road, to this city in one day. He brought a petition to the county court, numerously signed by citizens of Cornucopia, asking that he be appointed Justice of the Peace of that precinct, which was complied with, and he went home rejoicing. We understand that a competitor was en route to this city via the old road, for the purpose of asking the same favor of the county court, but arrived long after his opponent had been, and seen, and conquered. The moral is obvious,

The New Road.

D. P. McDaniel, chairman of the Pine Creek Road Commissioners, came in from the road on Tuesday last, and from him we learn that he road builders will probably reach Coroucopia the last of this week, when they will return and finish the road as they come back, which will occupy about two weeks. From what we can learn there is considerable feeling existing among the residents of Cornacopta over the fact that the road is being built by way of Pine Valley, instead of straight across the hills to Cornucopia, according to Griffiths' second survey, which is two miles nearer, Mr. McDaniels informs us that he, and the other commissioners, until recently, thought that the latter was the route adopted by the county court, as they had been expressly informed so by Judge Craig, and that they gave the contract to Shaw & McLeod understanding it that way. The contract specifies that a certain kind of road shall be built, commencing at Goose creek, on the Griffiths survey, and from thence to Cornucopia a distance of 244 miles. Not until the road was half built, and the point of turning off nearly reached. was it discovered, by Mr. McDaniel, in an accidental manner, that the county court had adopted the other survey-the one running by Dan. Moore's ranche, giving as their reason for doing so, (while they thought the other was the best route) that this was the one specified in the petition, and that they had no right to designate any other, unless they were asked to do so by another petition, which had not been done. The County Commissioners were no doubt correct in their action concerning the matter, but why they and the State Road Commissioners did not have a full and complete understanding as to which survey the road should be built on, before the contract was let, is beyond our comprehension. Such was not the case, however, and when the contractors were informed that the road must be built on the lower survey, they very naturally demurred, as it would necessitate the building of two more miles of road. They announced their intention of building the number of miles of road the contract calls for and no more, but said if the citizens of Cornucopia would have the road supervisor of that district put in the road work on those two miles, they would assist in putting the road through in good shape without further controversy. At a meeting of the citizens of Cornucopia, held that evening, they resolved to do nothing of the kind, and seemed to be under the impression that the County Court, the Road Commissioners and the contractors were all a set of thieves, working together, for their mutual benefit We believe that our Cornucupia friends are laboring under an erronneour idea, when they think so. The County Court may have been slow in its action-too slow in fact, but that it desired the completion of the road cannot be questioned in view of its appropriation of $1000 towards the building of this end of the road. We believe the contractors desire to, and will, build as good a road as the contract calls for. And while two of the Commissioners appointed by the State. may deserve all that has been said of them, we believe that Mr. McDaniel, the chairman of the board, has acted as well as he knew how, and has had a sincere desire to build the road as well and economically as possible. We are of the opinion that our Cornu copia friends have been a litle hasty in their actions and expressions, and that they will see it before many days. We understand that the contractors. rather than have any trouble, will build the extra two miles of road, although they think it is more than their contract calls for. There is no doubt that a blind, unreasoning hostility toward the road has been entertained by some whose duty it was to see it built. This has not only been the feeling of certain individuals, but it has been entertained by neighboring towns. Baker City and La Grande have been hostile to the move ever since it was inaugurated. The former because it knew that nearly all the trade of Pine creek would be deflected from it into Union county as soon as the road was completed. and the latter because it imagined the town of Union would be benefitted more than La Grande, and it was, therefore, willing to sink the whole county, or do anything in the world to defeat the road. The machinations of these localities, and the scheming of rascals, have not succeeded, however, in killing the road (although, for a time it looked as though they would succeed) and we may say that the work is about completed. A stage line has been established over the route, and is now making regular trips. The beneficial effects of the road are beginning, and will continue to be felt by the people of Union county, notwithstanding the chagrin of those who hoped it would never be built. The residents of Cornucopia
